STATE TO LET $32,584,000 IN HIGHWAY JOBS

Chicago's Share Not Yet Decided.

BY HAL FOUST.

Springfield, Ill., Oct. 2.—[Special.]—The state is preparing to award $32,584,000 worth of highway contracts this fall and this winter. The announcement was made today by Frank Sheets, state highway engineer.

Chicago hopes to get $2,000,000 worth of these improvements. However, the city's share has not been promised, according to Mr. Sheets. Illinois motorists, paying 44.6 per cent of the state's road bill, will be contributing $14,532,464 to the cost of the batch of contracts.

Many Jobs Downstate.

The $32,584,000 program is expected to be effective in relieving unemployment downstate. Mr. Sheets estimated that from 3,000 to 3,500 men can be used on the roads this winter and that the contracts will give jobs to 3,000 men in the early spring. In addition to those engaged directly on the projects, according to the state engineer, the contracts will give employment to 7,000 men through the latter preparing material and supplies.

In Chicago, where the unemployed do not have gardens or sacks of beans and potatoes in cellars, $2,000,000 worth of state highway work will furnish jobs for 200 men, according to Mr. Sheets' basis of estimating. The city, although paying 44.6 per cent of the cost, would be receiving only 6 per cent of the unemployment relief incidental to this construction program.

Notwithstanding the state highway department's millions of dollars of available resources, Gov. Emmerson has refused to indorse the proposal for a special session of the legislature to start construction of an elevated highway this winter. According to the Chicago Plan commission, this would furnish employment to between [illegible] and 30,000 men, and it would give to Chicago motorists improved traffic facilities which would be no more than a fair return on their gasoline taxes and state license fees.

Large Fund for Counties.

The state highway engineer also made known that the counties have revenues sufficient for extensive road work this winter, thus giving the chance for more employment. On Sept. 1 there was $9,210,775 in the state treasury to the credit of county highway departments. The counties, from their 1 cent share of the gasoline tax, will get $3,621,020 to their credit between Sept. 1 and Jan. 1.

Furthermore, Mr. Sheets added, the counties can anticipate $9,000,000 revenue in 1932, not for the purpose of borrowing from this money, but for the purpose of awarding contracts on which payments will not become due until this 1932 money begins to pour into the treasury. This makes a total of $21,941,775 available for county road work.

The state, in its program to award $32,584,000 worth of contracts this fall and winter, is anticipating part of its $50,000,000 revenue in 1932. Payments to contractors will be small until after the first of the year when the $18,000,000 in license fees will start to reach the state treasury. The gasoline taxes, running higher this year than ever before, give the state an average of $1,620,000 a month from its part of the excise.

In State Road Funds.

The state treasury on Sept. 1, according to its latest report, had a balance of $30,229,596 in all road funds, including $2,000,000 in unsold bonds. Of this total there was $18,340,181 available to the state for road purposes. There is $7,681,504 required for the bond sinking fund, for maintenance, for refunds to counties and so forth. Between Sept. 1 and the first of the year $14,949,000 revenue is expected, of which $10,947,980 will be available for state road construction.

From the state's 1932 revenue there will be $18,170,000 available for contracts. Adding the fund on hand on Sept. 1 to the money expected by the first of the year and the revenue which can be anticipated next year totals a total of $49,776,657 for state road work. With the counties' $21,941,775, there is $71,618,432 in view for state and county road building.

If the counties furnish employment with their money on the same basis as Mr. Sheets' estimate for the state there will be 4,460 men employed on outdoor road work in Illinois this winter and 8,500 engaged during the cold months preparing materials for the opening of the paving season in the spring when 22,310 men will be needed.

THOMAS LIPTON, WHO NEVER QUIT TRYING, IS DEAD

Spent Millions in Quest of $500 Cup.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 2.—Great Britain tonight mourned the loss of one of the world's greatest sportsmen — Sir Thomas Lipton. The famous old sea dog, who was also one of the great merchant princes of the world, died peacefully in his sleep this evening at the age of 81. Several friends were at the bedside, but no relatives, since he was unmarried and the last of his family.

Sir Thomas, who made his millions in the tea which bears his name, died without realizing the greatest ambition of his life, to win back for Great Britain the America's cup, a yachting trophy which was won from Great Britain by America in 1851.

Heart Attack Causes Death.

Death was due to a heart attack following a severe chill which he suffered while motoring a few days ago. Sir Thomas had arranged to sail on the Leviathan for America tomorrow on a short business trip. He had made arrangements to occupy the cabin he had had since 1922. He always traveled on the Leviathan. To enable him to have this particular cabin another passenger was transferred. Early this morning Sir Thomas' secretary canceled the reservation. He said Sir Thomas was too ill to travel.

HOBBY COST $10,000,000.

Internationally famous yatchsman and tea merchant, Sir Thomas Johnstone Lipton spent more than thirty years of his life and more than $10,000,000 of his vast fortune nursing a hobby to win back for England the America's cup — a silver yachting trophy actually worth $500.

His most recent bid for "the old mug" was in 1930, when he brought over the Shamrock V, under her own sail only to be defeated by the Enterprise, the best of American yachts.

Sir Thomas' persistence in his efforts to "lift the cup" despite defeats and his unfailing good-fellowship won him many friends and thousands of admirers in America. He became known as the "world's best loser," and only last year, following his fifth defeat for the America's cup, American admirers presented him with a gold loving cup, bought by public inscription.

Was a Genial Host.

On his visits here with his racing yachts he was widely entertained, sometimes making long tours about the country, receiving a cordial welcome as a sportsman whom no defeat could discourage.

In return he entertained hundreds of Americans on his steam yacht the Erin and on racing days the yacht was crowded with scores of persons and who found him a most hospitable and genial host.

In 1927 Sir Thomas retired as chairman of the board of Thomas J. Lipton, Ltd., but was elected honorary life president and retained active control of the American branch, Thomas J. Lipton, Inc., with offices at Hoboken, N. J.

Long Service Honored.

Only last May the Royal Yacht squadron, probably the most exclusive club in the world, honored his long service to the sport in electing him to membership. It was only a few days after his 81st birthday that he was admitted to the club, membership in which confers the privilege of flying the white ensign service flag of the British navy.

It was a departure from the practice of the club, for Sir Thomas in early life kept a small grocery store and the fact that he had been "in trade" made him ineligible under the rules, although there is a story that King Edward VII., who was his close friend, tried several times to persuade the squadron to elect Sir Thomas.

On his last birthday Sir Thomas said he would issue his sixth challenge for the America's cup in September and that the race would take place within twelve months of the challenge.

"I must get the old mug back," he said then, but subsequently he announced that he would postpone building the Shamrock VI., and it was assumed that one reason for that decision was his failing health.

NEGRO HELD AS SLAYER SHOT BY KIN OF VICTIM

Birmingham, Ala., Oct. 2.—(AP)—Willie Peterson, 34 year old Negro identified by Miss Nell Williams as the slayer of her sister, Augusta, and Jennie Wood, a companion, on a mountain trail near here Aug. 4, was shot and critically wounded in the Jefferson county jail tonight by Dent Williams, 25, the girl's brother.

One hundred National Guardsmen were mobilized and held in readiness for any emergency after the shooting, which brought a sudden end to a conference attended by the Negro, city and county officials, and members of the Williams and Wood families.

Peterson was carried under heavy guard to the county hospital with two bullet wounds in his chest and another in his arm. Hospital attendants said his wounds probably would prove fatal.

Williams was charged with assault with intent to murder and released under $1,000 bond.

GAS COMPANY ACCEPTS 6½% CUT IN RATES

Customers of the Peoples Gas Light and Coke company and the Public Service Company of Northern Illinois will be given the reduction in rates ordered Thursday by the Illinois commerce commission as soon as distribution of the mixture of manufactured gas and natural gas from Texas begins, probably within two weeks.

Samuel Insull, chairman of the two companies, said yesterday that he was willing the experiment with rates be made and that he assumed a change in these rates would be made if they were not found economically sound.

Peoples Gas is to reduce its charges 6½ per cent to domestic consumers and 21 per cent to those using gas for heating. Public Service company, supplying many suburbs, will cut the domestic scale 5 per cent and the heating rate 30 per cent.

Speakeasy of Luxury Lines Raided by U.S.

Chicago's most pretentious speakeasy, born Monday night with a grand opening, died last night with a grand finale directed by federal prohibition agents.

The enterprise, which featured old time "pour your own" service at a 50 foot bar of glistening mahogany, was in the basement at 114 North Dearborn street, Coffee Dan's old stand.

Two undercover agents, whose business is to make "buys," were among the hundreds of gay revelers who attended the grand opening, which was preceded by elaborate advertising, including engraved invitations to an elite clientele. Only thirty-two of the patrons were on hand last night when the raid occurred and they were not molested.

"Porter" Weiss Held as Owner.

Louis Weiss, who professed to be the porter of the establishment, was arrested and held as proprietor because of the proprietary nods with which he directed the movements of other members of the staff when the agents arrived with a search warrant. Art Shafer, the sentinel in the cigar stand at the front, and two bartenders, Theodore Theodore and Louis Konstos, also were arrested.

Four large government vans were required to haul away the booze, food, cigars, cigarets and furnishings of the place. The liquor included several cases each of Dawson's, King George IV., Old Smuggler, and Sandy McTavish Scotch, Old Colonel bourbon and Old Gaelic Irish whisky. There were also quantities of Three Star Hennessy brandy and London Dry Gin. Seventy-five cents the shot was the price of the liquor.

Beer Supply Plentiful.

The beer seizure included 360 pints of Carling's [Canadian] beer and several cases of purported Pilsener, which went for $1 a bottle. About twenty cases of domestic [Al Capone] beer was seized.

The free lunch served included roast beef, baked ham, potatoes, mashed or boiled; macaroni and cheese, olives, pickles and salad.

Customers went down a flight of stairs and entered a legitimate appearing cigar store. If they were successful they next entered a room fifty feet square, surrounded by booths with a dance floor in the center. Back of this was the barroom, with a beveled edge mirror running the full length of the bar and free lunch counter.

EDISON HAS ATTACK OF INDIGESTION; HIS DOCTOR CALLED HOME

West Orange, N. J., Oct. 2.—[Special.]—Thomas A. Edison was stricken late tonight with an attack of indigestion so severe that it necessitated the calling from New York of his private physician, Dr. Hubert S. Howe. Charles Edison, the inventor's son, summoned the physician, but denied there was an immediate danger.

"If my father were in any danger," he said, "I most certainly would not be here in my home."

Speaking from his residence, the younger Mr. Edison explained that he had called Dr. Howe in the hope that the physician would be able to give his father some medicine that would make him "rest more comfortably."

SIX MEN RESCUED AT SEA FLEEING RULE OF FASCISM

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ALGIERS, Algeria, Oct. 2.—Six young workingmen who risked shipwreck and death in a tiny boat on the open sea to escape Sardinia and the Fascist régime, which they hated, arrived here today on board the Marseilles liner, Gouverneur General Lepine.

They were picked up after a violent storm had tossed their bark helplessly for three days halfway between Sardinia and the Algerian coast. They had run out of drinking water. Their ages range from 19 to 28. They include a miner, a butcher, a chauffeur, a barber, a mason, and a fisherman.

They declared they regretted to leave their families in Italy, but were unable to endure the régime any longer. They are applying for French citizenship.

Finds Jobs for Jobless, but No Jobless for Jobs

Briarcliff, N. Y., Oct. 2.—(AP)—Several weeks ago an unemployment committee was formed. It obtained requests for men needed for jobs here and there. Then it looked for unemployed men to fill the jobs. There were none.

Police Club Jobless Mob; Many Hurt

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 2.—Rioting broke out in Glasgow again tonight, when 50,000 hungry unemployed men and women smashed shop windows and looted stores of books, shoes, clothes, and food. Several restaurants were raided by the rioters, who swept from shop to shop in the central district.

Large forces of police were used in a desperate effort to halt the disorders. The police sped to the scenes of disorder in "black marias," prison vans, and private automobiles. The officers dove into the crowds pell mell, swinging their batons right and left, and the rioters replied by hurling jars of jam, eggs, bottles, and stones at their adversaries.

Hurl Furniture at Police.

Furniture and trunks were thrown from second story windows on the police below and several were taken to the hospital with serious injuries. Groups of demonstrators, their heads bleeding from police clubs, were carried into the police station. Forty-four persons were arrested up until midnight. The riots were reported to be continuing at that time.

Glasgow's unemployed, who also staged a serious riot last night, were summoned to engage in a new outbreak this morning by chalked notices on sidewalks, urging them to assemble on Glasgow Green and bring their weapons.

John McGovern, Socialist, who was suspended for brawling in the house of commons last July and who led last night's riot, appeared in police court today with ten others and was charged with hitting a policeman. All were ordered held in custody until tomorrow.

London Police on Guard.

Meanwhile, London police tonight took extra precautions to prevent similar riots.

Prime Minister MacDonald lost his fight to secure the approval of his constituents in the Seaham Harbor division. He personally appeared at Horden, a small mining town near Durham, to defend his action in the formation of a National government. At the conclusion of the session, the secretary of the Seaham Harbor Labor party briefly announced:

"The party will proceed with its previous decision to secure another candidate."

MacDonald Wins Cheers.

Mr. MacDonald received a great reception upon his arrival at Horden. The cheers drowned out the boos. Communists, however, had placarded walls of buildings and sidewalks with signs reading "Traitor MacDonald," "To hell with the National government," and "Not a penny off the dole."

Despite the party's second repudiation, Mr. MacDonald's comment of the meeting was "very satisfactory."

'GIVE US FOOD,' 2,000 DEMAND; JEER AT BOARD

Trustee Savage Has a Stormy Time.

One perspiring man stood on a platform before 2,000 militant school teachers yesterday and attempted to explain to them why they have not been paid since last May. Waves of laughter, cheers and jeers, boos and shouts of "How can we buy food?" interrupted the speaker throughout a tumultuous two hour meeting.

On the platform was Trustee Joseph P. Savage of the board of education, who had induced his fellow board members to call three massmeetings of the unpaid teachers to explain what plans are being propounded for their relief. According to a conservative estimate, Mr. Savage's well proportioned figure was minus some five pounds when the meeting was over.

A West Side Matinée.

Yesterday's matinée at the Crane college auditorium was called to acquaint the west side teachers with the efforts being made in their behalf by the board of education. The north side and the south side teachers are to have their innings next week.

The meeting opened on a quiet note with an introduction of Trustee Savage by Superintendent of Schools Bogan. Mr. Bogan spoke of the "tremendous sacrifice" made by the teachers. He remarked that they had the sympathy of the city, but that they could not live very long on sympathy.

There was a murmur of agreement with this statement. Then Mr. Savage advanced and addressed himself to the 2,000 upturned faces, 99 per cent feminine.

The Handkerchief Appears.

"There has been talk about waste and extravagance and—yes, even about graft in the board of education——" he began.

A ripple of sound swept the audience. It swelled to a thunderous chorus of merriment which had not much joviality in it. Mr. Savage flushed slightly and drew a large handkerchief from his pocket. He mopped his brow. It was the first of many moppings.

"Just because they talk about it does not mean it is there," he asserted defiantly. "I challenge any one to point to wrongdoing in the board of education. The truth is that we have been at the mercy of the other city governments."

Savage Defends the Scrip.

Mr. Savage brought up the subject of scrip. There was a dead silence as he defended the board's actions in the issuance of scrip.

"Every court in Cook county today," he announced, "accepts scrip in payment of rent——"

There was a united gasp from 2,000 throats, a rumble of incredulity.

"—— when the building is in the hands of a receiver," concluded Mr. Savage.

Again the roar of laughter arose. Mr. Savage on the platform was forgotten for moments as the teachers exchanged comments on their experiences in trying to cash scrip.

Relief Bills Explained.

Finally his voice was heard again. He explained the bills now in the hands of the governor's revenue commission for presentation to the legislature. One bill will ask permission of the legislature to increase the board's working cash to $75,000,000 by the sale of bonds.

Mr. Savage concluded his speech with references to "an American citizen's duty" and the "spirit of the American worker."

He announced: "Now I will answer any questions that may be asked."

A middle aged woman, plainly dressed, was on her feet. He voice carried clearly.

"You've told us about plans for permanent relief," she said. "What about immediate relief?"

The Storm Breaks Loose.

A storm broke in the auditorium. Shrill cheers beat upon the walls. Mr. Savage stepped back a foot. He was now mopping continuously. Finally the noise subsided and he said:

"All I can give is my own opinion. I don't think we'll get any relief until the legislature grants us relief."

Another resentful murmur greeted this reply. Mr. Savage reverted to the usefulness of scrip.

"A number of department stores are taking scrip——" he began.

"Where?" came in a concerted shout from the teachers.

"Well, Rothschild's for one," retorted Mr. Savage.

"No!" came back the shout.

"I guess I meant the men's store," admitted Mr. Savage, mopping furious

ly. The previous gale of hilarity was an evening breeze to the hurricane of laughter which swept the auditorium at this revelation.

"A list of hundreds of stores which accept scrip was sent to all the schools," declared Mr. Savage.

"We never saw it!" chanted the teachers.

"Well, we'll send it out immediately," said Mr. Savage.

A man principal arose.

"If you put a date of expiration on the scrip notes, we could borrow money from the banks on them," he told the trustee.

"Sit down!" yelled a rough voice from the rear of the auditorium. A thousand fair faces turned upon the rude interrupter.

Principal Defies Heckler.

"Come down here and make me sit down!" yelled the principal at the heckler. There was another burst of applause as the teachers thrilled to this display of virility in a masculine member of their profession. For a few minutes Mr. Savage on the platform mopped in peace.

"We can't put those expiration dates on scrip because we couldn't pay them when due," he explained to the principal when order was restored.

"Aw!" chorused the teachers.

"It's all right to say 'Aw!' at me, and you can say it again," said Mr. Savage with some heat. "But I'm only trying to be frank with you. It wouldn't be valid."

"I don't care if it's valid or not if I can get something to eat out of it," exclaimed another teacher, jumping up. "We'd rather eat than argue. There are destitute people here. Some are the only support of families. We've got to have relief and we've got to have it right away. We can't wait!"

Complains of Obstacles.

Again the windows shook as the teachers yelled themselves hoarse. Mr. Savage was irritated.

"We might have had some money for you long ago," he shouted, "if certain organizations, including teachers' organizations, hadn't spoiled our plans. You, yourselves, have put obstacles in our way."

This might have gone on much louder, but Supt. Bogan, who had remained in the background, stepped forward.

"It's twenty minutes of six," he announced.

There were feminine cries of dismay. Chattering excitedly of "late suppers," the teachers surged through the doors.

UNION PACIFIED; WATER MAIN'S GUARD REMOVED

A police guard placed on the temporary water main over the Little Calumet river at 131st and Halsted streets, which supplies Harvey and six other southern suburbs, was removed yesterday after a conference between Harvey officials and business agents of the Chicago plumbers' union. The main was hastily constructed after the larger main that usually carries the towns' water supplies cracked at the bottom of the river.

Some non-union men were used on the temporary work and Commissioner Einar Bloom of Harvey announced he had received threats to destroy the new pipeline. At the conference the union representatives were assured that only union labor would be used on the repair of the large main and they expressed themselves as satisfied with the situation.

MOVE TO REVIVE GERMAN SOCIETY DISSOLVED IN '17

The German American Alliance of Chicago at a meeting last night formulated plans for a convention to be held in Chicago on Oct. 24 and 25 to reorganize the national German American alliance, which was dissolved by act of congress in 1917 for alleged pro-German activities.

Fifty or sixty delegates are expected to attend the reorganization meeting from all parts of the country, according to Fred Rixmann, president of the Chicago group and chairman of the temporary executive committee for the reorganization. Existing state and local units of the old alliance will be brought together to form the new organization, to be known as the German American National association.

WOMEN FOES OF DRY ACT TO OPEN BRANCH IN LOOP

Autumn activities of the Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform will start on Monday with the opening of a loop office for the registration of new members. This was announced yesterday from the organization's headquarters at 700 North Michigan avenue. Mrs. Valentine Bartlett and Mrs. Vincent Healy will be in charge of the new unit, which will be in the Lyon & Healy building, on the Jackson boulevard side. The same plan was followed last year with marked success, officers of the organization said.

JOHNSON HELD BLAMELESS IN DRUGGAN PLOT

U. S. Attorney General Reports on Inquiry.

Acting Attorney General Thomas D. Thacher in Washington yesterday issued a statement clearing United States Attorney George E. Q. Johnson and his assistants of any suspicion of complicity in the alleged plot whereby Terry Druggan and Frank Lake sought to escape punishment for their evasion of the income tax law.

THOMAS D. THACHER. [Harris & Ewing.]

Druggan, it was reported a week ago, planned to take the witness stand in federal court when his case is called and testify that he had paid $75,000 to a lawyer to fix the case, leaving the inference that the money, or part of it, had reached Mr. Johnson's office.

Plot Investigated by U. S.

Four government agents from the special intelligence unit of the bureau of internal revenue and the department of justice have been in Chicago for several weeks investigating the plot.

While Mr. Thacher's announcement did not indicate what other evidence was found, it stated:

"The department of justice has thoroughly investigated charges recently made with reference to the handling of the Druggan-Lake income tax case by the United States attorney's office in Chicago.

"The investigation has disclosed no facts or circumstances which in any way indicate improper conduct or lack of integrity on the part of any one connected with the United States attorney's office."

Face Stiff Punishment.

Agents familiar with the case have already pointed out that if Druggan and Lake had succeeded in compromising their civil and even their criminal liability in the indictments against them they would still face punishment under an indictment charging them with attempting to cheat and defraud the government which, alone, carries a ten year prison sentence and a $10,000 fine upon conviction.

Both beer hoodlums have pleaded guilty to all the charges against them and are awaiting sentence. Their pleas are contingent upon the appeals being taken from the income tax convictions of Ralph Capone, brother of Al, and State Representative Lawrence C. O'Brien. The United States Circuit Court of Appeals has already affirmed the Capone and O'Brien convictions and the cases are before the United States Supreme court.

The sentencing of Druggan and Lake had been set for Nov. 18, but if the Supreme court has not passed upon the other convictions at that time, the date will be advanced.

I. C. Railroad to Offer Low Cost Southern Tours

On the theory that quantity business makes for economy, the Illinois Central has prepared a new schedule of all expense tours for the holidays, it was announced yesterday by J. V. Lanigan, passenger traffic manager. If the experiment proves successful, he said, the low priced special trains will be made a regular feature of the road's service. Short all-expense tours, including hotel, meals, and sight-seeing, are to be offered to Biloxi, New Orleans, and Florida points at about 30 per cent more than the regular one way train fare.

OUT OF WORK, ENDS LIFE.

James Novak, 56 years old, a laborer, committed suicide last night by shooting himself with a shotgun in a coal shed behind his home at 1317 West 18th place. He had been despondent over unemployment, his widow told police.

Accuses Wife of 4 Loves in Exciting Court Drama

Studley Oldham Burroughs, a commercial artist and a member of the near north side Bohemian colony, and his wife, Mrs. Alice Carol Armstrong Burroughs, appeared in a dramatic scene yesterday afternoon in the court of Circuit Judge Daniel P. Trude. Burroughs sought the custody of his two small daughters and asked that the temporary alimony he was paying his wife be stopped.

Tales of drinking parties and intimate scenes kept the crowded courtroom at quiet attention while Burroughs, servants in his household at 100 East Superior street, a watchman for the apartment building, and two detectives gave testimony concerning the affairs of Mrs. Burroughs. Twice she interrupted by crying out denials and denouncing her husband and her children's governess.

Four Men Are Named.

The names of Olney R. Steffens, son of Alfred Bernard Steffens, wealthy coal operator and former fiance of Mrs. Burroughs; Louis De Garmo and Harold Capers, both commercial artists of New York and former friends of Burroughs, and Earl Denton, son of Edgar J. Denton, owner of a dress shop at 750 North Michigan avenue, were mentioned as Mrs. Burroughs' associates.

During most of the proceedings Mrs. Burroughs, a comely brunette, sat with a faint frown on her forehead. It was not until her husband told of finding her and Denton making love in the apartment that she lost her composure.

"It's a lie," she cried, springing to her feet. Mrs. Burroughs was quieted by her attorneys, and her husband continued his testimony.

"We lived in a ground floor apartment," he said. "Once when I came home from my studio at 737 North Michigan avenue I saw Denton and my wife hugging and kissing on a divan. I told Denton he was welcome as a friend, but that his familiarities with my wife must stop. They both told me they were sorry and said that it would not happen again."

Burroughs then told of a raid on the apartment at 1601 North Troy street, where his wife moved with the children, June, 4 years old, and Beverly, 3 years old, following their separation on July 27. After getting the key from the governess, Miss Mary Fernandez, the husband, with two private detectives, entered the rooms at 6:30 o'clock on the morning of Sept. 13. Burroughs also was accompanied by his father, Henry S. Burroughs, assistant secretary of the Washington Fidelity National Insurance company.

"When we walked into the room I found my wife asleep on a bed and Denton on a couch not a foot away," Burroughs said. "She wore a suit of silk pajamas. As far as I could see, Denton only had an undershirt on," Burroughs said.

Before the separation, Burroughs replied in answer to question of his attorney, Ferre C. Watkins, he had become suspicious of his wife's association with Denton. When he protested, he said, she replied, "You're just breaking up a beautiful platonic friendship."

Wife Interrupts Governess.

Mrs. Burroughs' second outburst occurred when Miss Fernandez was called as a witness.

"This woman has been intimate with my husband," she cried while her attorney, Edwin A. Haligan, hovered over her. "I don't . . ."

Here Judge Trude interrupted her saying, "Madam, I have warned you for the last time. These outbursts must cease."

"Three days after I came to the house a year ago, Mrs. Burroughs kissed Denton in front of me," Miss Fernandez explained in a soft voice with a faint accent. "Mrs Burroughs told me she loved him. He often stayed overnight when Mr. Burroughs was away. The children called him uncle. Once while Mr. Denton was taking a bath she walked in and kissed him."

The governess said she had seen Mrs. Burroughs kiss De Garmo and Steffens. Her mistress told her that at one time she was tempted to run away with Capers, she added.

Patsy Sorci, 3601 South Wells street, the watchman, said he looked through a window and saw Denton in pajamas and Mrs. Burroughs in a nightgown while sitting together in the latter's bedroom.

Accuses Husband of Drinking.

Mrs. Burroughs testified she had filed her divorce bill against her husband because of his drinking. She said she had been living in the Troy street apartment, a building owned by her father, Henry F. Armstrong, 1742 North Kedzie avenue, distributor of office supplies. She testified that the night Denton was found in her apartment he had remained at her suggestion after they had spent the evening with her parents and sister at Riverview Park.

"The story of my remarks to Mary is silly," she said. "I don't share my private affairs with servants."

Judge Rescinds Alimony.

The court ordered that the children be placed in the care of Burroughs' parents, allowing Mrs. Burroughs the right to see them twice a week and to have them with her during alternate week-ends.

"I do this," Judge Trude said, "because of the question of unfitness of both parents." The court rescinded the temporary alimony order.

Burroughs filed a cross bill to his wife's suit last Wednesday, charging adultery. The hearing yesterday was on a motion to rescind the court order giving Mrs. Burroughs $75 a week alimony and custody of the children.

Bomb Greets 8 U. S. Dry Agents Who Seized Liquor

New York, Oct. 3 [Saturday].—[Special.]—The underworld's methods of retaliation were introduced into the Bronx early this morning when eight federal prohibition agents, who had just seized three truckloads of beer and ale, said to belong to the Dutch Schulz gang, in the Bronx Majestic garage, were greeted with a bomb, which exploded with a terrific detonation, wrecked a massive door of the garage and shattered windows in surrounding apartment houses. None of the agents was injured. Two Negro washers, the only employés in the building, also escaped injury.

Jewish Immigrant Society Seeks Funds for Work

An appeal to raise funds to support the work of the Chicago branch of the Hebrew Sheltering and Immigrant Aid society will be made in all Chicago synagogues today. The work of the society [known as Hias] attempts to reunite families separated through emigration, and to effect the Americanization of Jewish immigrants. In foreign countries the Hias directs emigration to various South American and other countries.

CONTINUE ACID DEATH INQUIRY.

An inquiry into the death of Michael Tugden, 41 years old, 2842 South Hamlin avenue, who died in the county hospital on Sept. 30, supposedly from the effects of acid poisoning, was continued yesterday to Oct. 5.

DISSOLVES WRIT AGAINST WIDOW OF SILK MAKER

Circuit Judge Joseph Burke yesterday dissolved a temporary injunction which restrained Mrs. Augusta Mayer, 5496 Hyde Park boulevard, widow of Jacob Mayer, former head of a silk manufacturing concern, from disposing of the $300,000 estate of her late husband. The injunction, issued on Sept. 23, by Judge Michael Feinberg, also was directed at Mrs. Mayer's children by a former marriage, Ben Winston and Mrs. Maud Heilbrunn; her son-in-law, Simon Heilbrunn, and her granddaughter, Adele Heilbrunn, and the Hyde Park-Kenwood National bank, the Hyde Park Safe Deposit company, and the Central Republic Bank and Trust company.

The restraining order was issued without notice to the respondents upon the application of Benjamin A. Mayer, stepson of Mrs. Mayer, who charged irregularities in her handling of the estate. Mayer, with his brother, I. L. Mayer of San Francisco, is heir to his father's estate at Mrs. Mayer's death.

Attorney Julius M. Kahn, who represents Mrs. Mayer, filed a general demurrer on behalf of the children and an answer for Mrs. Mayer in which he denied the allegations of the original bill. Judge Burke admitted in evidence a number of affidavits refuting the charges and dissolved the temporary writ.

THREE CLOSED BANKS SOON TO PAY DIVIDENDS

Waukegan Jury Indicts Nelson and Woodruff.

Dividends are to be paid soon to the depositors of three closed banks and several other banks will make part payments before Christmas, State Auditor Oscar Nelson's office announced yesterday.

According to the announcement, there is sufficient money on hand to pay about 40 per cent to the depositors of the Cheltenham Trust and Savings bank, 2900 East 79th street. A dividend of 15 per cent is in sight for the depositors of the Progressive State bank, 2200 West Division street. The depositors of the Boulevard State Savings bank, 3621 Irving Park boulevard, may expect at least 10 per cent, and possibly more, according to the announcement.

Reports on the Three Banks.

The reports from the state auditor on each bank were as follows:

Frank McKee, receiver for the Cheltenham bank, has $122,000 in cash with which to pay deposits of $275,000. The last date for the filing of claims is Oct. 10 and the receiver may then be authorized to distribute the $123,000.

The Chicago Title and Trust company, receiver for the Progressive bank, has $61,000 in cash available to meet demands. The depositors received a 20 per cent dividend on Sept. 12, 1930, and another of 20 per cent on May 2, 1931. The report said that suits against stockholders have not proceeded far enough for a prediction on the amount ultimately to be recovered by the depositors but that there is hope of nearly a full return. The receiver must obtain permission of the court before paying the 15 per cent dividend.

Emil Wentzlaff, receiver for the Boulevard State Savings bank, has $2,500 on hand for distribution among depositors whose claims aggregate $70,000, and a sufficient amount is expected to be collected so that by Oct. 15, the last date for filing claims, it is possible the first payment may amount to 15 per cent or perhaps 20 per cent.

Waukegan Jury Indicts Five.

At Waukegan yesterday an indictment charging conspiracy to defraud and to keep open the Waukegan State bank after it was insolvent was returned by the special Lake county grand jury which for six weeks has been investigating the bank's collapse.

Those named in the indictment are: State Auditor Nelson, who was previously indicted on a charge of misfeasance and omission of duty by the same grand jury; George Woodruff, former chairman of the board of the National Bank of the Republic, which was Chicago correspondent of the Waukegan bank; William H. Miller, former vice president of the National Bank of the Republic; Norman O. Geyer, former president of the Waukegan State bank, and John M. Connors, former vice president of the Waukegan bank.

Both Geyer and Connors are already under indictment on other charges connected with the bank's accounts.

Conspiracy to Defraud Charged.

Counts in the new indictment charge the five defendants with a conspiracy to defraud the public generally of $2,000,000. Other counts charge them with conspiring to obtain $2,000,000 from the depositors, stockholders, and customers of the bank.

Further on in the indictment is the allegation that the defendants knew of the insolvency of the bank and conspired to keep the public in ignorance of that fact in order to keep the deposits and to induce others to deposit money and buy stock in the bank.

The bank was closed on June 17. State's Attorney A. V. Smith of Lake county has charged that it should have been closed last fall.

One of the charges in the conspiracy indictment is that false statements were issued. This count specifies that a statement issued on Dec. 31, 1930, and published in a Waukegan paper was false. This statement listed accounts of the bank as follows: Cash on hand and due from other banks, $289,152; loans on collateral, $421,259; other loans, $640,702; total resources, $2,494,654; demand deposits, $1,292,402, was false.

Another statement issued on March 25, 1931, also contained figures known to be false, the indictment charges.

The special grand jury finished its work with the return of this indictment and the adoption of resolutions praising State's Attorney Smith and his assistant, George S. McGaughey. The resolution also said that great opposition in the prosecution of the indictments could be expected from financial interests and established political combinations. It called on the people of Lake county to approve the heavy expenditures necessary to the prosecution of the men indicted.

Six Banks Are Closed.

Three Chicago banks and three downstate banks were closed yesterday as a result of heavy withdrawals and depleted reserves, according to the state auditor's office.

The Chicago banks closed were the Hegewisch State bank, the Brighton Park State bank and the Marshall Square State bank.

Those closed downstate were the First National Bank of Kewanee, whose directors said they expected all depositors would be paid in full; the Utica State bank, which left its community without a depositary, and the La Salle Savings Bank and Trust company.

Hurled in River as Plane Upsets

Off for Shanghai

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, Oct. 2.—Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh were on their way to Shanghai tonight aboard the British aircraft carrier Hermes.

They narrowly escaped drowning this morning at Hankow when, on attempting to take off from the Yangtze, their airplane capsized. Motor boats from the Hermes, British aircraft carrier, rescued the colonel and his wife and the plane was hoisted aboard the Hermes, where examination revealed the accident was due to jamming of controls.

The plane was badly damaged when it overturned and the Lindberghs' plans for further flood surveys have been temporarily abandoned.

FRANK H. JONES, BANKER, LAWYER, DIES AT AGE OF 77

Served as Assistant Postmaster General.

Frank Hatch Jones, retired banker and lawyer, who was first assistant postmaster general of the United States from 1893 to 1897, died yesterday at the Passavant hospital. He had been ill for a long time and had been at the hospital for two months. Mr. Jones was 77 years old.

Mr. Jones was born in Pike county, Ill., on March 6, 1854, the son of George W. and Cecelia Bennett Jones. He was graduated from Yale university in 1875 and later studied in the Columbia law school and the Chicago law school.

Starts Practice in Chicago.

In 1879 he became a practicing attorney in Springfield, Ill. He represented the Springfield district in the general assembly in 1891 and made the nominating speech for Gen. John M. Palmer for the United States senate. After his term of service in the postmaster general's office Mr. Jones came to Chicago and practiced law until 1900.

He became connected with the American Trust and Savings bank and on its merger with the Continental and Commercial Trust and Savings bank was made secretary of the larger institution, a position he held for many years.

Wed Daughter of Grant.

Mr. Jones was twice married. His first wife was Sarah I. Bunn, who died in 1892. His second wife was Mrs. Nellie Grant Sartoris, only daughter of Gen. Ulysses S. Grant, to whom he was married in 1912. Mrs. Jones died in 1922.

Surviving Mr. Jones is one brother, Fred Jones of the Parkway hotel. Funeral services are to be held at the late residence of Mr. Jones, 1130 Lake Shore drive, at 10 a. m. today. Burial will be at Springfield.

Judge Philip Sullivan Celebrates 42d Birthday

He now is sitting in the Criminal court and he received congratulations and floral tributes when he appeared yesterday.

45,000 POSTAL EMPLOYES WILL VISIT 1933 FAIR

At the invitation of the Association of Commerce, 45,000 postal employes will meet in Chicago during the World's Fair in 1933, it was announced yesterday by Col. Robert Isham Randolph, president of the association. Already, according to Sol Cohen, president of the Chicago Post Office Clerks union, No. 1, "on to Chicago" clubs have been organized by the mail forces of Los Angeles, Seattle, Miami, Denver, and Salt Lake City.

Prizes are to be awarded to the delegation with the longest collective travel mileage to the 1933 convention. The decision of the national organization of postal clerks on the trade association's invitation followed personal representations by Col. Randolph, Mayor Cermak, Rufus C. Dawes, president of the exposition, Postmaster Arthur C. Lueder, John Fitzpatrick, president of the Chicago Federation of Labor, and John Burke, president of the Chicago Hotel association.

WOMAN CAUSES SCENE IN COURT; GOES TO CELL

Judge G. Fred Rush in the Criminal court was under the impression as he left the bench yesterday that he had disposed for the time being of the case of Francis Reilly, 20 years old, 6527 Maryland avenue.

The judge had deferred a sentence of a year to life pending a new trial. A jury had found Reilly guilty of robbing Margaret Ogden, 6507 Maryland avenue, and Arthur Heisman, 7134 Dobson avenue, in an automobile on Aug. 1.

Scarcely had Judge Rush started to his chambers when a woman screamed and the courtroom was in an uproar. The judge turned in time to see Mrs. Mary McCarthy of Waukegan, a sister of the prisoner, lunge at Miss Ogden, the complaining witness. When the furor had ended Miss Ogden was examining bruises and scratches on her arms.

Judge Rush ordered Mrs. McCarthy brought to the front. Nat Ruvell, assistant state's attorney, advocated a charge of direct contempt of court.

"Ten days in the county jail," said the judge. Mrs. McCarthy promptly fainted.

RONGETTI GETS 3 YEAR TERM ON NARCOTIC CHARGE

Sentence Is Passed After Conviction by U. S.

Dr. Amante Rongetti, who has been tried in state courts several times for murder by abortion, was sentenced yesterday by Federal Judge John P. Barnes to serve three years in Leavenworth penitentiary for violations of the anti-narcotics act.

Sentence was pronounced after Judge Barnes had overruled a motion for a new trial by William L. Jenkins, colored attorney for Rongetti. He was sent to the county jail when his attorney told the court that he was unable to post the increased bond which Judge Barnes set pending an appeal to the higher federal courts. He raised the trial bond of $2,500 to $5,000 after granting the defense 90 days to file a bill of exceptions.

Dr. Rongetti was convicted last week by a jury on thirty-one counts of an indictment charging him with dispensing narcotics without being registered with the government. He was sentenced to three years' penal servitude on each count, but the sentences will run concurrently.

Miss Mary D. Bailey, assistant United States attorney who prosecuted the case, presented as the principal government exhibits thirty-one prescriptions written for narcotics by Dr. Rongetti. All bore names which the government contended were fictitious, or addresses which proved to be vacant lots.

Rongetti was sentenced to the electric chair three years ago on his conviction of murder by abortion. He was successful in obtaining reversals of that conviction and the one which followed his second trial from the State Supreme court, but was convicted a third time last year and sentenced to fourteen years in the penitentiary. He is now carrying an appeal from that sentence to the United States Supreme court.

FREAK WAVE KILLS SEAMAN ON DECK OF THE LINER BERENGARIA

New York, Oct. 2.—[Special.]—When the Cunarder Berengaria arrived today, it became known that Alphonse Cooper, able seaman, had been killed last Tuesday afternoon by what Capt. E. T. Britten described as an "abnormal sea," which rolled over the starboard bow when the weather was quite moderate.

Cooper was making fast a hatch cover when a small sea came over and hurled the seaman aft on to the winch jamming his right leg in the machinery. Before Cooper could extricate himself another and very heavy sea rolled over the bow and hit him with terrific force, tearing his leg clean off. He died in the ship's hospital.

GANDHI ATTACKS BRITISH MISRULE ON 63D BIRTHDAY

Becomes Almost Savage at Big Party for Him.

BY WILLIAM SHIRER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 2. — Mahatma Gandhi, India's Nationalist leader, spent his 63d birthday today fighting all along the line. It is true he appeared as pleased as a child when London admirers presented him with an old fashioned English spinning wheel at a birthday luncheon presided over by Fenner Brockway, fiery Labor leader. The luncheon was attended by 500 English and Indian guests.

And he did grin from ear to ear when London workmen and housewives poked their heads out of the windows at dawn this morning and wished him a birthday greeting as he trudged along on his morning walk in the east end.

He also seemed overjoyed at the hundreds of congratulatory telegrams which arrived from the four corners of the earth and at a huge room full of birthday presents, which included gifts ranging from gold coins to a pedigreed goat.

Not Kidding Gandhi.

But inwardly the "holy man" let it be known that things were not going well and that the British government was not kidding him, at least, into believing that they were.

Usually so humane, he became almost savage as he addressed the guests at his birthday party over a meager luncheon of bananas, apples, pears, oranges, and nuts.

"What you English do not realize is that freedom is our birthright," Gandhi cried. "We are ready to pay any price for it. It is true we do not want to spill blood winning it, because we believe in nonviolence. But I must tell you that if any sacrifice can win our freedom we will not hesitate to let the Ganges run with blood to obtain it."

Words Shock Audience.

His words spoken so bitingly—and at a birthday party at that—seemed to shock his audience, in which there was a liberal sprinkling of members of parliament.

Gandhi did not conceal his feelings over the round table conference which he fears is heading for the rocks.

"The longer I stay here the more I realize how difficult our task it," he said. "It has become almost superhuman. And to make matters worse, there is so much ignorance among you about India and why I am here."

"I entertained no illusions when I came here," he continued. "But now that I am here I am in earnest and I cannot diminish India's claims."

Gandhi then accused the English of being raised on false history.

British Rule "Misrule."

"You have been taught the sum total of British rule in India is beneficial," he exclaimed. "Nothing is more false. You cannot escape two facts. First, under the British, India has become the poorest country in the world. Second, India has been denied the advantages and decencies any free country is entitled to. What you laud as British rule, we laud as British misrule. England has failed in India."

Gandhi hurried from his birthday party and sat all afternoon with the Indian delegates, who met at St. James's palace in a last desperate effort to solve the racial troubles and to agree upon some kind of a united front.

Later the "holy man," saw Sir Samuel Hoare, secretary of state for India, who seems destined to preside over the India office as long as the national government or the Conservatives are in power. Finally he hurried back to the East End settlement, where he sleeps, to attend another birthday party given him by children of dockworkers.

Gandhi Worries Doctors.

The mahatma's physicians are worried about the terrific pace he has set while in London. He has averaged only four hours of sleep since his arrival. Last night he came home at 1:30 a. m., spun until 2:30, and arose at 4 o'clock, as usual. The night before it was the same. He is keeping five secretaries and a special typist busy and men of Scotland Yard and policemen, who have been assigned to protect him, complain of being worn out.

REPORT LIVES LOST IN BOMBING OUTRAGE AT CAPITAL OF INDIA

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Oct. 3.—[Saturday.]—Since early last evening London newspapers have been endeavoring to obtain details of a reported bomb outrage at Delhi, the capital of India, where Viceroy Earl Willingdon is now in residence. A Central News agency dispatch from Bombay stated there had been a number of casualties, but details were lacking.

An attempt was made on the life of Lord Irwin, then viceroy of India, on Dec. 23, 1929. A bomb was thrown through the window of his train near New Delhi station. Although the car in which the viceroy was riding was wrecked, only a servent three compartments away was injured.

POLICE FIRE ON SUSPECT.

Sergt. George J. Griffin of the division of stolen automobiles last night fired two shots at Robert J. Emmett, 1718 West Harrison street, an alleged automobile thief, when he saw him and two other men riding in a car which is supposed to have been stolen. Emmett escaped.

CERMAK CALLS PEACE PARLEY IN MOVIE ROW

Seeks to Put an End to Bomb Outrages.

Mayor Cermak took a hand in the controversy between the movie operators' union and the independent theater owners yesterday, summoning leaders of both groups to a conference in his office on Monday at 10 a. m. His action is largely due, it is believed, to a series of nine theater bombings which have occurred since the owners hired nonunion operators to man their booths. They contended that they could not afford to keep two union operators working in each booth, as the union demands.

AARON SAPERSTEIN.

Mr. Cermak addressed his summons to Aaron Saperstein, president of the Allied Theater Owners of Illinois, and to Thomas E. Maloy, business agent for the operators' union, who has been indicted by the grand jury on a charge of conspiracy in connection with the operations of the union. The mayor invited each of the men summoned to bring another representative with him.

May Take Part in Parley.

It is believed that Saperstein will ask one of his attorneys, Theodore Levin or Howard Ellis, to accompany him, while Thomas J. Reynolds, president of the union, might accompany Maloy.

Maloy is now in Vancouver, B. C., to attend the convention of the American Federation of Labor, which will be held there next week. If he does not return for the conference with the mayor, it is considered probable that his attorney, Thomas D. Nash, together with Reynolds, will represent the union.

The mayor stepped into the fight after a conference in the racket bureau of the state's attorney's office on Thursday afternoon had failed to bring the leaders of the opposing groups to a common ground. Mr. Cermak and State's Attorney Swanson suggested the conference and it was presided over by two of Mr. Swanson's assistants, Charles Bellows and C. E. Lounsbury.

Peace Conference Fails.

The meeting began on Wednesday night, adjourned late without progress, and convened twice Thursday. Late Thursday afternoon the meeting ended with each side charging the other with retarding progress. Mr. Lounsbury then wrote to the mayor, suggesting that he call a conference with the leaders of the theater owners and the union and impress upon them the absolute need of an early settlement in the interests of the city and the public.

The theater owners say they cannot afford to pay the union scale of from $90 to $175 a week under present conditions. They also say that they have no contract with the union making mandatory the hiring of two operators on each shift.

The operators dispute this contention and say they are willing to grant financial relief to the theaters. Just what that relief shall constitute has been a disputed point in the later conferences, Saperstein and Maloy failing to agree upon the extent of aid the operators shall give.

WOMAN IDENTIFIES ROSENTHAL KIDNAP DEFENDANT IN COURT

New York, Oct. 2.—[Special.]—Marcus Blumenthal, one of the five defendants on trial in General Sessions for the kidnaping of Charles M. Rosenthal, a broker, was identified today by a woman as the "Mr. C. Fletcher" who rented an apartment on Boston road, where the $50,000 ransom for Rosenthal was first sent.

Mrs. Anna Brown, the owner of the building, made the identification in court. She said Blumenthal paid $16 for a week's rent of an apartment, and the next day telephoned that a bag would be delivered to him at her house and asked her to take care of it until he called for it.

It is the prosecution's contention that this bag was the suitcase containing $50,000 which was to be delivered, according to instruction from the kidnapers, to a Mr. C. Fletcher at the Boston road address.

End Hearing Complaints on Assessment for 1930

The board of review yesterday concluded general public hearings on complaints against the 1930 assessment. On Monday the board is to hear complaints on 75 parcels of loop property valued at approximately $100,000,000. Tentative land values for the township of Oak Park averaging 15 per cent lower than those of last year were agreed upon at a meeting of the assessors with Joseph Bristow, township assessor.

U. S. JURY ENDS WORK; RETURNS 117 INDICTMENTS

The September federal grand jury, winding up its work yesterday, returned 117 indictments before Federal Judge John P. Barnes. Most of the indictments charged violation of the prohibition laws.

Among those named were six alleged Capone henchmen, Frank Costello, Joe Montagne, Harry Alcock, John Nye, James Carney, and Andrew Frawley. They were captured by prohibition agents several days ago in a beer plant at 222 East 25th street, where 56 barrels of beer and equipment valued at $25,000 were confiscated.

HOOVER SEES NO GAIN FOR HIM IN TURNING MOIST

Friends Say He'll Stick to 1928 Formula.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
Washington, D. C., Oct. 2.—[Special.]—That President Hoover will be renominated next year and that he will run as a dry are considered foregone conclusions by his closest advisers and leading members of his official family.

SENATOR BORAH. [Harris & Ewing.]

In spite of the tremendous pressure that has been directed at the White House in recent weeks for modification of the dry laws, Mr. Hoover's associates are convinced that he will not take any position on the prohibition issue that can be construed even as mildly moist. They were positive today that President Hoover, if his wishes are followed, will run as in 1928, on a platform calling for strict enforcement of all laws.

The friends of the President advise that he stands a far better chance for reelection on his basis than if he should horses in midstream and come out for repeal or modification of prohibition, as urged by the wets.

He Woos South Again.

All recent signs point to another attempt by the President to win the south by standing fast on the dry issue and making an additional appeal to the pacifist and church vote by assuming world leadership in naval disarmament.

New evidence of the President's position on dry law modification came today from Chairman Borah [Rep., Idaho] of the senate foreign relations committee. Following a White House luncheon, at which the Idaho radical Republican was the only guest, Mr. Borah assured newspaper men that the Republican platform in the 1932 campaign will be dry.

In resuming his daily conferences with the press Senator Borah, who is usually found in opposition to any Republican administration in power except on election years, told his listeners that he was in agreement with the President on certain important issues, such as prohibition, further naval economies, and reduction of armaments.

Fess Echoes Borah.

Chairman Fess of the Republican national committee has repeatedly asserted that Mr. Hoover certainly will be reelected and most certainly will go before the people on a dry platform. Senator Fess, like Borah, is among the dryest of the drys in congress. Senator James E. Watson [Rep., Ind.] majority leader in the senate, also has been quoted as saying the Republican party will not take any more definite stand on prohibition than was taken in 1928.

Notwithstanding the inspired impression given out at the White House of Mr. Hoover's dryness, there has been a constant increase in recent weeks in the amount of wet advice that has poured in on the President. One high official said today that some of the leading business men in the country have importuned the President to include the legalization of beer as a part of his unemployment relief program. In recent weeks many of the President's callers have produced figures purporting to prove that a return of beer would aid in bringing back prosperity.

Hoover has Own Figures.

Indications that the President has quietly primed up on the economic side of prohibition is seen in the fact that many visitors at the White House have reported the President well equipped with figures to back up his position. The President was also represented as taking the position that until some workable way of distributing beer can be worked out which will not bring about a return of the saloon, he will not even consider any change. Although Mr. Hoover has listened to wet callers and has taken the trouble to talk the matter over with them, even the President's wettest official advisers entertain little hope of any change in his position.

PRETENDER DIES

DON JAIME OF BOURBON.

PARIS, Oct. 2.—(AP)—Don Jaime of Bourbon, Carlist pretender to the throne of Spain, died tonight at his Paris apartment of a heart attack.

Don Jaime died within a few days of his reconciliation with former King Alfonso on Sept. 14. It was emphasized then by members of Alfonso's entourage that the reconciliation was purely of a family character and that the matter of renunciation of Don Jaime's claims was not involved.

Don Jaime's pretensions to the Spanish throne dated back to the reign of Ferdinand VII., who became ruler in 1814. Ferdinand was succeeded by his daughter, Isabella, and in 1870 she formally abdicated in favor of her son, Alfonso XII., whose posthumous son became Alfonso XIII.

Don Carlos, brother of Ferdinand, laid claim to the throne in 1833 and spent the rest of his life in efforts to make the claim good. The pretension was passed on to his son, Don Carlos VII., who in 1867 married Princess Marguerite, daughter of the duke of Parma. To them Don Jaime was born in 1870.

After the revolution of 1868 had driven Queen Isabella from the throne Don Jaime's father made several attempts to gain the succession, but his cousin, Alfonso XII., was proclaimed ruler in his stead.

JUDGE SENTENCES TWO TO JAIL FOR ELECTION FRAUD

Joseph McCauley, Democratic judge of election, and James De Lorenzo, Republican precinct captain, both in the 28th precinct of the 42d ward, pleaded guilty yesterday before Judge John Prystalski in the Criminal court to falsifying election documents during the primary election on April 8, 1930. Both men were sentenced to six months in the county jail.

After the sentence was entered, attorneys filed a motion to vacate the judgment and Judge Prystalski set Oct. 14 for hearing. McCauley and De Lorenzo are accused of giving false votes to the late John J. Joyce in his primary fight with Wallace Kirk for the Republican nomination for state senator from the 29th district.

John G. Eckstein, former police chief of the village of Lansing, was held to the grand jury yesterday in $1,000 bond on a charge of aiding and abetting illegal voting.

FOOD KEPT FRESH ON TRUCK TRIP SERVED MAYOR

Perishable food that has been kept fresh on a transcontinental motor truck trip was served to Mayor Cermak yesterday at noon by officials of the General Motors company, makers of the truck, and the Stover company, Frigidaire distributors. The truck has traveled from Los Angeles to New York and is on the return trip to Los Angeles.

In presenting the mayor with a box of the food, J. D. Davis, representative of the truck company, explained the trip is being made as a long distance test run to determine the feasibility of transporting perishable foods by truck on long hauls. The foods were well kept, he said, and he showed fresh celery, radishes, oranges, cooked meats and other perishable items.

NAVY PREPARES TO SLICE DOWN TO HOOVER ORDER

Adams Calls Consultation of His Assistants.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
Washington, D. C., Oct. 2.—[Special.]—Preliminary steps for inaugurating sweeping economies in the American naval establishment in compliance with White House orders were taken by Secretary of the Navy Adams and members of his official family today. At a called executive meeting each department head was advised of the President's reduction order and told to look over his domain with an eye to carrying out the President's demands.

Following the meeting Secretary Adams stated that the economy order had caused "a very, very serious situation," which would have to be met by radical reduction moves. Economy proposals placed before Secretary Adams called for radical curtailment of the navy's huge 400 million dollar chore establishment to bring it into conformity with a reduced operating fleet, a 20 per cent cut in ships in commission, reduced training and maneuver programs, curtailment of flying time for pilots, and further reductions in the depleted marine corps.

Both Navy and Marines.

Inasmuch as enlisted personnel is to be reduced by the process of slowing down enlistments, Secretary Adams said today that reductions would have to be made in the enlisted strength of both the navy and the marine corps. Efforts are being made to hold down the navy reductions of enlisted strength below 5,000 men, the number tentatively agreed upon.

The shore establishment presents the richest field for economy operations, but whether full use will be made of this opportunity to rid the navy of surplus properties maintained for political reasons is problematical. It is likely that the New Orleans navy yard will be closed down entirely, the South Charlestown, Va., armor plant sold, and a number of small shore properties laid up. It is possible the Newport News naval training station will be closed as a peace time operating plant.

Although Secretary Adams said today that even the seven big navy yards on the east and west coasts were being studied in an effort to see where economies could be affected, there is little likelihood that any of these establishments will be closed up on a preElection year.

Obstacles Ahead.

Any move to curtail activities at any of these yards or to shut down would rouse a storm from the senators and representatives who in the past have successfully frustrated efforts of the navy department or the administration in power to close them.

During the 1931 fiscal year it took $80,000,00 to operate the navy shore establishments, compared with 103 millions for operating the fleet. During and since the war the navy properties ashore have continued to grow.

Should the navy recommend shore station cuts to President Hoover within the three weeks they have to complete their economy program for the 1933 fiscal year, Mr. Hoover would have to decide whether to risk offending senators and representatives whose support he will need in 1932 by closing navy properties in their districts or abandoning part of his economy efforts.

Fred Shearer of Aurora Heads New Lawyer Group

Fred Shearer, of Aurora, was elected president yesterday of a newly formed lawyers' oragnization in the Sixth Judicial district. The election was held at a meeting at Aurora. Richard V. Carpenter of Belvidere was made vice president and John R. Snively of Rockford, secretary. The attorneys attending, drawn from twelve counties, discussed a draft of a proposed new consolidated civil practice act and proposed rules of court designed to simplify court procedure in civil trials.

EXPLAIN DRIVE TO FEED ONLY CITY'S JOBLESS

List Free Lance Places Now in Operation.

Methods of the joint emergency relief fund to preclude the indiscriminate feeding and lodging of nonresidents were explained yesterday by Robert W. Beasley, director of the fund's clearing house. At the same time free lance missions and feeding stations were listed.

Failure of these private organizations to clear their men through the fund results in confusion, duplication of relief work and flocking of outsiders into Chicago, according to Edward L. Ryerson Jr., chairman of the relief committee.

At the fund's main clearing house, 162 North Union avenue, only 11.03 per cent of the registrants have been nonresidents, Mr. Beasley stated. The percentage of nonresidents at the branch clearing house, 3140 Indiana avenue, was said to be 5.15, making an average of 8.18 per cent.

Applicants Are Questioned.

Each applicant at the clearing house is required to state his length of residence in the city, his last permanent address and his employment record for the last five years, according to Mr. Beasley. If the interviewer is not convinced, the applicant is required to furnish one or more Chicago references. Nonresidents are given tickets for two or three days and then sent on their way, said Mr. Beasley.

The Volunteers of America, one of the agencies listed by the relief committee as operating a large free lance station, announced that it had stopped feeding homeless men altogether and would confine its activities to family welfare, coöperating with the clearing house.

"We operated a station at 1254 West Madison street, in coöperation with radio station WLS, but closed it after a conference with Wilfred S. Reynolds, director of the Council of Social Agencies," said George H. Lawton, superintendent of family welfare for the Volunteers.

"I am going to inform Mr. Beasley tomorrow that we shall coöperate in every way with the clearing house and limit our activities to family welfare."

Other Responses Received.

Responses from other independent operators were less favorable.

The Immanuel Baptist church missions, one at 23d street and Michigan avenue, feeding 2,000 daily, and the other at 921 North Wells street, feeding 1,000, were two of the largest listed by the relief committee. The Rev. Johnston Myers, pastor of the church, was out of town, but his assistant, the Rev. R. H. Crawford, was asked about the attitude of the church.

"I don't believe a word of that story about outsiders pouring into Chicago," said Mr. Crawford. "The men we feed are all residents of Chicago. We know that because some of them have been in the lines several years. They attend church regularly and are always under its spiritual influence. Some of them are too old to work and we cannot turn them down."

Mr. Crawford said Dr. Myers alone could state whether the church would limit its activities to feeding and lodging men approved by the clearing house.

Willing to Coöperate.

Mrs. Margaret Collins, operator of the feeding and lodging station in the old Criminal courts building, said that great efforts were put forth there to avoid caring for nonresidents and that she was willing to coöperate with the clearing house if they could work out a feasible plan. This place feeds about 3,000 twice daily and about 1,500 are given beds, she said.

Walter G. Taylor, operator of the Pacific Garden mission, 650 South State street, which feeds about 250, said that he would coöperate with the clearing house, but not to the extent of curtailing the mission's work, which he said does not discriminate between residents and nonresidents.

"Of course there are a great many out of town men here in the fall," he said. "They come here for the winter. Our work is done on strictly gospel lines."

Other Stations Listed.

Operators of smaller free lance stations were listed by the clearing house as follows:

West Side Mission, Green and Monroe streets	50
Volunteers' Rescue Mission, 14 South Sangamon street	50
Volunteer Crusaders' Mission, 1120 West Madison street	150
Chicago United Mission, 626 West Madison street	200
Bible Faith Mission, 12 South Sangamon street	100
Chicago Helping Hand Mission, 848 West Madison street	100
Methodist Church Mission, 14th street and Wabash avenue	400

W. Rufus Abbot of President Hoover's relief committee was advised by Wayne Humner, chairman of the state-wide activities committee of the governor's commission on unemployment, that Illinois, outside of Cook county, would need $5,800,000.

SEIZED ON SLAYING CHARGE.

George Jones, 55 years old, colored, was arrested in his home at 2115 Emerson street, Evanston, yesterday, for the slaying of a deputy sheriff of Neshoba county, Mississippi, in 1916.

NEW YORK IS WARNED DOLE IS INEVITABLE IF RELIEF FUND LAGS

New York, Oct. 2.—[Special.]—Speaking today before more than 250 of the city's leading business men, industrialists and financiers constituting the general committee of the emergency unemployment relief committee, Thomas W. Lamont warned that unless adequate aid is given by private organizations the state will be compelled to shoulder all the burden and the dole will become inevitable.

Former Gov. Alfred E. Smith, who followed Mr. Lamont, supplemented the latter's warning by saying that disorder and rioting may well follow in the trail of unemployment if generous help from private sources is not accorded to those in dire need.

Harvey D. Gibson, chairman, outlined the scope and purpose of the relief movement and expressed confidence that it will meet with a warm response from the community.

Seward Prosser, chairman of last year's emergency employment committee, added his exhortation to New York citizens to come to the assistance of the city's 750,000 unemployed. Of this number, it was brought out at the meeting, fully 160,000 are in extremely difficult circumstances and require assistance.

GIRL VICTIM'S REQUEST SAVES YOUNG BANDIT

At the request of the girl who narrowly escaped death in his first attempt at a holdup, Eigild Olsen, 17 years old, 2806 North Albany avenue, was granted probation on a charge of robbery yesterday by Municipal Judge J. William Brooks.

Wednesday Olsen pressed a revolver to the head of Miss Katherine Ferolie, 21 years old, 2827 North Talman avenue, and demanded her purse. Nervous, he pulled the trigger, but the cartridge was defective and did not explode.

His parents told Judge Brooks yesterday that the boy, who receives $45 a month as a messenger for a brokerage firm, is the sole support of a family of four. His father, Frank Olsen, a carpenter, has been out of work for two years. Eigild said that he had spent $2 of his $4 bank account foolishly and sought to commit a robbery rather than tell his family of his loss.

He was paroled to the family pastor, the Rev. N. P. Lang, 2624 North Fairfield avenue.

JURY RETURNS 2 INDICTMENTS AGAINST WEISS

Two more indictments charging larceny by bailee against David D. Weiss, tailor broker who handled approximately $1,000,000 in stock deals for Walter F. Wolf, embezzler of $3,666,929 from the Continental Illinois Bank and Trust company, were returned yesterday by the grand jury. The first two indictments against Weiss were returned on Thursday.

On the indictments yesterday Weiss is charged with thefts of $16,000 and $15,000 in securities which Wolf had turned over to him to invest. The other two indictments charged specific thefts of $55,000 and $40,000.

Weiss is free on a $12,000 bond. A bond on the second pair of indictments will not be set until Monday, according to an agreement between his attorneys and the state. Wolf is in the county jail. Having pleaded guilty to ten indictments charging embezzlement, Wolf will be sentenced by Chief Justice Harry Fisher of the Criminal court next Thursday.

Women Meet to Plan Children's Charity Tag Day

A group of women interested in the success of the impending Tag day of the Chicago Children's Benefit league met yesterday at Chase house, 211 South Ashland boulevard, to make final plans. The Tag day will be held on Monday and the proceeds will go to fifty children's charities. Taggers who give their services will sell the tags throughout the city, as this is Chicago's original Tag day. Mrs. Thomas G. English, president of the league, said that a goal of $100,000 has been set as the day's receipts.

SPRAGUE PLANS TO GIVE JOBS TO 1,750 MORE MEN

Commissioner of Public Works Sprague announced yesterday that he was considering a plan by which he expects to employ 1,750 additional laborers in his department without any additional expense to the city, virtually doubling the number of laborers in the department.

The plan calls for the employment of laborers now on the pay roll for only three days a week, with the additional men hired working the other three day period. This system will be given a trial in the street bureau first, and if it proves successful will be extended to the water pipe extension and construction divisions of the department. Civil service employes will not be affected.

Where considerable capital is invested in equipment that now lies idle part of the week the new plan will result in a saving to the city by making a continuous use of it.

John D. Jr. Saved $20,000 by Thrifty School Board

Pocantico Hills, N. Y., Oct. 2.—(AP)—The school board saved John D. Rockefeller Jr. $20,000 today. Rockefeller had offered to pay half the cost of a new school up to $100,000. The board accepted a bid of $160,000. Rockefeller will be billed for $80,000.

EISEN REPORTED TRYING TO RULE JEWISH BUTCHERS

Maxie Eisen, head of the fish peddlers' union and one of the original "public enemies," is striving to organize the 400 Jewish butchers of Chicago and levy tribute on them.

Reports yesterday indicated that he is holding out to some of the kosher meat dealers the hope that they may get rid of the strict supervision now exercised by the ruling board of the rabbis and sell to the orthodox meats that appear to be kosher, but are not.

It was pointed out there was a possibility, if Eisen succeeds in his attempt, that the meat dealers who join him may be placed on a proscribed list; orthodox members of the Jewish faith may be forbidden to eat meats from his members' shops. A ban of this kind was placed on the eating of poultry last winter when the Schochtim, or chicken killers' union, was found in the grip of racketeers.

The whole matter is to be laid before a called meeting of the butchers on Tuesday evening.

SOUTH SIDE DRUGGIST ROBBED.

Two armed men halted Bruno A. Bois, druggist at 8500 Stony Island avenue, in front of his store yesterday and robbed him of $147 and his automobile.

ATTENDS FATHER'S FUNERAL UNDER POLICE ESCORT

With a police escort, Abe H. Goldbogen, 25, of Los Angeles yesterday afternoon was allowed to attend the funeral of his father, Hyman Goldbogen, 59, who died at his home, 2834 Le Moyne avenue, early Thursday morning. The son had been arrested at the Chicago airport two hours before his father's death as he stepped from a transport plane on a charge of paying his fare with a worthless check.

The young man's relatives paid the disputed fare in order to secure his attendance at the funeral services at the Beth Aaron synagogue, but he remained technically a prisoner until word is received from Los Angeles that the charges have been dropped by the United Air Lines. Goldbogen told police he is an official of a contracting company in Los Angeles.

He declared he had rushed to the Los Angeles airport on hearing of his father's serious illness, forgetting to bring enough money for the plane fare. He left a blank check with officials of the transport line and telephoned a friend to make a deposit to cover the fare, he said.

A Great Store in a Great City THE FAIR State, Adams and Dearborn Streets

A LINE of SHOES NEVER BEFORE SHOWN by ANYONE FOR $6.60

This year we instructed our Style Scouts before they left for London to buy any Style in any Leather at any Price made by the best Custom Bootmakers in the World and we would reproduce it for our One Price—$6.60.

We gave them a blanket order to buy the best—regardless of price—and we reproduced them all, from Riding Boots to Walking Shoes.

These famous Custom Bootmakers are using the most expensive leathers — Bordeaux Grain, the finest calfskin in the world; Willow Calf tanned in Frankfort, Germany; Holland Grain tanned in Oisterwyck, Holland; Martin's of Glasgow expensive Moor Calf—and in the Regal Reproductions we used the same expensive leathers purchased from the same tanners.

Manfield's Stitched-Tip "Town Model", made of Martin's of Glasgow Imported Moor Calf was one of the shoes selected.

This celebrated leather costs just about twice as much per foot as the leather customarily used in shoes to retail at $5 and $6. It is a heavy, plump, pliable calfskin in a rich brown shade, with a smooth finish, and will take an excellent shine. It will not split, check or crack and will wear as long as you want to wear a shoe.

Manfield's Original with the Regal Reproduction is on display today in the windows of 100 Regal Stores from coast to coast.

And in the same window you will see other Regal Reproductions with the Original models in all Leathers and Styles, designed by the most famous bootmakers in the world, for street, dress and sport wear, and they are all one price, $6.60.

ALLMAN PLANS TO REORGANIZE ENTIRE FORCE

Names Detective Aid, Then Cancels Order.

Police Commissioner Allman plunged yesterday into discussions of the reorganization of his department, which, it was indicated, will be undertaken on a sweeping scale within the next few months.

He made one appointment, but rescinded it a few hours later. Lieut. Walter Storms, in charge of supervising squads at the detective bureau, and a former subordinate of the new commissioner when the latter commanded the Englewood and Stockyards districts, was named deputy chief of detectives.

Order Is Rescinded.

A few hours later the police teletype system carried a message rescinding the appointment order. It was learned later that Commissioner Allman and Chief of Detectives Schoemaker decided that a capable man should be placed in charge of the "Bedford Yard" detail, which Schoemaker headed until he got his present post. Lieut. Storms will probably get that assignment, it was said, and the post of deputy chief of detectives will remain vacant for the time being.

The proposed reorganization of the police will be no mere shakeup, transferring captains from one command to another, but a revision of the whole plan of police operation. In that connection efforts are being made to bring back to Chicago Bruce Smith, police expert of the National Institute of Public Administration in New York.

Smith undertook a year's investigation of the Chicago police department in 1929, which was the basis of a book-length report brought out under the sponsorship of Mayor Cermak's advisory committee. The report recommends a general centralization of responsibility in the department, including reductions in the authority of the captains and the placing over them of inspectors of police who would each command a group of police districts and be responsible for them directly to the commissioner.

Wants Smith Back.

Commissioner Allman yesterday expressed himself in favor of inviting Smith back to Chicago to act as an adviser during the reorganization of the department. Discussions have already been started, with an eye on the restricted city budget, with a view to finding means of paying for the expert's services.

Commissioner Allman won the complete allegiance of his office force yesterday when he left a number of visitors who had come to congratulate him and went to the back room of his office, where he shook hands with each of the police stenographers and clerks detailed there. One stenographer, a veteran of twenty years in the office, said it was the first time he had ever been so greeted by his commander.

Mayor Cermak visited the detective bureau last night and inspected the radio room. After listening to a number of messages he suggested one change.

"I notice," he said, "that many of the calls are to squads instructing them to report to their stations. Why couldn't the station commanders send them their instructions by radio. It means a little work expanding the message, but it seems the saving in time and work would justify the change."

Mayor Cermak yesterday gave his approval to Commissioner Allman's plan to move commissioner's headquarters from the city hall to the central police building at 11th and State streets. The transfer will take place about Dec. 1, the mayor said.

Commissioner Allman yesterday suspended Patrolman Charles Marine, who was arrested Thursday night by fellow policemen from the Cragin station after he had entered the real estate office of Benjamin L. Coolidge, 5049 Fullerton avenue, while drunk, and assaulted Coolidge.

The civil service commission yesterday dismissed from the force two patrolmen assigned to the First district, Frederick Sticken and Michael Caplis. Sticken, witnesses testified, went home drunk on Sept. 10 and threatened to beat his wife, while Caplis, witnesses said, was found the following day at Market street and Jackson boulevard, his uniform cap on backward, and he took intoxicated to patrol his beat.

FALL FATAL TO WORKER.

Cyrus Bates, 29 years old, 6350 South Sangamon street, was fatally injured yesterday when he fell 35 feet from a scaffolding while painting the inside of a grease tank at the Armour & Co. plant in the stockyards.

COWBOY LOSES SHIRT TO WILD CALF IN RODEO

Fancy roping contests, bareback riding of bucking broncos, cowgirls, riding contests, and roping events, in one of which a wild calf tore the purple silk shirt off a cowboy marked last night's opening of the rodeo in the Chicago Stadium. Col. W. T. Johnson, rancher of San Antonio, Tex., is the producer. The rodeo will continue for ten days.

Chester Byers, world champion fancy roper, who learned how to do trick roping from Will Rogers, with whom he toured Oklahoma and Arkansas last year, was the cowboy whose shirt was ripped from his back by the wild calf.

Mike Hastings, champion steer bulldogger of the world; Ruth Roach, trick rider; Bob Crosby, the only man who ever won the world's all around cowboy championship in three successive years, and Pete Knight, one of the most famous bronco riders, took part.

Bee Kirnan, who has been riding in rodeo for twenty years, and her husband, Tommy, performed before her mother, Mrs. Virginia Brosseau, of 5317 Congress street. One of the most famous teams is Tad Lucas, trick rider, and her husband, Buck.

Two Bankers End Lives Over Drop of British Pound

1,000 'MINERS' DIG COAL FROM OLD GARY DUMP

Find Fuel in 20 Year Old Refuse Heap.

The western outskirts of Gary took on the appearance of a gold rush town yesterday as 1,000 persons dug for coal and coke. The coal rush centered on four huge mounds of refuse dumped on either side of Industrial highway, the main thoroughfare between Gary and Indiana Harbor.

Some "prospector" discovered that there was coal in "them thar mounds" earlier in the day and the news spread rapidly. Within a few hours the dump heaps were crowded with amateur miners. A squad of police was dispatched to the scene to see that traffic was regulated and that all stuck to the claims which they had staked out.

Chief Joseph Shirk of the Gary fire department and some of his men went to the "mines" to protect the "miners" from injury.

Mounds Twenty Years Old.

It was believed that the mounds, 100 yard in length and about 20 feet high, held many tons of coal and coke. The United States Steel corporation dumped the refuse on the land twenty years ago.

The "miners" flocked to the scene in flivvers, trucks, and wagon. Some came on foot with bushel baskets and gunnysacks. The mounds bristled with shovels, picks, hoes, and makeshift tools. One little girl carried a large spoon and a brightly colored sand bucket, which she filed with coke.

Another Coal Rush.

The coal rush recalled a similar event in May on the bank of the Calumet river at the 100th street bridge. A fire swept over the docks of the Philadelphia and Reading Coal company at that point in November of 1906. The docks collapsed, buried in hundreds of tons of anthracite coal. The fire smouldered for two months. Afterward all that was left apparently was a heap of ashes. Layers of dirt covered it year after year until two small boys discovered the buried coal.

STATE SENATOR SHOT IN GIRL'S APARTMENT RESIGNS JERSEY POST

New York, Oct. 2.—[Special.]—State Senator Roy T. Yates of New Jersey, who was shot while in a mid-town apartment with Ruth Jayne Cranmer last August, has resigned.

ROY T. YATES.

The announcement was made today by Senate President Joseph G. Wolber as members of the senate judiciary committee convened at Trenton to decide whether their investigation of the senator's conduct should go into the handling of funds of the tangible personal property tax commission, of which he was chairman.

Yates also resigned from the pension survey commission in a letter which requested the commission to reconsider the voiding of two vouchers he had authorized for work he declared Miss Cranmer had performed.

Neither Yates nor Miss Cranmer, who is under bail charged with the shooting, could be located by James Turp, committee sergeant-at-arms, today.

Find Saws Outside Cell Used by Jordan at Jail

A dozen saws wrapped in a handkerchief were found yesterday in the yard of the county jail beneath the window of the cell formerly occupied by Frank Jordan, slayer of Policemen Anthony Ruthy and Patrick Durkin, under sentence to die in the electric chair Oct. 16. Warden David Moneypenny thwarted a plot to liberate 30 prisoners from the F section of the jail Wednesday when he searched Jordan's former cell and discovered a hole partially cut through a metal panel.

BANDIT VICTIM ARRAIGNED IN ROBES OF K. K. K.

Wins Freedom, Also New Pair of Pants.

Jack Hannan, 33 years old, guest at the Legion hotel, Madison and Des Plaines streets, was arraigned yesterday before Judge Edward B. Casey in the Des Plaines court attired in the flowing white robe of the Ku Klux Klan to answer a charge of indecent exposure. Hannan had lost all his clothes except his shirt to a pair of Negro holdup men.

Judge Casey listened to Hannan's story of the early morning holdup when he was looking for work and discharged him after handing him a $5 bill and directing a friend of the court, Albert Chicoine, to take Hannan in his automobile to a store on Madison street and buy him a pair of pants.

Hannan said he was stopped by the two Negro bandits early yesterday morning at 14th and Halsted streets, pushed into an alley and robbed of $19, a complete new suit and his shoes and socks. He knocked on the door of 334 West 14th street, the home of Samuel Isaacson, to ask for the loan of a pair of pants, but Isaacson called the police. Hannan acquired the Ku Klux robe from Assistant State's Attorney Joseph R. Orrico, who found it in the police store room, and who felt he had to clothe Hannon somehow before bringing him into court.

SEIZE BEER; ARREST TWO.

Prohibition agents yesterday raided a garage in the rear of 1938 West Chicago avenue and seized three 1,000 gallon vats of mash, 14 barrels of beer, and a truck with seven half barrels of beer. They arrested Edward Larsen and Gerald Larkin.

THOMAS LIPTON, WHO NEVER QUIT TRYING, IS DEAD

Spent Millions, but Failed to Win Yachting Cup.

America, an unknown contender, crossed the Atlantic under her own sail, took her place on the starting line with a field of 18 illustrious "thoroughbreds" and astounded every sportsman in Britain by hugging to herself the victory and the cup in a race around the Isle of Wight. Six years later the cup became an international trophy, dubbed "the cup of all nations."

Sir Thomas made several notable attempts to recapture the cup, but try as he might, the battered mug never budged from its pedestal in the New York Yacht club. He took up the quest for the cup in 1899 when he appeared off Sandy Hook with his yacht Shamrock I., first of five famous Shamrock sisters that always proved a mite too slow for the American built defenders.

The most spectacular of all the races since 1851 was the great contest in 1920, when the Shamrock and the Resolute were pitted against each other. Sir Thomas actually won two of the five races and had the satisfaction of seeing one of his Shamrocks cross the finish line a victor for the first time since he began racing in America. In his optimism he ordered a special casket in which to carry the cup back to England, but the casket went back empty.

Born in Glasgow.

Aside from his long and ardent yachting career, the life of Sir Thomas Lipton was full of many interesting features.

He was born May 10, 1851, at Glasgow, Scotland, of Irish parents. After a brief schooling he was compelled to seek work to aid his parents in their struggle for a livelihood, but after two years as a messenger boy the lure of bigger things got the better of him.

Stowing away on a steamer, bound he knew not where, he landed in America and worked for a while on a rice plantation in South Carolina. Making his way to New York two years later, he found that fortune still kept far ahead of him, and many a night he is said to have slept on park benches. Finding work at last, he soon had sufficient money to pay his way by steerage back to Glasgow, where he landed without funds but with a head full of American ideas.

Starts Advertising Campaign.

Most of all he had been impressed with the American methods of advertising. Describing these in glowing terms to his parents, who had accumulated a few hundred dollars, he succeeded in persuading them to open a small provision store. He advertised boldly and expensively, considering the capital behind him, and soon made his name known throughout Glasgow.

The shop prospered and soon another one was opened. After a few years he had a whole string of shops in Glasgow and was growing rich. He entered the London field, then Liverpool and Manchester, and at the height of his business career controlled more than 600 stores in England, America and other parts of the world.

In order to supply his retail stores more directly, Lipton bought a tea plantation in Ceylon, to which he later added a coffee plantation and then a cocoa grove. Finding these investments profitable, he continued to purchase plantations, and soon his teas were known around the world.

Estimate Riches at 50 Millions.

In 1898 he converted his various enterprises into a huge limited liability company, which relieved him of many business cares and permitted him to give more time to yachting. His fortune later was estimated at $50,000,000.

A self-made man, Lipton's first recognition from the British royal family came in 1897, when he was knighted for contributing $425,000 to supply the tea drunk by 300,000 poverty stricken Londoners, during the week of Queen Victoria's jubilee. In 1901 he was created knight commander of the Victorian Order, and a year later was made a baronet.

Physically Lipton was tall, straight and of medium build. His skin was whipped brown by the winds, his mustache and little goatee were full gray, his gait betrayed the roll of a sailor, and his blue eyes carried the half-roguish twinkle born of humor, of which Sir Thomas had a goodly share.

Lipton never married, and under English law his great estate probably will go to distant relatives. Once, in conversation with newspapermen, he named his two greatest regrets.

"The first and foremost is that I never have lifted the America's cup, and the second is that I never have been married," he said.

SIR THOMAS LIPTON WELL KNOWN IN U. S.; VISITED CHICAGO OFTEN

Sir Thomas Lipton first visited Chicago sixty-three years ago as a 17 year old boy immigrant from Scotland. He worked for a while in the stockyards here. Shortly after his stay in Chicago he returned to Scotland to start his first small grocery store and to begin his long rise to fame as a merchant prince and yachtsman.

Sir Thomas returned in 1901, to be wined and dined, and he remarked upon Chicago's great changes and improvements since 1868, when he first visited the city. He returned again in 1920, and at that time remarked upon the beauty of American women, and how much more fashionable they were than English women.

Again Sir Thomas returned, on three consecutive years, 1926, 1927 and 1928, at the invitation of the Chicago Yacht club. He became friendly with Commodores Sheldon Clark and Hollis E. Potter of the yacht club, by whom he was entertained frequently. On one visit he remarked he had returned to Chicago because "I heard that you have a wax model here of an American who does not own a motor car, and I've come to see it."

$4,000 BRACELET LEFT IN COAT IS RETURNED SAFELY

M. Dach, wealthy lingerie manufacturer of Jackson, Mich., and his wife entered the store of David Adler, furrier, at 169 North Michigan avenue Thursday afternoon. They left a fur coat.

Yesterday morning Mr. and Mrs. Dach were the first persons to enter the fur store. They were worried. When they had told their story, Mr. Adler pulled a diamond and emerald bracelet from his pocket and handed it to Mrs. Dach.

The bracelet, valued at $4,000, had fallen out of the pocket of Mrs. Dach's fur coat the night before in the factory at the rear of the store. Sam Slier, factory manager, found it and gave it to Mr. Adler.

When the bracelet was returned Mr. Dach reached for his checkbook to reward Mr. Adler. The latter asked him to give the reward to charity, which Mr. Dach announced he would do. Mr. and Mrs. Dach are in Chicago on a shopping tour, and are guests at the Palmer house.

Welcome Gore Back to Business After Illness

Members of the executive committee and officers of the Chicago Association of Commerce welcomed Edward E. Gore, past president of their organization, on his return yesterday to active business life after a year's illness. Mr. Gore, who is a senior partner of Edward Gore & Co., certified public accountants, has been a member of the executive committee of the commerce association for 19 years.

Two Young California Bandit-Slayers Hanged

Represa, Cal., Oct. 2.—(AP)—William Hudson, 25, and Robert O'Neill, 21, both of Los Angeles, were hanged at Folsom prison today for the murder of Perman C. Calderwood, municipal court bailiff in Los Angeles, during a holdup.

WOMAN TELLS OF TRIP WITH JUDGE ON COURT FUNDS

Testimony Brings Arrest of Ohio Jurist.

Portsmouth, O., Oct. 2.—[Special.]—Municipal Judge William R. Sprague, 55, was arrested today on the order of Common Pleas Judge Russell McCurdy, who is presiding at the trial of Mrs. Marguerite Tidd, 25, former clerk of the Municipal court, charged with embezzling $2,000 of court funds.

Judge McCurdy issued the arrest order after Mrs. Tidd, testifying in her own defense, swore that Judge Sprague had taken the court funds in question to finance a trip with her to Atlantic City and New York as well as week-ends at his summer camp.

Husband Threatened Suit.

Judge Sprague, after being served with the bench warrant, appeared and testified as a state witness. He admitted, on a direct question from Judge McCurdy, that he had taken money from the court cash, but said he had replaced it with his personal checks. Bank officials testified that Sprague's balance would not cover some of the checks. The judge, after being lodged in jail, was released on $10,000 bond pending the filing of formal charges by County Prosecutor Cameron Meacham.

Mrs. Tidd told on the stand of the three weeks' trip with Judge Sprague to Atlantic City and New York, financed, she said, by court funds. She told of being surprised by her husband during a week-end with the judge at the Sprague summer place.

Judge Takes Stand.

Cecil Tidd, the husband, testified that after he had caught Judge Sprague and his wife at the camp he threatened to sue the judge, and that Sprague admitted all the charges and offered to settle for $1,500, which Tidd said he accepted.

Judge Sprague has been on the Municipal court bench for a number of years and is a candidate for reelection this fall. Immediately following his arrest he voluntarily stepped out as a municipal judge until he has been either convicted or cleared of the charges. He requested that the prosecutor present his case to the grand jury as soon as possible.

Judge Sprague is a former member of the state legislature and is prominent in the social life here.

Ex-Prosecutor's Accuser Arrested as Embezzler

Homer R. Ingalls, 1819 Fargo avenue, who recently charged Theodore Miller, former assistant state's attorney, with assault, was himself arrested yesterday on a charge of embezzlement. He surrendered at the detective bureau after he learned that his employer, John C. Bowers, 4442 Broadway, had obtained a warrant charging him with withholding $500 which he had collected in rents from buildings for which Bowers is the receiver.

MRS. COLLINGS FAILS TO IDENTIFY 2 HELD IN FLORIDA

Coroner Finds Yachtsman Slain by "Unknown."

Daytona Beach, Fla., Oct. 3 [Saturday.]—(AP)—Mrs. Lillian Collings, Stamford, Conn., widow, early today failed to identify Dr. Leslie D. Ritchie and his son, William, as the slayers of her husband on a yacht in Long Island sound Sept. 9.

Twelve men of similar stature were in the room when Mrs. Collings entered. She calmly glanced at them and shook her head negatively. She was able to pick out Ritchie and his son from the group because she had seen their photographs.

Dr. Ritchie, a veterinary surgeon, said: "I am not the man."

"No," Mrs. Collings agreed.

"Thank you," Ritchie answered.

Son Shows Emotion.

William Ritchie, 23 year old son of the veterinarian, grasped Mrs. Collings' hand and shook it. He showed signs of emotion.

They did not speak.

Shortly after Mrs. Collings failed to identify the Ritchies the father and son were released. They had been detained two days for questioning, the police saying they had received information that the father and son might throw some light on the Collings murder mystery.

The Ritchies left with their wives and the three year old daughter of William Ritchie for their home near a woodyard they operate on the outskirts of Daytona Beach.

Returning to New York.

Mrs. Collings, Assistant District Attorney Fred J. Munder of Suffolk county, N. Y., and her attorney, William A. Kelley, prepared to leave on a train at 5 a. m. for the return trip to New York.

They arrived here at midnight from New York to see if they could identify the Ritchies.

The wives of the two Ritchies, together with newspaper men, were barred from the meeting of Mrs. Collings and the two prisoners.

They stood outside of the jail and looked through windows.

Attorneys for the Ritchies, who were present at the meeting, announced Mrs. Collings' failure to identify the two men and were authority for the conversation that took place in the private hearing.

Slain by "Unknown," Verdict.

New York, Oct. 2.—[Special.]—Coroner William B. Gibson of Suffolk county today formally decided that Benjamin Collings came to his death "at the hands of a person or persons unknown."

The verdict was purely perfunctory, though the final testimony at the inquest given by Dr. Vincent Macaulay, the official observer at the Collings inquest, developed what District Attorney Alexander G. Blue termed a "direct contradiction" of Mrs. Collings' story.

BISHOP CANNON COMPLAINS HE'S BEEN SLIGHTED

"Ignored" at Conference; He's "Amazed."

Roanoke, Va., Oct. 2.—(AP)—Bishop James Cannon Jr., charging he had been "discourteously" ignored at the three day Baltimore conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, South, today scored presiding Bishop Edwin D. Mouzon.

Delivering what he called a "farewell address," he said in the 43 years he had been attending the conferences he never had seen one bishop so humble another.

BISHOP EDWIN D. MOUZON.

Bishop Mouzon listened to the verbal attack and ended the session without replying.

Expresses Amazement.

"Whatever may be the personal attitude of the presiding bishop, he is the representative of the church in his official activities, and I as a bishop of our great church cannot accept such treatment without an expression of my amazement," Bishop Cannon said.

"While I have no personal feeling in this matter, I have been amazed that any bishop of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, should be so unaware or intentionally unmindful of the courtesy so uniform under such circumstances as to request a bishop of our own church to rise to be introduced from the floor without any invitation at that time or at any other time, either publicly or personally, to take a seat upon the platform."

Told "Not to Come."

Bishop Cannon told newspaper men after the session that Bishop Mouzon had sent him a telegram asking him not to come to the conference or make a speech. He said his reference on the floor to a "farewell address" meant that he was leaving the conference and returning to Washington tonight.

A hush fell over the conference as Bishop Cannon began his remarks. He said he had been a member of the Virginia conference since 1888 and had attended from 75 to 100 sessions of annual and general conferences before without witnessing such treatment of a visiting bishop. He said it was customary for visiting bishops to be introduced from the platform and to be invited to take a seat there.

Bishop Mouzon listened without changing expression and at the conclusion of Bishop Cannon's short speech said: "Are there any further announcements?"

Brokerage Account Scanned.

New York, Oct. 2.—[Special.]—Scrutiny of the brokerage account maintained by Bishop James Cannon Jr. of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, with the raided and now defunct firm of Kable & Co. has been made a part of the grand jury inquiry under way at Washington, D. C., concerning Bishop Cannon's management of campaign funds in 1928, it was learned here today.

At one time Bishop Cannon was listed on the books of Kable & Co. as holding about $10,000 worth of stock, according to the testimony in the bankruptcy action.

CALL FRELINGHUYSEN IN BISHOP CANNON GRAND JURY INQUIRY

Washington, D. C., Oct. 2.—[Special.]—Joseph S. Frelinghuysen, former senator from New Jersey, who contributed $20,000 to Bishop James Cannon Jr. for the fight against Alfred E. Smith in 1928, will be subpoenaed to appear before the District of Columbia grand jury next week, it was ascertained tonight. The grand jury will begin an investigation to determine if the bishop and Miss Ada L. Burroughs, treasurer of the Virginia anti-Smith committee, conspired to violate the corrupt practices act by alleged failure to make proper reports of campaign expenses in that contest.

John J. Wilson, assistant United States attorney, who will be in charge of the inquiry, returned from New York today and said he had conferred there yesterday with Mr. Frelinghuysen. Further investigations are proceeding in New York and the names of several witnesses to be summoned will be made public tomorrow, Mr. Wilson stated.

Leo A. Rover, United States attorney for the District of Columbia, who assigned Mr. Wilson to the case, states that more than a dozen witnesses will be called, including officials of the Methodist Episcopal church, South, of which the bishop is a member.

STATE TO AWARD $32,584,000 IN ROAD CONTRACTS

Work to Give Jobs to Thousands.

for work on the road projects and 35,000 in the preparation and delivery of material and supplies.

30,000 Kept at Work.

This summer, the state highway work alone has employed continuously an average of 10,000 men directly and the same number indirectly. The counties have been employing about 10,000 men directly and indirectly. This is a total of 30,000 men engaged in state and county road building, 15,000 at the scene of operations and 15,000 in cement plants, steel mills, gravel and sand pits, shipping points, and so forth.

The state is holding up its fall and winter contracts, awaiting a decision of the Illinois Supreme court on an appeal from a ruling of the Sangamon County Circuit court that the prevailing wage act is unconstitutional. The high tribunal's opinion is expected in the October term.

$3,554,596 Bids Pending.

"We have bids pending," said Mr. Sheets, "for $3,554,596 worth of work and are ready to advertise immediately on $3,827,863 worth of other work. These projects could employ 5,256 men until freezing weather curtails operations.

"Nothwithstanding this and former delays due to difficulties in administrating the prevailing wage act, we have been able to do a fair amount of construction this year. There has not been the millions of idle money in the treasury, as has been reported."

Up to Sept. 16, the state had paved 627 miles of bond issue routes this year and Mr. Sheets said he expected the year's mileage to reach 800, as compared with 790 miles in 1930. The counties on Sept. 16 had surfaced, mainly with gravel, 368 miles. The counties' total for the year is expected to reach 642 as compared with 291 miles last year. The total for 1931 state and county road construction will reach 1,442 miles.

ALLEGED SLAYER OF WOMAN DIES IN AUTO CRASH

The search for Lester [Blackie] Foust, sought for the last six weeks for the murder of Mrs. Ann Patterson at Silver Lake, Wis., ended yesterday when Kenosha county authorities learned that Foust died Wednesday night of injuries received in an automobile accident at Lincoln, Neb.

At the Lincoln hospital, where he was taken following the accident, Foust used the alias of Lester Langdon. His identity was discovered when hospital authorities sent a telegram to his brother, Gilbert Foust, 1641 North Le Claire avenue, whom he had listed as his "closest relative," notifying the brother of Foust's death. The message was intercepted by Chicago police, who had been watching the brother's home since Foust was named as the killer of Mrs. Patterson. The identification was later confirmed by the means of fingerprints.

Mrs. Patterson was strangled and her body left beside a road in Silver Lake, a summer resort community west of Kenosha, Wis., on Aug. 19. Nels Nelson, driver of the death car, who is held at Kenosha in $2,000 bonds as an accessory to the murder, and Mrs. Alma Ledbetter, held as a witness, named Foust as the killer. The party had been on a roadhouse tour on the night of the slaying.

MAYOR ABDUCTED BY BANK ROBBERS AT INDIANA TOWN

Hartford City, Ind., Oct. 2.—[Special.]—Four unmasked bandits today robbed the Citizens' State Bank of Hartford City of approximately $8,000 and kidnaped the mayor. The bandits escaped in a black sedan bearing an Iowa license amid a hail of bullets by a posse of citizens. Mayor Elmer Lucas, who also is assistant cashier of the bank, was released at the edge of town.

Loot was taken from the money drawer and vault of the bank.

Lucas returned to the bank fifteen minutes after the holdup and told of the thrilling few minutes he had while captive of the bandits.

This is the second time the bank was robbed this year, bandits obtaining more than $12,000 July 9.

Author Changes Her Characters Into Mere Types

"Red Headed Woman" Called Less Human.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"Red Headed Woman," by Katharine Brush. [Farrar & Rinehart.] Published today.

IN Katharine Brush's latest novel, "Red Headed Woman," she writes in much the same manner as in "Young Man of Manhattan," a combination of sophisticated, popular, "young" words polished up by the brush of humor. There is a certain buoyancy in the way she writes, a certain zest for the business of writing. Her prose has every quality to make it vastly popular. As I read "Red Headed Woman" I thought many times, "This is the kind of writing that the public wants. There's a bright girl that knows it, too."

KATHARINE BRUSH.

But also as I read "Red Headed Woman" I also thought, "Something has changed the author of this book in her attitude toward her characters. That has changed entirely."

Always before her characters have been human, too human human beings for whom she, as author, has felt a certain tenderness in their frailty. Their youth, their inexperience, the irony of life biffing them, as life does, between rounds in the fight, the inhumanity of man to man—all were inherent in the author's attitude toward her characters. The result was that very real quality which has made Katharine Brush one of the most popular novelists of her generation. Miss Brush laughed, not at her characters, but with them, as she sighed with them, and, when occasion demanded, wept with them.

In "Red Headed Woman" her attitude has changed entirely. She no longer laughs with, but at them. Her heroine is a selfish little pig, her hero a good hearted fool, their marriage the laughing stock of the town. Their social high spot is the only party which the heroine ever was able to achieve, a party at which she was so skillfully humiliated as it is the fortune of few persons to be put in their places. Miss Brush has made her heroine as consistent a character as any one could ask. But, somehow, life never is consistent, and her consistency is too utter. "Red Headed Woman" has every quality of reality except realness. And that, I feel, is because the author has not felt her characters as human creatures, but as types.

The heroine is the type of beautiful, scheming, selfish girl who takes everything and gives nothing and thinks the other fellow has made a better bargain than she has. The hero is the type of college athlete who goes into business with a bound, lives his life like a sportsman, is too dumb to know that he is headed toward the divorce courts and never thinks of not marrying a girl who has been seen leaving his house at 5 a. m. As a matter of fact, he would have been a darling if Miss Brush had been less interested in the type and more in the individual.

Irene is the type of "society" girl in a small town who always does the right thing, even to making her husband believe that he loves another woman.

Gaerste is the type of new rich New Yorker who does everything with the gesture of a czar.

The hero's father is the type of small town millionaire who pays his son five hundred dollars a month salary, when he would have to pay some one else twice the amount, but knows how to make out a check for $25,000 when he really wants something.

Sally is the type of small town beautician—but there we stop. It isn't true that Sally is just a type. Of all the characters in the book she is the one individual. She is a character. Sally is exactly what she is, without pretence or flapdoddle. She's out for a good time with all and sundry, but in love with her Joe, somebody that neither some of the people nor all the people can fool, neither all of the time nor some of the time. She has everybody's number, but she also has her own. The reader feels that Sally is a real person and not only a skillfully portrayed type.

It is difficult to make oneself clear about one's critical reactions to "Red Headed Woman." Miss Brush has lost none of her cunning in the art of writing. "Red Headed Woman" has the quality of popular appeal that her former novels have had. It will inevitably find itself among the super six of the best sellers.

Two Writers Tell Story of Heroic La Salle

One Depicts Buffaloes on Chicago Site.

BY EDITH WEIGLE.

"La Salle," by La V. Jacks. [Scribners.]

"The French Adventurer," by M. Constantin-Weyer. [Macaulay.]

RENE ROBERT CAVELIER, Sieur de la Salle, is honored by two contemporary accounts of his life, which appear almost simultaneously.

Dr. Jacks paints a life size portrait of him with brushes dipped in the brilliant colors of his many exploits. From his boyhood in the ancient French city of Rouen to his tragic death in the fever-ridden swamps of this country, the author bufids up, chapter by chapter, a moving, vivid picture of the man until, at the end, one understands not only his accomplishments, but the spirit that prompted them. One sees the man known to history as La Salle.

Of especial interest to Chicagoans is "La Salle" because part of the book describes Chicagoland when its chief citizens were Indians and herds of buffalo. Here is the way this country looked: "Far and near like living glaciers flowed the buffalo herds emigrating westward. By day they formed huge columns and marching ranks, by night one might hear their vast bellowing and roaring till the earth seemed to quake alike under the ponderous tread of marching divisions and the harsh thunder of their heavy voices. The great brutes forded the river in the shallows and swam like prehistoric monsters in the deeper currents where the waves surged darkly over their burly heads and shoulders." Imagine that where now is the thunder of traffic and the daily racket of the "el."

The settlement made by La Salle and Tonty "of the iron hand" at Starved Rock also is pictured. A map at the beginning of the book shows the main points of interest in the explorer's journey and includes Fort Miami on Lake Michigan, not far from the present Chicago, and Fort St. Louis on the Illinois river southwest of us.

No life of La Salle is complete without the men who figured in it: Tonty, the friendly Count de Frontenac, the strange Father Hennepin, and La Salle's crafty and jealous brother, Abbé Jean. There are many close-ups of the Indians, too, and of the clever and fearless Frenchman talking with them, giving them gifts, winning them over, mastering them. Abandoned, he once ranged the forest for two years alone. He new hardship, fever, famine, unending toil. Because of his love of the new world and his Norman spirit of adventure he gave up almost everything that makes the normal man's life worth living and he died still hunting, still exploring, still dauntless.

"The French Adventurer," by Maurice Constantin-Weyer, covers practically the same ground as Dr. Jacks' book, but is written throughout more in story form. Long conversations born in the brain of the author and attributed to La Salle, his companions and the Indians give the narrative a swing and a flexibility, but take away from that feeling of absolute veracity and authenticity that makes "La Salle" engrossing reading.

Constantin-Weyer is interested primarily in the thrilling story afforded by his subject, and aided by a keen imagination he writes more from the angle of fiction than from that of pure biography, although, of course, all the facts are there. His account lacks the detail and the power of the Jacks book.

He knows the country of La Salle extremely well, however, as he himself has been a trader, fur trapper and rancher in the Canadian woods and was able to use as source material the actual territory and substantially the same conditions of life that La Salle lived and worked in. He has traveled over much of the explorer's trail and calls himself a coureur de bois, as did the companions of La Salle.

This reader, notwithstanding, feels that Dr. Jacks' biography is by far the finer piece of work of the two.

SHORT STORIES FILL 600 PAGES WRITTEN BY STACY AUMONIER

BY FRANK SWINNERTON.

LONDON. — [Special Correspondence.]—A new collection of the late Stacy Aumonier's short stories is to be published in the autumn. It fills a big book of six hundred pages and, in conjunction with the volume published about eighteen months ago, called "Ups and Downs," should form a complete representation of Aumonier's work.

STACY AUMONIER.

"Ups and Downs," it will be recalled, contained a preface by Mr. Galsworthy, who made the highest claims for Aumonier, and any reader who takes the pains to study carefully the contents of the two books will be amazed at the general level of excellence maintained in them. Aumonier began his professional career as an entertainer.

He wrote his own monologues, and delivered them very well indeed. He would stand up perfectly straight, a slight figure with a sweep of dark hair across his brow, and a black stock about his great winged collar and would, without the smallest affectation, deliver his witty, observant sketch of some slightly exaggerated common sense. The effect was quietly excellent. And from writing his own monologues he began to write stories.

The first of them, "The Friends," which was based upon some perceptions of Aumonier's own, realized during his engagement with a big London furnishing store, made a stir among watchful critics. It was a terribly unemphatic study of two heavy drinkers. I do not think the author ever surpassed this story, and I doubt if he ever again equaled it. But he had found a new metier, and from that time until his death he was chiefly a short story writer. The work is good, much better than some of that which is elaborately extolled by the highbrows.

And it can be read. This new collection is called "Little Windows," an apt title for the work of one who trusted to his observation of character, and then made the observation a modern instance for the delight of those less gifted than himself. The book has no preface; Mr. Galsworthy's praise of Aumonier, printed in "Ups and Downs," will apply equally to the newer collection. It was at Mr. Galsworthy's house at Hampstead that I first met the author of "Little Windows," but the last time I saw Aumonier was at the Savage club in London, when I was lunching with H. M. Tomlinson.

He came up to have a chat and then mentioned that he was going away to try and get better. He never got better.

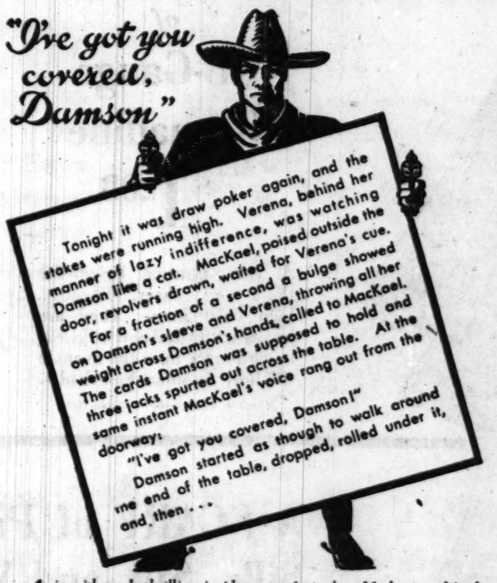
"I've got you covered, Damson"



Tonight it was draw poker again, and the stakes were running high. Verena, behind her Damson like a cat. MacKael, poised outside the manner of lazy indifference, was watching door, revolvers drawn, waited for Verena's cue. For a fraction of a second a bulge showed on Damson's sleeve and Verena, throwing all her weight across Damson's hands, called to MacKael. The cards Damson was supposed to hold and three jacks spurted out across the table. At the same instant MacKael's voice rang out from the doorway:

"I've got you covered, Damson!"

Damson started as though to walk around one end of the table, dropped, rolled under it, and then . . .

It is with such thrilling incidents as these that Katharine Newlin Burt tells her story. In moments of swift action the reader sits as tense as though he himself were facing MacKael's six-shooters. You will want to own a copy of

Portrait Poems Get Boost When Arlen Obtains One

Last year the London literary world was amused when Osbert Sitwell inserted an ad in "the agony column" of the Times announcing that he was prepared to execute portrait poems for clients at the following rates: Full length, 100 guineas; head and shoulders, 50 guineas; family groups, 200 guineas.

But the rich, says Mr. Sitwell, are ever blind to their interests and no clients appeared until Michael Arlen, on hearing that no commissions had been received, arranged for a sitting.

The results were that Mr. Sitwell received a number of orders—some from America, but no family groups—and that Doubleday, Doran & Co. and William Heinemann published a limited edition of "Three-quarter Length Portrait of Michael Arlen." The edition, signed by Mr. Sitwell, is limited to 520 copies, half of which are offered for sale in this country and half in Great Britain and Ireland.

Meetings and Lectures

The Washington Book shop will have a tea this afternoon for three Chicago authors, Robert Andrews, author of "Windfall"; Dan Steele, author of "Snow Trenches," and Robert Casey, author of "Easter Island."

This afternoon at a meeting of the Rotary club Albert Edward Wiggam will lecture.

At the meeting of the Chicago Library club on Thursday evening at 8 o'clock at Kroch's Book store, 206 North Michigan avenue, Mr. A. Kroch will discuss "Fall Trends in Books."

The Chicago Dickens fellowship will have a dinner next Saturday at 6:30 o'clock at the Great Northern hotel, at which time Katharine Reynolds will review "David Copperfield," by Charles Dickens.

Ethel M. Colson Brasolton will review "Shadows on the Rock," by Willa Cather; "All Passion Spent," by V. Sackville-West, and "A White Bird Flying," by Bess Streeter Aldrich, at the meeting of the Nineteenth Century club of Oak Park on Tuesday morning, and also at the Woman's club of Glen Ellyn on Tuesday afternoon.

50,000 CHINESE GO ON STRIKE IN JAPANESE MILLS

War Spirit Growing as Factions Unite.

BY CHARLES DAILEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, Oct. 2.—The war spirit in China is mounting rapidly. Telegrams are reaching Nanking from all regions urging an immediate declaration of war on Japan. More and more the rival Chinese factions are becoming united, and the Japanese are apprehensive that trouble will first start through the labor element in Shanghai.

Nanking today received information that the Manchurian provinces and inner Mongolia have declared their independence, creating a "chungho," or peace preservation committee, with Japanese counselors.

Sends Note to League.

The Nationalist government has cabled Dr. Alfred Sze, Chinese delegate to the league of nations at Geneva, instructing him to inform the league that China will not recognize the new government and that, therefore, the league must deal with Japan only, should the Manchurian union eventuate. A similar notice was sent to America and other powers.

Representatives of 50,000 workers in Japanese owned cotton mills here voted to strike tonight. They are demanding that the government guarantee a $500,000 pay roll monthly. Another meeting, held under the direction of the "tangpu," or county organization, was attended by representatives of 450 unions. It was decided to telegraph the International Workers of the World for support and also to telegraph Nanking to ask for an immediate declaration of war.

Canton Submits Terms.

The Nanking government and the rebel Cantonese faction are rapidly nearly harmony. New terms were wired to Nanking, in which the release of Hu Han-ming and three others held prisoners there by order of President Chiang Kai-shek, was demanded. The peace commission sitting at Canton is also demanding a joint administration of foreign affairs, including Manchuria, prior to the opening of the unification conference. The meeting will be transferred to Shanghai, with prospects that reunion may be effected in a week.

C. T. Wang, who resigned as foreign minister following an attack on him last Monday by students displeased with his method of handling the Manchurian trouble, reached Shanghai today on a gunboat and was taken to a hospital. Wellington Koo, another former foreign minister, also arrived here. Thus, Shanghai has become the center for future activities.

Report Railway Cut.

Chen Ming-shu, who has accepted the post of commander of the garrisons at Shanghai and Nanking, will leave Canton Sunday. He was formerly chairman of the Kwangtung provincial government.

Reports from Peiping say that the railway to Mukden has been definitely severed at Shanhaikwan, where it crosses the great wall. Japan and China accuse each other of the responsibility.

Another report asserts that the soviet troops massed opposite Manchuli, on the northwestern Manchurian border, total 70,000.

Japan, evidently realizing the danger of disorders in Shanghai, showed its preparedness this afternoon by parading tanks and also motorized machine guns through Nanking road, in the heart of the international settlement, as a means of impressing the homegoing business men.

PAIR SEIZED IN 8 MILE CHASE ADMIT ROBBERY

CRIMINAL COURT.

Robert Connelly, robbery, sentenced to 1 year to life in Pontiac reformatory; Ferdinand Pyfrom, larceny, sentenced to 1 to 10 years in Pontiac reformatory; Joseph Hudson and Lawrence Shalby, larceny, sentenced to 1 year each in the Bridewell by Judge Walter Stanton.

John Sanford, robbery, sentenced to 1 year to life in the penitentiary by Judge George Fred Rush.

Isaac Davenport and Alfred Jefferson, robbery, sentenced to 1 to 20 years each in the penitentiary by Judge Joseph Kelly.

William B. Lanners, 23 years old, 840 Dakin street, who says he is a printer, and Fred Schmit, 20 years old, 3236 North Leavitt street, captured in Evanston after an eight mile chase from Des Plaines on Thursday night, were questioned by police in Des Plaines yesterday. The two confessed robbing a hardware store in Barrington.

A dozen policemen found the youths crouching in the bushes on the estate of Mrs. Daniel H. Burnham, widow of the architect, at 232 Dempster street, in Evanston, after their car had crashed into a telephone pole. Two accomplices, whom the youths refused to name, escaped after the crash. The Kansas license plates on their car showed that it is the property of the Rev. Richard Archer of Watseka, formerly of Great Bend, Kas.

COMMERCE BODY WANTS CHINA AND JAPAN QUOTA LIST

Says Present Bar Hurts Commerce of U. S.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 2.—[Special.]—A recommendation that China and Japan be given immigration quotas similar to those allotted to European countries was submitted to the executive council of the United States chamber of commerce today by that organization's immigration committee.

"The attitude of the United States chamber of commerce has been consistently one of friendliness and good will to the countries of the far east," the recommendation said. "It is the conviction of the committee that the soundness of this position has become increasingly evident, not only to business men but to our citizens generally. The committee accordingly believes the time has now come to apply to Japan, China, and other far eastern countries the quota law which has been in successful operation for seven years in respect to the entrance into the United States of European nationals."

Trade Now Hampered.

The immigration committee pointed out that good will between oriental countries and the United States was suffering as a result of the exclusion policy. "American business men who have visited Japan, and many of those who are engaged in trade with that country," it was stated, "assert that the discrimination against Japanese in our immigration policy and laws has been a detriment to the greater development of Japanese good will toward the United States and American interests, and has hampered our trade with that country."

Millions of Trade Involved.

For the last seven years, 1924 to 1930 inclusive, our foreign trade with Japan has averaged $619,323,000 per year, and with China $248,269,000 per year, the committee stated.

If placed under the quota limit system, Japan would have a quota of approximately 185 a year and China a quota of about 105, according to the report. The exclusion clause in the 1924 immigration law provides that only persons "eligible to citizenship" may be admitted, while under our naturalization laws only "white persons" and Africans and their descendants are eligible for citizenship.

Less than ½ of 1 degree variation in the temperature of your home with the New

General Electric Heat Regulator

HERE is important news for every member of your household.

The new General Electric Heat Regulator will automatically maintain in your home this winter the exact temperature you choose—with less than ½ of 1 degree variation above or below the mark—regardless of outside weather-conditions!

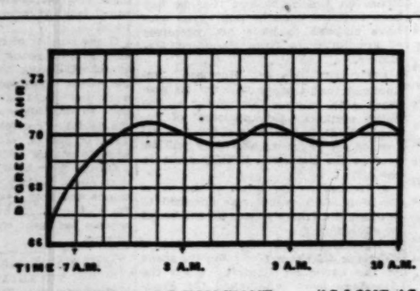
This concerns you because fluctuation in house-temperature is unhealthful and expensive. It contributes to colds and other sickness. Wastes fuel. Makes you uncomfortably warm at one time, unpleasantly cold at another.

The General Electric Heat Regulator achieves its unprecedented accuracy by means of its exclusive features.

For instance: it anticipates rises in room-temperature and slows down the heat as required. It gives graduated control of furnace-drafts (or fuel-valves), instead of having them completely open or completely closed. It has an automatic safeguard against interruption in the electric house-current (on which all heat regulators operate), so you need not worry about excess heat, or the fire going out, in case the current stops temporarily.

The G-E Heat Regulator should bring marked savings on your heating-bill by conserving fuel. Prices are moderate: $85 for the single-range model, completely installed; $125 for the double-range model, with an electric timing-device for making day and night temperature-changes automatically. Time-payments if desired.

Stop in to see it today. Or telephone us—and we will gladly have a representative demonstrate this newest General Electric development for your convenience in your own home.



THE TEMPERATURE YOU WANT . . . AS LONG AS YOU WANT IT

Note the accuracy of the General Electric Heat Regulator in arriving—and staying—at the desired temperature. It varies less than ½ of 1 degree either way. This accuracy is made possible solely by its exclusive features. Without them a fluctuation of several degrees is unavoidable.

"The newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

THOSE WHO HAVE PAID THEIR TAXES.

The county treasurer reports that 68 per cent of the taxes for 1929 which became due last May have now been paid. Owners of more than 700,000 real estate holdings have paid in more than $136,000,000. More than 50,000 individuals and corporations have contributed nearly $30,000,000 in personalty taxes. The railroads have added more than $12,000,000. The total is more than $178,000,000.

Much has been written about those who have not paid their taxes. Not enough has been said for those who have done their duty for the maintenance of orderly government in this community. At any time the payment of taxes is more or less painful; this year many thousands of taxpayers have had much more than the usual difficulty in finding the money needed. The temptation to pay nothing and hope that the courts, the legislature or some one else would come to the rescue has been held out. A well organized campaign of tax resistance has been staged. Property owners have been appealed to by letter, in public meetings and in radio addresses to withhold payments. Many have yielded, but the great majority have not.

Most of the property owners of Cook county have recognized the fact that governments cannot function indefinitely without money and that there can be no security of property or of life unless the government can pay its way. The fact that most of the taxpayers have done their duty, difficult and painful as it was in many instances, is a tribute to the good sense and stability of character in this community.

FOOTBALL MAKES ITS CONTRIBUTION.

The decision of the Western Intercollegiate conference to permit each of its members to play a post-season football game for charity is a sound one. To many in the university faculties football is regarded as a nuisance and an interruption. Any lengthening of the season, any added interest in the game, especially on the part of the general public, is therefore frowned upon. While we do not share this viewpoint, we can understand it; and we know that those who hold it are in deadly earnest.

The reported refusal of President Lowell to permit the Harvard team to enter into a somewhat similar scheme for the benefit of the unemployed of Boston is in striking contrast. Fortunately, however, the decisions of the Western conference in such matters carry far more weight. The conference has long set the pattern for intercollegiate sportsmanship, east and west, and it is safe to assume that most of the colleges in the country will continue to follow its example rather than that of Dr. Lowell. Perhaps by the time that unemployment is no longer a cause of much suffering in this country Harvard will find it expedient to contribute to its relief.

THIS GOOSE AND ITS GOLDEN EGGS.

Mr. George Wickersham, among others, would cut off the revenue which the United States receives on money borrowed and owed by Europe. Mr. Wickersham, also among others, denies to the United States the revenue which it might receive if it were to substitute something measurably sane for the Volstead act. Banker Wiggins of the Chase National bank in New York agrees with Mr. Wickersham on the first point. He believes that the way for the United States to put a pullet in everybody's pot is to cancel the debts, cut off the revenue, and distribute American gold in Europe. This thought is large and at large on the Atlantic seaboard.

Gov. Dan Turner of Iowa, among others west of the Mississippi, believes that prosperity can get by the coroner and around the corner if agricultural products raised for use can be withheld from use. Corn is Gov. Turner's preoccupation, and that means he is concerned with a domestic article in a domestic market, the export of corn being negligible. If the farmer is to hold his corn and not sell or use it he will need a loan on his crop, but the governor has found the federal reserve bank cool on the subject of a low rate of interest. Mr. Turner says eight per cent is too high and the farmer should be able to get it at two or four if he is to make a success of cribbing his corn for higher prices.

Turner and others west of the Mississippi and Wickersham and others on the Atlantic seaboard are on different streets and going in different directions, apparently following one and the same star, but in each case the probable consequence is something out of the federal treasury, although the Iowa governor has not rapped at that door yet where ninety-nine out of a hundred relief schemes come in the end to knock.

The federal fiscal system is getting to be one of everything going out and nothing coming in. Mr. Mellon has a billion dollar deficit in sight and the ambitions to make it more, by increasing expenditures and decreasing revenue, are everywhere visible. The farm board's efforts to keep wheat and cotton out of the market and to put grapes in wine press will stand the taxpayer $500,000,000 and get the wheat and cotton growers nothing. That Santa Claus spent everything on car fare and had nothing in his sack but due bills and a warning of eviction.

The federal government prefers to spend money for wine making rather than raise revenue by beer taxes, to pay more for the rum army and less for the national defense. Although Germany and Great Britain are notable exhibits of prodigality come to a crash of the public credit and the national finance, the United States is asked to proceed on a theory that receding revenue and pyramiding costs will provide prosperity. In application of this theory congress will be asked to contribute five billion dollars to relief work in the United States, presumably after it has contributed say the equivalent of this sum to the relief of Europe by canceling the debts, giving one dole to Europe and another to America.

It is to be hoped that Mr. Mellon feels like Aladdin. He's going to need a few high grade miracles in the treasury, else Uncle Sam will be out on the curb with a tin cup and some shoe laces.

STATEMENTS OF OWNERSHIP AND CIRCULATION.

The daily newspapers of this country are required by act of congress to publish every six months a statement of ownership and circulation. Those statements are now appearing in the various publications. Readers who examine the declarations to determine trends in newspaper growth and ownership should bear in mind that no penalty is provided in the law for falsification. The law has no teeth. The accuracy of the facts and figures, then, is merely a function of the honesty and candor of the various publishers. An honorable publisher will tell the truth about the number of papers sold and the ownership of his newspaper; a dishonest publisher may falsify both with impunity. The temptation to falsify in this year of depression, when many papers have lost readers and many others have been forced to obtain financial help where they could find it, is considerable. This year's statements, then, should be read with more than the customary caution.

AN APPEAL FOR FUNDS.

The midwest committee of the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America appeals for funds to carry on the work of the council. The appeal stresses the need "to face courageously another winter of distress" and to "strengthen the morale of the people through wholesome religious influences."

This is a worthy object, but the council does not confine itself to it, and many individuals addressed will wish to know whether their contributions are to go to the furtherance of this object or to that of other interests manifested persistently by the council in the field of government and international policy. The appeal refers to cooperation developed between 26 denominations "rendering common service to humanity throughout the nation and the world," and the council's conception of this service has made it active in such political matters as immigration, intervention, the world court, etc. Its tendency in this field of political action has been all for that one-sided internationalism which favors the abandonment of the policy of American political independence and which has resulted in the progressive deterioration of America's relative naval situation.

From Americans who favor this tendency and this influence contributions, regardless of their disposal, are appropriate. But as to Americans who are not favorable contributions should not be invited under the guise of an appeal to meet domestic distress unless they are to be strictly directed to that purpose and not used for general support of the influence of the council upon our foreign political policies.

Editorial of the Day

HARNESSING STARLIGHT.

[London Times.]

"Go and catch a falling star . . . Tell me where all past years are." That which John Donne, with the doubly rich imagination of the poet and the preacher, took as obvious symbols of the impossible is about to come to pass in Chicago, of which city let it never be said that there is anything of which it is incapable. For countless aeons since he was metamorphosed and placed on high to prevent the horrible crime of unwitting matricide—so, the Greek imagination had it—Arcturus has been falling away into space, dissipating his substance at an enormous rate. No region is favored in his prodigal giving and upon our own earth there falls nightly a small portion of the energy which was Arcturus. Forty years has Arcturus been a-falling to the earth; forty full past years, we may inform John Donne, are gathered into this stream of energy, which now is here and in a second time is 186,000 miles away. During the Chicago World's Fair of 1893 disturbances in the outermost atoms of Arcturus sent forth light vibrations in space. Forty years on and they will descend upon the Chicago World's Fair of 1933. There they will be trapped in a telescope, passed into a cell placed at its focus, and made to generate an electric current, which will be amplified and used to start machinery at the fair.

An ingenious scheme, this harnessing of starlight, and worthy of the race whose prophet-emsayist held it to be "the wisdom of man in every instance of his labor to hitch his wagon to a star and see his chore done by the gods themselves." An ingenious scheme, and worthy of all emulation. Since there are quite enough stars to go round—are they not as the sand by the seashore of the proverb to be born under a make a reality of the proverb to be born under a lucky or an ill-omened star? Let there be assigned to each child as he enters the world one of the firmamental lights, and let him have the sole rights to collect the energy of that star in his selenium cell. Happy the man born under Arcturus or Sirius or Antares! But woe to him for whom some star of the tenth magnitude was in the ascendant, whose cell would not in a long lifetime collect enough energy to boil his kettle. Yet why should starlight be used for such mundane things as boiling kettles? Since the selenium or photo-electric cell is the main instrument in the production of talking pictures, why should not starlight be harnessed to capture the music of the spheres? Perhaps we may realize at length that greatest of all poetic visions—the morning stars singing together and the sons of God shouting for joy.

FEWER CHILDREN FOR THE FOREIGN BORN.

In the old days when the country was being rapidly filled with people the greater part of the increase in population was a foreign contribution. The excess of immigration over emigration made up a considerable part of the increase.

In our day emigration is quite equal to immigration and, at times, surpasses it. If it were not for a new traffic—the bootlegging of immigrants—our population would show no increase by reason of borrowing people from other nations. However, bootlegging immigrants is no small industry and we are still absorbing illegally, if not legally, some of the world's excess of people.

There was another way in which the immigrants added to our population in the olden days. They brought with them the customs of the countries from which they came, including that of having large families. For the last forty years the American birth rate has been maintained at a high level because the newly arrived immigrants insisted on having large families.

Drs. Bigelow and Hamblein say that, so far as Massachusetts is concerned, the birth rate among foreign born people has been dropping rapidly and is now a little more than half its former level. The foreign born woman, who, on the average, once had a family of eight children, is now bearing only four. Our present birth rate is not much above seventeen, and that is no more than is required to maintain population.

The foreign born and their second generation are those who are maintaining the birth rate as high as it is. If they continue to show the same rate of decline for the next forty years that has prevailed for the last forty their birth rate will be no higher than that of the so-called native stocks.

Drs. Bigelow and Hamblein find that in Massachusetts the birth rate of these native stocks is increasing slightly, though it is still much below the population maintenance rate. The descendants of the Mayflower and other old New England stocks are making something of a rally, and some of them hope they may escape obliteration. Meanwhile, they are teaching the foreign born and the second generation the science of racial elimination.

A GOOD MILD LAXATIVE.

L. V. H. writes:

1. Some one told me some time ago that a large glass of warm water, with one-half teaspoonful of salt, followed up with a glass of cold water, taken just before breakfast, was the best cure for constipation. I have been trying it out and find that it does bring results. I am wondering now if that quantity of salt, together with what I use on my food during the day, might be harmful.

2. Is it true that salt causes hardening of the arteries?

3. Do cooked tomatoes create an acid or alkaline condition in the stomach?

REPLY.

1. This is a very good mild laxative, one of the very best. In the first place, two full glasses of water taken before breakfast will have the desired effect with most people. In the second, the addition of salt in the proportion of seven grains to one thousand grains of water makes a solution that is more effective than plain water. In that strength it does not irritate the cells and not much of it is absorbed. When the amount of salt you use is diluted with two glasses of water it is of about the strength indicated. It should prove harmless.

2. It is sometimes said that it does, but proof is not conclusive.

3. Neither, so far as stomach acidity is concerned. When tomatoes are eaten the end product is alkaline. This tends to increase the alkali reserve of the body. Therefore, we say that eating tomatoes tends to prevent acidosis.

MARRIAGE PROBLEM.

Chicago, Sept. 28.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I have been keeping company with a young man for four years. Recently I learned of his common law wife who has two children by him. They are separated and have been for four years. 1. Can she prevent me from marrying him? 2. Can she force him to marry her? 3. Do I have to be annoyed by her coming to my house or calling me at home or place of employment?

O. B.

1. In order to remove all possible question as to the validity of your own marriage, we would advise you to insist that he secure an annullment decree before you marry him.

2. No.

3. We can suggest no legal remedy on the bare facts that you state on this point. In the absence of a ceremonial marriage the legality of the relationship would depend upon whether there was ever an agreement for a legal as distinguished from an illicit relationship, and upon whether that agreement was entered into in a state recognizing common law marriage. Since 1905 Illinois law has not permitted the contracting of common law marriages in this state, but if the relation was valid when and where it was entered into it would be valid everywhere. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

CONTRACTOR WILL RESTORE.

Chicago, Oct. 1.—[Friend of the People.]—Early last spring the city started to install a new lighting system in parts of the west side. The wire was buried in a trench just inside the curb. At the streets and alleys great holes or trenches were dug so as to drive pipe under the paving, the black dirt being thrown first and the clay on top. This is the third time this parkway has been destroyed and left for the owner to fix up. P. S.

I wish to advise that a report from the contractor who did this work discloses the fact that the lawn in question will be restored to its original condition the first part of this week.

W. A. JACKSON, Commissioner, Department of Gas and Electricity.

NO SUCH LAW.

Chicago, Oct. 1.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I have been informed that there is a state law to the effect that there is a minimum wage scale for which a female may be employed, set at $12 per week [six days]. I would appreciate your verifying this in your legal column, and also state who are the proper legal authorities to address, state or city, for notification of disobedience of any employer. E. W. S.

There is no such law.

A RHYMED REVIEW.

In "The Little Green Shutter," the author, Brand Whitlock,
Gives old Prohibition a mighty hard knock;
We'd've loved the book once, way back several years,
But now Prohibition just bores us to tears.

THE AMERICAN CAN COMPANY authorized an extra dividend of one buck a share. Oh, well, naturally business must be booming in that line, so many people are getting those things tied to 'em these days.

CABLE ADVICES say Chile is back to normalcy, having no revolutions on its hands at present. Our idea of normalcy in Chile is a revolutionary government being set up at nine o'clock every morning and overturned by the government forces in time for the band concert on the plaza in the evening.

CHICAGO DUSK.

The windy day is dim, and flickers low.
Small pointed birds are blowing down the sky too hurriedly for song. The flowing cry of trees and water is a monotone with shuddering wet wind, and shadows wildly blown.

Beyond the shore dim violet towers lift their dreaming heads to touch the farthest cloud, (always a little farther). Crowd on crowd, in fitful eddying, the people go like brown forgotten leaves, blown idly to and fro.

And so today goes down to cloudy dusk.
So yesterday went down. For aught I know, light brittle leaves and hurried birds will blow round and about forever. See how far the burning dust is flung over yonder falling star!

LOLA MALLATT.

LOZ ANGLAIZE reports that Thursday it had earth tremors, dust storms, hail, lightning, heat, and rain. But we'll bet that through it all the enchanted citizenry sat in summer togs out in their front yards and murmured rapturously: "What a climate! What a climate!"

Oh, Dearie, a Man's Place Is the Home.

Sir: Before my wife married me she used to take me out three or four times a week—we used to go places and do things. At that time I had a job, and I suggested to Harriet—that's my wife's name—well, I suggested to Harriet that I keep on working and that we could have a little apartment and eat out. She wouldn't listen to that at all. "My dear," she said, "after we're married you'll do no more working. How do you suppose I would feel to see my husband going off to work every morning—and what would your family think? What sort of woman was I, anyhow, to permit their son to work? No, dear; if I wasn't capable of making enough to support the two of us, we wouldn't get married." And so, then, we were married. But before we go into that I want to tell you about the time Harriet came to our house to get mother's consent. Of course, father knew what was going on all the time, because I used to talk to him about Harriet so much when we were doing the dishes; and maybe mother did, too, but if she did she didn't say anything, because she was busy going to the office, and you know how mothers are in such matters. Well, anyhow, Harriet came over, and after we sat around in the parlor for a while she lighted a cigar and, turning to my mother, said: "Missus Twinbuttons"—that's my mother's name, Missus Twinbuttons—"I love your son dearly and I wish your consent to our marriage." Well, none of us knew exactly how mother was going to take it, and, of course, we were all a little nervous; but mother, dear old thing that she is, laid her pipe down—I remember she was smoking her meerschaum pipe—and said: "Take him, my daughter; and may you both have a long and happy married life." And so we were married. I remember at the time marriage seemed to be an escape from the monotony of a dull, lonesome life, and that once married I would be free. But that's a mistake, boys: once married you are literally chained to your housework. With the women it may be different; they have their business, their ambitions to succeed, and other diversions. But the married man just sits at home to mold. Once in a while father comes in to rearrange the furniture, and that makes Harriet furious. Father says not to pay any attention to her because all women are like that. Well, maybe they are, but I think Harriet is changing. One time I asked her to fix the kitchen table, and she looked awfully put out; and then when I tried to fix it she said: "Oh, here, give me that hammer!" Of course, my wife doesn't know that I suffer these things silently. After three years of married life I have learned that one of the duties of a good husband is to be cheerful . . . but, still, one does have those darker moments.

ORACLE.

READERS, I KNOW.

Most every poet has his fling
At writing about the spring
With its attendant God of Love,
Which most readers weary of.
When summer dies, the poets, too,
Rhyme about it, feeling blue.
And readers, reading them,
Feel that way, too.
I, for one, won't write a word
Of falling leaf, or south bound bird.
I have passed the acid test,
I know how to please my readers best.

PETROGRAD. — Sergius Sazonoff, Russian minister of foreign affairs, declared to the Associated Press correspondents that if the Bulgarians "persist in their present traitorous course they must answer to Russia." "An ultimatum has not been presented yet," added the minister, "but I presume one will be within a short time." Bulgaria must demobilize and declare itself a friend of the entente allies, it is asserted.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—President Wilson shortly will make known his position on the subject of woman suffrage. His friends say he will give his support to the reform as a state question. Mr. Wilson will vote at Princeton, N. J., on Oct. 19 on the proposed amendment to the state constitution providing for equal suffrage. About the same time he will issue a statement on the subject of suffrage. In discussing it, the President will make clear that he has not modified his conviction that the national movement is wrong in principle and that women should seek the right to vote through the medium of the states.

CHICAGO.—Two hundred and thirty-six persons have been killed in automobile accidents in Cook county during the last year; 3,134 are known to have been maimed or otherwise injured in Chicago alone, and hundreds, for which there are no records available, have suffered similarly in outlying districts.

30 YEARS AGO TODAY

OCTOBER 3, 1901.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—President Roosevelt is contemplating a shakeup among old office holders in the south. He has summoned Clark Howell of Atlanta and other conservative Democrats in that section to a conference on the subject of appointments. Mr. Roosevelt has discovered that he has been imposed upon by politicians who have claimed to have had promises of appointments from President McKinley.

CHICAGO.—Mayor Harrison announced that tramps will not be provided with lodging this winter at the police stations. He and Chief of Police O'Neill issued orders for the arrest of all vagrants and they will be sent to the Bridewell if they come to the city.

CHICAGO.—The name of the West Division High school was changed to William McKinley school by the board of education.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Admiral Sampson did not arrive upon the scene of the battle off Santiago when the American fleet vanquished the Spaniards until one hour and fifteen minutes after the Colon had surrendered and the conflict was over, according to evidence before the Schley court of inquiry. This was the testimony of Lieut. Sharp, commander of the Vixen, one of the strongest of Schley's opponents. Lieut. Doyle of the Brooklyn also was a good witness for Rear Admiral Schley and he gave details of the operations of that ship.

BLOOMINGTON, Ill. — The excitement throughout the city as a result of the murder of County Jailer Teddy Franks and the subsequent lynching of Charles Pierce did not decrease today. The wrecked jail, the building in which lay the remains of the dead man, remained the center of attraction. At least 5,000 persons viewed the body of Pierce as it lay in a box of ice at the undertaker's with the fatal rope still around his neck. Many ladies fainted at the sight. On the tree to which Pierce was hanged is a card on which are these words: "Axmen, axmen, spare this tree, and never touch a single bough, ar may God spare this elm tree forever to grow to mark where the first justice, to a murderer, ever was done in McLean county, and may the good people stand by the boys who did it." There seems to be no regret among the general public that the murderer met his death by lynching.

WHAT TO DO!

Chicago, Sept. 21.—A crowd of boys, probably twenty in number, congregate on our corner Sunday afternoons and every evening—sometimes the entire number, sometimes only four or five of them—and they are usually accompanied by two or three girls living near by. I don't recognize any of the boys. They are from 15 to 19 years of age and they come, I believe, from the playground of a school just across the street. The girls are 14 or 15 years old.

My own observation has discovered considerable loud talking, some profanity, and one petting party which I promptly broke up, the boys assuring me at that time there would be no more of that! The ladies in the building and in adjoining buildings are considerably worked up and they claim that there is a lot of obscenity indulged in. They have called the police and have threatened the boys time and time again. I have asked them to let me handle the boys; that calling the police was the wrong method to use; that there may be two or three boys who are "bad," but I believed for the most part the boys were not bad, and that their fault was more theft parents' than theirs. I don't know what to say about the girls.

I told the boys that they should come as often as they liked, but to quiet down a bit, to cut out the profanity, and to be decent. They seemed to respond to this kind of approach very well. However, the ladies are not with me on this, and I should like to know what other steps ought to be taken. W.

THE CURRICULUM.

Dollar Bay, Mich., Sept. 18.—The article written by Philip Kinsley on "The Cut of the School Year" in Tuesday's issue of THE TRIBUNE has aroused my interest. As a pupil in high school I would like to say that crowding the work of eight years into six would cause two out of every three pupils to lose interest in school work. The average pupil can take care of the studies as now arranged, but add more or crowd them and the interest lags. The extra effort required seems not to be worth while.

If the number of school years is shortened by two, young people would be out of school during the hardest years of their lives. They would be too young to work and would have too much time on their hands. (Idleness is the workshop of the devil.) Therefore the result is ruin. This, of course, refers to the majority who do not go on to college.

On the other hand, keep them in school with clean, healthy work to occupy their minds and they have no time to waste. It is a case of money saved by the schools but spent on reform schools and prisons. MAE CLIFFORD.

WHAT OUR YOUNG PEOPLE ARE THINKING ABOUT.

Evanston, Ill., Sept. 20.—I am in my 'teens, therefore not very worldly wise and a few things puzzle me. I wonder if you can help me out? First, what do the so-called experts do in the employ of the city of Chicago to earn the large fees which they get every month?

Second, why do people pronounce it DeVON avenue instead of DEVon avenue?

Third, what is "cole slaw"? Is it the same as cold slaw or something different? These questions may seem trivial to a grownup, but it seems to me that they are important enough to deserve some kind of an intelligent answer. I do not want to grow up ignorant of things if I can help it. GEORGIA.

REPLYING TO DR. WILSON.

Chicago, Sept. 26.—The statement made by Dr. Clarence True Wilson that "there was a marked absence of the sober, well behaved, typical American" at the Detroit convention is an unconscious admission that the prohibition law as a noble experiment is a flat failure. Dr. Wilson admits by his statement that it is now possible for such an enormous gathering as was witnessed at the Legion convention in Detroit to be anything but sober. If they were not sober they must have been drunk. If they were drunk they must have secured liquor. If they secured liquor it was done in a country that has been cursed by prohibition for many years and yet able to furnish large gatherings with enough liquor (and I understand it was good liquor) to make them anything but sober. So here is to go at that. Dr. Wilson has admitted that prohibition is a failure.

The American Legion asks for a change in an unpopular law. The Veterans of Foreign Wars have repeatedly voiced their opposition to prohibition. Men who offered their lives in order that Dr. Wilson might live in peace and plenty are given no consideration as regards their viewpoint. The American Federation of Labor, men who toil in the sweat absent from his brow, raises its voice in vain. Millions of level-headed, thinking Americans raise their voice of protest as in a wilderness. All this and much more in a land established by our forefathers as the home of freedom. CAPT. PAUL NORSTROM.

GOVERNMENT CONTRACTS.

Chicago, Sept. 19.—In questioning the Griffiths company's demand for experienced union men for caisson work on the new postoffice building Mr. J. W. O'Connor is right in wanting to know the truth.

The government does not specify the kind of men to be employed in construction work, but the building specifications are so worded as to require men but the highest type of craftsmanship available.

Builders know that union men, at the higher rate of pay, are better craftsmen, their work is more dependable, and the mortality rate is much lower than that of nonunion, inexperienced men.

CHARLES BROSS.

A CONTRAST.

Chicago, Sept. 18.—A Greek restaurant owner [as mentioned in THE TRIBUNE Sept. 18] started to the loop to buy travelers' checks for a trip to his birthplace. His brother went along, carrying a revolver for protection. A police sergeant and his squad stopped the Greek and his brother and arrested them for carrying concealed weapons. Al Capone attends a ball game or visits the federal building. His bodyguard, Machine Gun Jack McGurn and a few like him are always near by. Are they arrested for carrying concealed weapons? Not by a jugful. Al must have his bodyguard and it must be armed to the teeth. HOOSIER.

MONDAY FOR CLOCK CHANGING.

Chicago, Sept. 27.—I suggest that the fall clock adjustment day should be changed to Monday. Most people are able to sleep on Sundays till late morning hours, but an extra hour's sleep on Monday morning would confirm one's belief in Santa Claus. Sunday is the ideal day for the spring clock adjustment.

BAD NEWS SPOILS VON HINDENBURG BIRTHDAY OUTING

President Is Called Back by Urgent Business.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Oct. 2.—Urgent affairs of state today wrecked President von Hindenburg's birthday plans and compelled him to return to his desk in the presidential mansion, although officially, he was supposed to be out-side of Berlin. Diplomats and others, who called at the presidential offices to convey congratulations, only en-tered their names on the visitors' book and were not received by the hard working 84 year old chief of state.

Visions of retirement to his coun-try estate are also vanishing as offi-cial circles are pleading with Von Hindenburg to remain in office for one more years to help Germany emerge from her crisis. Von Hinden-burg hitherto has refused, but he is now considering whether he should, for the third time, abandon his private life and answer the call of his country. His decision depends largely on the state of his health.

A Day of Bad News.

The critical nature of Germany's position was driven home to the pub-lic today by a series of unpleasant surprises. The weekly statement of the Reichsbank revealed a startling decline of coverage for notes; the Ger-many Railway company announced that its August earnings showed a loss of nearly $6,000,000; the German Lufthansa Air Traffic company dis-missed 30 of its 134 pilots, and wages of mercantile seamen were cut 13⅓ per cent. The day also brought a new emergency decree drastically increas-ing foreign currency restrictions.

Since enforcement of the agreement to freeze German short term credits, the Reichsbank has lost more than 1,000,000 in gold and foreign cur-rencies. This was partly expected, but the influx of foreign currencies has failed to correspond to the Ger-man export figures. The Reichsbank's note circulation was increased during the last week by $104,000,000, causing the note coverage to drop from 40.1 to 31.3 per cent. Financial circles be-lieve that an increase in the discount rate in the near future is inevitable.

Restrictions Are Increased.

Immediately the foreign currency loans became known, an emergency decree strengthening the restrictions was issued. Everybody holding more than $50 in foreign currencies must offer it to the Reichsbank. All for-eign currencies received through ex-port trade, whatever the amount, must be offered to the Reichsbank within three days. Importers henceforth will be granted a much reduced monthly sum in foreign currencies. Trips abroad will also be restricted, since only $50 in foreign currencies will be granted to adults leaving the country.

The government plans to bring rep-resentatives of owners and workers together at a round table conference in an attempt to reach industrial peace. The whole industrial situation will be threshed out. While the trade unions hitherto have urged that un-employment be alleviated through a reduction of working hours, the Ber-liner Tageblatt learns that the gov-ernment is now seeking the same re-sult along completely different lines. It is aimed to employ more labor at reduced wages without reducing the working time. This will increase pro-duction and cheapen the cost of the products. It is claimed that this will increase Germany's competitive powers and enable her to hold her own in the world markets.

BALKY MOTOR DELAYS START OF PACIFIC FLIGHT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, Oct. 2 [Saturday].—Clyde Pangborn and Hugh Herndon Jr., American aviators, were forced to post-pone their projected nonstop flight across the Pacific today until tomor-row because of motor trouble. The fliers worked feverishly for two hours attempting to straighten out the de-fect.

Both were disappointed over the de-lay because of perfect weather condi-tions for flying. It was Herndon's 27th birthday. Pangborn was at the controls and everything was set for the takeoff when the motor balked.

The two men arose at 4 a. m. and hastened to Sabishiro beach, where they checked their plane.

CRISIS CABINET, LIKE IN BRITAIN, URGED IN CANADA

Would Cut Officials and Expenses.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MONTREAL, Que., Oct. 2.—Agita-tion for a national government in Canada, along lines of that formed recently in Great Britain, was contin-ued today by the Montreal Daily Her-ald, which is controlled by Lord Atholstan, the dominion's most power-ful newspaper owner and a power in the affairs of the country.

In another long editorial today, the Herald declares that the Canadian cabinet is entirely too bulky and ex-pensive. It points out that there are nineteen men in the Canadian cabi-net, each getting a salary of $10,000 and sessional indemnities of $4,000 and other expenses, bringing the cost to $315,000 a year.

Compared with U. S.

The United States cabinet, it is then pointed out, which governs a population twelve times that of Can-ada, has ten secretaries of depart-ments, each getting $15,000, or a total of $150,000, less than half the cost of Canada's cabinet.

The Herald proposes a national cab-inet of five departments, to be held by nonparty leaders, as follows: Prime minister, R. B. Bennett; department of finance, Sir Thomas White, Can-ada's wartime head of that depart-ment; department of commerce, H. H. Stevens, present head of the depart-ment; department of public affairs, W. L. MacKenzie King, former pre-mier, now leader of the opposition; department of justice, Aime Geoffrion, a leading Canadian corporation law-yer, or Ernest Lapointe, former min-ister of justice in the Liberal admin-istration, and department of transpor-tation, Charles Dunning, former min-ister of railways and minister of finance and author of the famous Dunning budget that raised tariffs re-cently.

Acts Against British Dumping.

If Great Britain figures that going off the gold standard, with its result-ant depreciation of the pound ster-ling, is going to enable her to sell to all countries on a better basis and that it will enable her to make sub-stantial commercial progress, she is not going to do it at Canada's ex-pense.

Canadian customs officials today were enforcing the new regulations prescribed by the federal government, namely, charging duty on all imports from Great Britain on the basis of $4.86, or full value of the pound ster-ling, and in addition applying a dump-ing duty on the difference between the par value and the actual rate of exchange prevailing on the date of shipment. The government has taken the view that such steps are neces-sary to protect Canadian industry against British goods.

Girl, 17, Shoots Herself After Quarrel at School

Lucille Latizia, 17 year old student of Proviso High school, shot herself near the heart yesterday in her home at 1748 North 23d avenue, Melrose Park, after she was sent home from school following a quarrel with an-other girl in the school lunchroom. She was taken to the county hospital where physicians reported she will re-cover.

WHY BE AFRAID TO EAT MEAT?

A SIGNIFICANT DISCUSSION OF THE CENTRAL ITEM OF DIET

MARY MEADE

CHICAGO TRIBUNE COOKING EDITOR

The place of meat in daily diet, its effect on health — the real facts on these important questions together with helpful suggestions on what cuts to buy and how to prepare them are discussed by Mary Meade in tomorrow's Tribune. Her article provides a fund of valuable information. Don't miss it!

MARY MEADE, The Tribune cooking editor brings a wealth of experience to women wrestling with the daily problem of meals. Her early success as a teacher of domestic science brought such demand for her services as to cause her to turn to writing and lecturing. Her success in these fields was immediate. Years of practical demonstration and contact with housewives have made her thoroughly familiar with their problems. Thousands of women as a result depend on her Tribune articles for guidance. Her recipes, carefully prepared and tested before publication, are so simply explained as to make success easy even with normal household supplies. Her menus are interesting and tempt the most jaded appetite. Be sure to read her article in tomorrow's Tribune.

The same issue of the Tribune will bring you another full page of Paris models selected by Bettina Bedwell and reproduced in beautiful colors in the rotogravure section. Antoinette Donnelly discloses the secret of smartness as an aid to beauty; Clotilde presents new patterns for adults and youngsters; Edith Weigle traces the interesting history of the writing desk, and Gladys Huntington Bevans offers to foster parents the solution to a serious problem. There are scores of interesting features which you will not want to miss. If you are not now getting the Sunday Tribune at your home, leave an order with the nearest Tribune dealer.

The Marriage Racket

By VINA DELMAR

SYNOPSIS.

Irma Corbin and Don Philippe de Rodriquez, hoofers, with their pianist, Tom [illegible], arrive in Thrace for a week's vaudeville engagement. A convention is being held in the town and the hotels are overflowing. Philippe grabs the first vacancy. Tom and Irma inquire at the town's leading hostelry, where Tom runs into an old friend, Bill Evans. Tom finds a cot and Bill turns over his room to Irma. Bill invites Irma to a dinner party in the hotel, where she meets Wallace Graham, a widower. Wallace has a young daughter, who has grown up under the supervision of her Aunt Tessie. Bill and Wallace shower invitations on the pretty dancer. Wallace asks Irma to be his wife. Bill's proposal in her is of a different nature. Irma quarrels with Philippe and quits the act. She decides to marry Wallace. Irma settles down to a dull existence with Wallace, but a baby soon arrives to compensate her for any flaws in the marriage system. The baby becomes the center of her universe.

INSTALLMENT XII.

ONLY A MOTHER.

"How about a nice table cloth?" Mildred asked.

"I don't want to buy anything that expensive," Irma answered.

"How much do you want to spend?"

"Ten dollars," Irma said defiantly. It was useless to hedge. She and Wallace could have no secrets from Mildred's best friend.

"Why not get a cute ash tray?" Mildred asked.

"It would look so cheap."

"Well, you can't get the corner of Main and Princess for ten dollars," Mildred objected.

Irma was thinking that perhaps one could get a nice bath mat for ten dollars but she did not mention it. Perhaps a bath mat was not a correct sort of gift. She was fully aware that she was choosing the gift not from the standpoint of pleasing the Gardners but with a view of Jane's approval. She hated herself for caring about the sleek haired child's opinion, but it was just another thing in life that couldn't be helped.

"How about an etching," Mildred asked. "Somebody sent Lillian an etching, didn't they, Jane?"

"Yes," Jane admitted, "but it was a rare one. You know, only a few prints are made. You couldn't get one like that for ten dollars. Even at that Lillian was annoyed."

"Annoyed? Why?" Irma leaned forward eagerly to hear what could annoy the placid browed Lillian Malcolm.

"Why, Lillian felt that people ought to send things that could be ducked if they were too hideous. You know, vases and pickle dishes and so forth can be hidden decently. But a picture, one has to hang it or else be embarrassed when the people who gave it pay a visit. I was just thinking—why don't you get an electric waffle iron?"

"O, that's splendid," Mildred said. "Why don't you do that, Irma?"

To a waffle iron was a perfectly correct wedding gift. Well, since Jane had suggested it surely she couldn't tell all Thrace that Irma had sent a ridiculous gift to the Gardners.

Irma yawned elaborately and stood up. "O. K., get a waffle iron," she said. It made it easier to pretend that sheer boredom with the subject had caused her to accept Jane's suggestion. She walked upstairs, loathing herself every step of the way.

In the end the girls bought a little silver table bell as Jane thought that this was much smarter. Irma did not say, even to Mildred, that the Gardners did not intend to keep a maid.

Young Mr. and Mrs. Gardner took up residence on Reese road in a three room apartment which had a built-in ironing board, a garbage incinerator, and all the standard equipment.

The Gardners gave a house warming. It was Irma's first party in many months. She felt doubtful about going. Months of staying in one's own home made a visit around the corner seem a most dashing and reckless adventure. Irma felt that plenty of preparation was needed to make the trip at all possible.

As soon as she knew that the house warming was actually going to occur she told Catherine all that had to be done for the baby.

"I'll change him when I leave and give him a bottle of water. At ten o'clock you look at him again. You'll probably have to change him then. If he cries make sure that there are no pins in him, turn him from side to side and see which way he's most comfortable. Maybe he'll want some more water. If he keeps crying and you can't find anything wrong with him, you'd better telephone me. If it gets colder, put an extra blanket over him."

Catherine kept on washing the dishes and nodding her head all the while that Irma was speaking. Irma was perfectly certain that she hadn't absorbed a single direction so she went to Aunt Tessie and told it to her.

"I know, dear, I know." Aunt Tessie's sweet, patient smile as she looked up from her sewing was very irritating.

Irma found Mildred in her room painstakingly conjugating French verbs.

"Listen, Mildred ——"

Mildred raised a silencing hand and went on whispering to herself. Irma waited. Presently Mildred said, "What?"

"I'm having a heck of a time," Irma said. "Your father and I are going to the Gardners a week from Friday and I can't get anybody to pay attention to what has to be done for the baby while I'm gone."

"What do you mean?"

"You know how dumb Catherine is and Aunt Tessie is so sure that she knows everything that she won't listen. Look, Mildred, you'll keep an eye open, won't you? We'll be home early."

"Did you say a week from Friday?"

"Yes."

"Tell me then, will you, Irma? I'd only forget if you told me now."

Irma went to her own room and sat chin in hand staring unseeingly at the window. Why were these people so hard? None of them seemed to realize that the baby was important. Dishwashing, sewing, French verbs, nothing seemed to precede him in importance. Well, she wouldn't go to the Gardners' damned housewarming. Somebody had to show that the baby rated first place in the scheme of things.

However, when the time came Irma went to the Gardners' party. Wallace wanted to go and the Gardners indicated that they would be hurt if Irma disappointed them. It was exciting, too, to be actually going somewhere in a brand new dress. Irma felt that it could be a glorious evening if only some perfectly trustworthy person was left at home to tend the baby.

All the way to Reese road she sat in the car wondering what the baby's chances were for pulling through the night without her. She had told Catherine to be sure that the bottle and nipple were sterilized. Would Catherine bother about that? There was the matter of the extra blanket, too, and if one of the sides of the bassinette were left down a baby could roll out and be crippled for life.

It was at this juncture that Wallace said, "Nice to be out again together, isn't it? We must go a lot this winter. Sitting home makes a person disgusted with life."

"Yes." Irma stared through the windshield at the dark road ahead. "We can go a lot if we get rid of Catherine."

"Catherine? What's she got to do with it?"

"Everything. She's dumb and inattentive and slovenly. Fat chance I have of getting her to sterilize nipples and bottles and everything."

"Well, what makes you think she won't do it?"

"Because she didn't listen. I told Aunt Tessie, too."

"Then it will surely be done."

Irma kept her eyes straight ahead. To look at him now would cause trouble for he would see in her eyes her distrust of Aunt Tessie.

"Do you think that Aunt Tessie believes that sterilizing is necessary?"

She told me the other day that Mildred's mother never sterilized anything."

"Aunt Tessie follows doctor's orders with almost fanatical exactitude," Wallace said. "Maybe sterilizing is unnecessary for all we know. Children lived without it before."

"O, sure. That's what Aunt Tessie said too. It's a stupid remark. They've lived without enough food, without enough blankets and without enough doctoring, too, but it's nice if you can give them a decent chance to grow strong, isn't it?"

"Certainly it is. He'll grow strong. Look at Mildred."

"Yes, look at her. She's had whooping cough, scarlet fever, measles and God knows what all. Do you know why? Because Aunt Tessie believes they're part and parcel of childhood and one may as well have them and get it over with. You're lucky Mildred's alive."

"O, Irma, don't talk like that. Aunt Tessie would die for Mildred or for the baby. She's not an intellectual giant but she can follow orders. What are you so sore at her about?"

"I'm sore at her because she thinks I'm a fool about the baby. You see you get a smile every time I say something. You'd think he was a puppy or a kitten and easily replaced."

Wallace did not reply. He had an uneasy feeling that Irma would cry with very little encouragement. Nervous, that was all. As soon as they got to the Gardners' and Irma had a drink she would be all right.

But Irma refused to take a drink. Had he thought about it he would have known that she would refuse. The alcohol turned to sugar and was bad for the baby.

By Mae Tinée.

Good morning!

If you ask me, the Mundy Jubilee Singers, directed by Prof. James A. Mundy, are the big reason why you should go to the Chicago this week.

The seventy-five colored choristers [1930 second prize winning mixed chorus of the Chicagoland Musical festival], all gotten up to look like a heavenly chorus, sing divinely "De Ol' Ark's a-Movin'," "Go Down, Moses," "Swing Low, Sweet Chariot," "Jericho," and "Little David Play on Yo' Harp." Mr. Mundy is a picturesque leader with a flair for showmanship.

Yesterday afternoon's audience was thrilled to pieces by the Mundy contribution.

As for "The Road to Singapore"—just another one of those tropical triangle things.

Mr. Powell is seen as a good bad "other man," who rescues a lovely lady from a bad, good husband.

Mr. Powell does his darndest with a disappointing rôle. Doris Kenyon is a gorgeous thing and achieves some finely restrained acting as the woman in the case. Marian Marsh is bright and snappy as the husband's sister. Louis Calhern plays the husband—Dr. George March—in a manner that makes you dislike him thoroughly. Which means that he plays well.

Photography, sound, direction, etc., get by all right. BUT——

May the gods relent some time soon and kindly grant William Powell a vehicle that is worthy of his unusual ability.

"KAISER-LIEBCHEN."

Produced by Tobis.
Directed by Hans Tinter.
Presented at the Monroe theater.

THE CAST.

Postmeisterlies	Liane Haid
Kaiser Joseph	Walter Janssen
Adjt. Rosenberg	Wilhelm Bendow
Jeanette, Prima Ballerina	Colette Jell
Velichen	Hans Jaray
Josef Grundner, driver and friend of Liesl	Heinz Leo Fischer
Valentin, house master in the post inn	August Junker

Well, Mr. Monroe is with us again. Mr. Theater Monroe of Monroe and Dearborn streets. Big as life, hoping to be twice as lively—and speaking German. Mr. Monroe was formerly connected with the Fox enterprises but is now affiliated with Lubliner and Trinz.

Not that Mr. Monroe has been absent in the body. No, only in spirit. This movie house reënters the mad screen whirl with the German production, "Kaiser-Liebchen."

This is a costume picture with some music. Though it moves slowly it is charmingly acted and if you have plenty of time you'll probably enjoy the story's leisurely unfolding. [You'll find an English synopsis on your program.]

The tale concerns a romantic interlude in the life of co-Regent Joseph II., who, while traveling incognito, meets and loves for a brief, sweet while the daughter of a rustic postmaster.

Walter Janssen, good looking and an actor of parts, plays Joseph with grace, dignity, fire and humor. Liane Haid is a gay and naive "postmeisterlies." She sings delightfully. Mr. Janssen also contributes an enjoyable vocal bit or two.

Sets, scenery and costumes tickle the eye. Direction is thoughtful, though long-winded.

See you tomorrow!

Petain Leaves for Yorktown with His Staff

Brings Rochambeau and De Grasse Along.

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

PARIS, Oct. 2.—Marshal Henri Petain, hero of Verdun, is on the way to visit the United States. Two French cruisers, the Duquesne and the Suffern, left the Toulon naval station just before noon today with the marshal and his party. They will participate in the 150th anniversary fêtes at Yorktown, Va.

"I go without official instructions," Marshal Petain said before embarking, "but I shall not be at a loss for subjects to talk about in America. I imagine Gen. Pershing and our world war comrades who will meet us at Yorktown will talk to us about those French soldiers who fought with Washington under the orders of La Fayette, Rochambeau, and De Grasse in 1781. For my part I intend to reply by talking about the American soldiers who fought in France in 1917.

"The commander of the French forces at the time when the Americans first began arriving to our aid would have a short memory and very little heart if he were unable to express his gratitude. He would also have a lapse of memory if he failed to recall all that was done in France by Americans before the United States entered the war. Such subjects, and even their comparison with events of the time of Washington and La Fayette, can only contribute to strengthen the common ideal of our countries, which the blood of our two peoples has united at different times."

Marshal Petain took his place aboard the Duquesne with the army and navy officers accompanying him. Aboard the Suffern are the Marquis de Grasse, the Marquis de Rochambeau, Gen. d'Ollone, the Duc de Noailles, and M. Xavier de Rochambeau, who are all descendants of George Washington's French comrades in arms.

The French cruisers go first to Oran and will arrive at Yorktown on Oct. 15.

Before leaving, Marshal Petain received a telegram from Ambassador Walter Edge in Paris assuring him of a hearty welcome and wishing him a pleasant sojourn in America.

Mrs. A. L. Raymond Makes Another Gift to Chicago University

The University of Chicago yesterday announced a gift of $16,000 from Mrs. Anna Louise Raymond of the Blackstone hotel to endow two scholarships in the university medical school in honor of her husband, the late James Nelson Raymond, manufacturer of lead products.

The gift brings the total of Mrs. Raymond's benefactions to the university to nearly $200,000. Her larger contributions include $100,000 to endow a chair in the medical school; $30,000 to create the James Nelson Raymond library fund in the law school, and $36,000 to endow three scholarships in that school.

Dean Harry A. Bigelow of the law school yesterday announced the award of the three James Nelson Raymond scholarships in law for the current quarter. George F. James, 4811 Kimbark avenue, and Stanley A. Kaplan, 2333 East 70th place, were awarded full scholarships, while the third is divided between Robert A. Frank, 1432 South Ridgeway avenue, and Bernard D. Cahn, 5401 Ellis avenue.

TEACHERS OF BRIDGE READY FOR EXAMS ON CODIFIED SYSTEM

School's over today at the Palmer house "teachers' institute" for contract bridge instructors. Only a few more hours of lectures and demonstrations remain before the bridge teachers who have been studying the new official, simplified and codified system of contract must cease their cramming, put away their texts and notebooks and prepare for "exams."

There's going to be a pretty rigorous attitude about grading, too. The imposing advisory council, comprising all the luminaries of the bridge firmament, headed by Charles True Adams of Chicago, the youngest and one of the best known experts, takes its efforts of the last two months quite seriously. And having set forth a system for which each and all profess enthusiasm, they insist that only those who have absorbed its points and are qualified to teach it be accredited.

The final feature on the three day program will be the discussion this afternoon by Mr. Adams of the three day school, its effect on the future of the game, and the qualifications of teachers.

Nobody knows better than Mrs. Guy U. Purdy of Omaha what a boon it will be for all contract players to recognize from their partner's bid exactly, or at least aproximately, the strength of the tricks he holds.

"For years I've been lecturing all over the country," Mrs. Purdy sighed yesterday. "And I had to carry in my head seven separate systems of bridge. Because when I would advocate the new intermediate bid of two as indicating fair strength in suit, somebody in the audience would pop up and ask, 'But why is it better than the Knickerbocker, or the Work, or the Whitehead system?' So I had to know them all. Now I'll have only two at most to struggle with; it's grand to think that all these big fellows have got together at last."

As emphasized during the three days by such authorities as F. Dudley Courtney, president of bridge headquarters; Milton C. Work, Edward C. Wolfe of Cleveland and others, the main difference between the new and the old systems is the opening suit bid of two. Previously such a bid was understood to indicate unusual strength and forced one's partner to bid. Under the revised, coordinated system it becomes merely an invitation to one's partner to raise the bid if he has support and indicates good cards without extraordinary strength.

One of the major advantages, it is pointed out, is that such a bid frequently shuts out opposition bidding and obtains the contract without permitting one's opponents the valuable exchange of information that a one bid would permit.

Sigma Phi Omega Meets Today for Card Playing

Sigma Phi Omega sorority will hold a meeting and card party this afternoon in the Gold room of the Congress hotel. Plans will be made for the organization's 13th annual convention to be held on Nov. 27. The president, Miss Helen Sullivan, is in charge of arrangements. The sorority is composed of 17 chapters.

MISS HELEN SULLIVAN.

Delta Upsilon chapter of Delta Theta Tau sorority will give a card party this afternoon at the Stevens hotel to raise funds for the school and orphanage maintained by the sorority in the Blue Ridge mountains. Miss Vera Haeseler is president of the chapter.

BEG YOUR PARDON

In an account printed on Tuesday of the throwing of a stench bomb at the McVicker's theater the name of Sam B. Soible, 5018 Washington boulevard, the manager, was erroneously given as Sam Soibel, 4046 Grenshaw street. The latter, a wholesale egg merchant, has received several threats and wishes it known that he is in no way connected with the theater.

The home address of Jacob Karchmer, arrested in a raid on the Universal Sales and Publicity bureau, 20 East Jackson boulevard, in connection with an alleged milk charity racket, is not 3445 Elaine place, as was stated in a news item. Mr. Karchmer moved from that address a few days before his arrest and now lives at 4838 North Sawyer avenue. Hal Metcalfe, his partner, did not live with him at the Elaine place address.

Women Gain Larger Share in Nation's Life

Vote in Spain Likely to Affect French.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Women of various countries have shaken off political shackles which bound them for centuries.

In Spain, Turkey, France, Germany, Poland, Portugal, South Africa, [illegible] Bulgaria they have struggled for equal suffrage, equal opportunity, and equal status before the law. In most cases their efforts have been rewarded with victory.

Spain has just granted 5,000,000 women of the age of 23 years and above the right to hold office and equality at law in recognition of their work in behalf of the republic.

Turkey's president, Mustapha Kemal, has promised women a full franchise within four years, even if he has to alter the constitution. They already are municipal councilors and look forward to places in parliament.

In Germany they are granted equality by the constitution, but their leaders claim it is only "paper" equality. They are campaigning against what they term discrimination in appointments to the civil service and demanding that their remuneration rank with that of men.

France denies them the ballot, but many of their ambitious sisters have adventured into the colonies where their is little prejudice against women in public positions. Their achievements in far off tropical climes are being used as a lever to bring action by the conservative French senate.

Women deputies in the Polish parliament once this year broke party lines to oppose a measure which would repeal week-end prohibition of liquor. They disrupted the session and postponed the vote on the ground the bill would lead to intemperance.

Portuguese women have the privilege of voting in municipal elections, but will not rest content until it is extended to the parliamentary ballot. The Union of South Africa has conferred suffrage on women above 21 in elections for parliament and the provincial council. Women in Bulgaria are fighting for permission to appear before the courts as lawyers.

American Women Congratulate New Spanish Voters.

Washington, Oct. 2.—(AP)—American feminists hailed the enfranchisement of Spanish women today as an impetus to suffrage movements in France and Latin-America.

Miss Alice Paul, who went to jail for picketing for women suffrage in the United States, cabled "warmest congratulations" on behalf of the National Woman's party to Senora Isabel Palencia, leader of the Spanish feminists.

Together these two women worked in Geneva last year for a constitutional guarantee of political equality in Spain.

"The great objection made by the opposition in Spain was that the woman's vote would be so reactionary it might vote the new government out of existence," Miss Paul commented. "Just as the contention is in France—that the women would annihilate other political reforms—the opponents voiced fear the women, strongly organized by reactionary forces, would outvote their feminist sisters, admittedly in the minority."

Fear of Thunder and Lightning Is Hard to Reason Against

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

Although our thunderstorm season is practically over, there are other years of them ahead of us and many parents who have dreaded them will read the following with interest:

"I have a 4½ year old girl, bright, and able to grasp most things quite easily, yet she is terribly afraid of thunderstorms. I don't know what to do with her at such times, as she gets me frantic with her carryings-on. It doesn't make any difference to her whether we are alone or whether there are any number of persons around, we just cannot seem to distract her attention from her frightened mind.

"Her father and I have tried to explain to her the cause of the thunder and lightning, but to no avail. The moment she hears any one mention that it may rain she becomes so scared that she cannot eat or play and she hangs on to one of us so tightly that we immediately become worried ourselves for her well-being."

It is possible to be theoretically glib and ready with sure-fire advice in these cases. But not if one's suggestions are based on personal experience with children and first-hand observation of them. Actual contact with children forces one to the conclusion that fear of thunder and lightning seems often to spring from no obvious cause—though cause there, of course, is.

One explanation usually given is that some one has shown fear of storm before the child. I do not think this accounts for all cases, by any means. There may be many more subtle reasons—the shadow of a possible primitive one, for instance, like the repulsion that some young children feel for a feather. Our barbaric ancestors must have trembled at thunder as at the anger of some god.

Then, there is a possible cause of apparent fear in the delicate responsiveness of young children to loud noises. Some of them are terrified or shocked by impact or reverberations.

The most effective thing a family can do in cases like the one mentioned is to be utterly matter-of-fact while the storm is going on—not talking about the child or her reaction to it. It sometimes is effectual if the grown-ups will stop to admire the spectacular sky or the big boominess of the thunder. It is important that no fear be shown, no rushing to close windows [though it may be done quietly for the wetness], and no fuss made over it.

It will be encouraging to parents to know that children frequently pass through a stage of abject fear or great nervousness over storms, and then without any visible reason will snap out of it.

Cowboys Parade Streets as Annual Rodeo Opens

Strains of a calliope were heard in La Salle street and other streets in the loop yesterday as cowboys and cowgirls in colorful regalia rode along on steeds of the wild west. The parade heralded the approach of the world's championship rodeo, which opened last night in the Chicago Stadium for a ten day engagement.

The parade started from the Stadium in West Madison street and proceeded in Lincoln street to Jackson boulevard, then eastward to La Salle street, north to Washington street, and then west, returning to the Stadium.

The 350 riders who will compete for money prizes totaling $25,000 come from 14 states, from Mexico, Canada, and South America. Col. W. T. Johnson, San Antonio rancher, is the producer.

Bright Sayings of the Children

One Sunday afternoon we were invited to my aunt's for dinner.

My cousin, after having his first helping of mashed potatoes, asked, "Mother, may I have some more Sunday potatoes?" E. D.

British Cancer Expert Arrives; Calls Radium Limited as Remedy

New York, Oct. 2.—[Special.]—Sir George Lenthal Cheatle, consulting surgeon of King's college hospital and the recipient this year of the Walker prize given by the Royal College of Surgeons for his research into the relation of the pathology of the cancer to treatment, arrived today in the Cunarder Berengaria.

He said he had found radium, in the treatment of cancer of the breast, to be worthless. A few years ago, Sir George continued, he paid $15,000 for 16 milligrams of radium to experiment with and the results were generally negative. He did not discredit its use in treating skin, tongue, or other affected areas, but was positive that cancer of the breast does not yield to the radium waves.

"We are no nearer to a solution of the cause of the cancer today," he said, "than when we first began trying to fathom the cause."

Sameness of Kisses Cause of Marital Woe, Authors' View

BY DORIS BLAKE.

Hey, Mr. Man, they're paging you. You're wanted for a great mass meeting of yourself and all of your married brothers! It seems that word has got around that what you're doing to take the romance out of marriage is—well, it is plenty.

Answer this one—yes or no: Do you take your wife for granted? Do you ever vary the quality of your kisses? Have your caresses become stereotyped gestures? Did you ever hear tell that variety is the spice of married life? No?

Well, that's what's the matter with the good woman. She isn't all fagged out. She hasn't a touch of arthritis. Her tooth isn't bothering her. It's you and your matter of fact acceptance of this little woman you took in to grace your home. And then forgot to administer the grace of a kiss that doesn't sound and taste the same every time she has to take it.

Anyway, that's what the Groves authorities, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest R., charge you with in their new book of advice on how to be happy though tied. To put the matter more bluntly, the authors say: "A man should bear in mind that no woman, especially a bride, likes to be taken for granted. Variety being the spice of life [or words to that effect] no man with any pretensions to being a satisfactory husband will kiss his wife the same way twice in succession."

Gosh, that seems like a large order, even to one with women's interests close at heart! I don't know how you men are going to feel about it! But you're requested to look at the musician for inspiration. He doesn't play over and over endlessly the same composition . . . He is a great artist. He makes what his skill produces accord with his inner feeling.

The same should be true to the husband or lover. Maybe you don't want to look at the musician. There are a lot of perfectly good husbands who don't even want to hear a note from him.

Paris Plans Duplex Ensemble for Madame

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—That recently inaugurated department of fashions, the ensemble to wear in both darkness and daylight, is going to be a permanent part of styles. This fall, more than ever before, the Paris dressmakers are busying themselves with ensembles suitable for the late afternoon and informal evening. So much of our life today is lived in the public eye, and there is so little time for frequent changes of costume.

This fall Paris is showing heaps of simple frocks in dark satin or velvet, which are tailored and daytime in appearance, and which have a gay little wrap that makes them over into suitable toilettes for evening.

One of these is the Marie St. Martin ensemble shown in our sketch. The dress, which is shown in the background, is made of dark, plum red velvet, and, as you see, it is very simple. The sleeves are bishop in cut with tucks horizontally placed on the inside of the arm below the elbows and with narrow pale pink georgette cuffs. The round yoke at the neckline is also pale pink georgette, trimmed with tucks. The front of the frock is tucked from the bust almost to the knees in five radiating lines, and over this is a straight velvet belt with short tie ends knotted at the center front. The skirt is moderately flared by narrow pie-piece godets in front and at the sides.

Over this dress is worn the jacket, made of plum colored brocade with a pattern in pale pink and silver, and with a standing collar and bishop flared sleeves. It fastens with a bow at the center front. This jacket is put on after dark and makes the outfit into a correct evening ensemble.

DORIS BLAKE ANSWERS

Ready for Beaux.

"Dear Miss Blake: I am 18 and my mother thinks I am too young to have boy friends. Don't you think I'm old enough now? DORIS."

You're old enough to have beaux now. Talk to your mother about it.

NEW YORK SOCIETY

New York, Oct. 2.—[Special.]—Mr. and Mrs. C. K. G. Billings started for Santa Barbara for the winter.

Dr. and Mrs. Philip S. Chanceller left yesterday for Santa Barbara.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Christian Sonne are being congratulated upon the birth of a daughter. Mrs. Sonne was Miss Carol Mulford.

Miss Mary Hoyt Wiborg has returned from Europe.

PATTERNS BY CLOTILDE

[Registered U. S. Patent Office.]

WOMAN'S AND MISS' DRESS.

This smart day time dress has the one sided rever, and very pretty it is, too. The wrap-over bodice and the button trim emphasize the smooth finish over the hips besides giving a tailored finish. The tab cuffed sleeves are smart, and the skirt is graceful with its plaits either side of the center front, creating a box plaited affect. Black satin crêpe would be chic for this model.

The pattern, 3334, comes in sizes 16 and 18 years and 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44 inches bust measure. Size 16 requires 3¼ yards of 39 inch material.

For Beauty's Sake Get in Big Parade of Gals Who Walk

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

One hears that a number of women have had to throw away their sports cars and buy themselves good walking shoes, which is a cheerful note in a world of economy practicing. So maybe we won't be the leg-atrophied race prophesied from time to time!

Anything that forces women outdoors on their own pair of underpinnings is something to thank the depression for. Given the taxi fare or a motor of one's own, nothing appears to the general run of women to be sillier than to use those nether extremities of theirs for locomotion.

Believe it or not, I had a woman tell me that for five years, anyway, she hadn't walked a mile outdoors. She's been chauffeured downtown semi-weekly to an exercise salon. But that's all off now, with the melting away of the generous mate's money.

And walking hasn't turned out to be the trial expected, except that the poor darling hasn't yet learned to see her feet in shoes with a good walking heel on them. She and other women may be pleased to know, however, that the shoe manufacturers anticipaced more walking this fall, for reasons that are troubling all of us, and they now present shoes that are good looking and good to walk in.

Also this new silhouette of which we are hearing so much cries out for a shoe that will support the body in a nice, upright fashion. The "uprighter" you carry yourself, you know, the better the silhouette conforms to the new fashion line. Truth is, you can pull that waist in a good inch, anyway, with an erect pull on the chest muscles. Try it and then believe me.

Use your spike heels, if you must, for your very dressy things, but get in line early with trim walking shoes. And walk in them! This is the season to get the habit. One good fall and winter season of getting where you have to go on foot is going to do a magnificent thing for woman's looks.

I'm glad fashion is introducing the idea, because women will fall more easily for its ruling than for health advice. So snap out of the foot lethargy and get in the parade early, for you're going to hear this motto frequently: "It's smart to hike."

Food Talk.

Last week, on Saturday, we were concerned with the card-index system for the kitchen cook book. How has it been working out for you? Once you permit the clippings to pile up on you, there is such a penalty to pay, so if you are able to keep the little box up to date you will reap your own blessed reward. In the event that you chance to mislay one or two, let us know, and we will be glad to forward them.

Which brings to mind—I have repeatedly mentioned parker house rolls on weekly menus—and nary a request for a recipe do I get. Do you really like the baker's so much better than light buttery home made ones? I am disappointed if you do—for I have a recipe tucked away for them which is perfect.

As usual, recipes have overlapped again—you should have had the first two below yesterday.

PINEAPPLE ICE.

1 quart of water.
2½ cups of sugar.
1 cup of grated pineapple [this is a small can].
Juice of 2 large oranges.
Juice of 2 large lemons.
White of 1 egg.
1 teaspoon of powdered sugar.

Make a sirup of the granulated sugar and water. Add the pineapple [juice and pulp], orange and lemon juices to the sirup. Cool and freeze. When it is frozen, beat the egg white until stiff; add the powdered sugar, and add to the ice.

BAKED RED APPLES.

6 or 8 apples.
1 cup of sugar.
1½ cups of water.
2 tablespoons of cinnamon candies, or a few drops of red vegetable coloring.

Pare and core the apples. Boil the sugar and water together for five minutes, then add the candy or vegetable coloring. Place the apples in a baking dish, and pour the sirup over them. Cover closely and bake until the apples are tender. Baste frequently. Remove from the dish carefully and serve as a border on the platter around the meat.

MACARONI MEAT LOAF.

2 cups of cooked macaroni.
1½ pound of round steak.
1 tablespoon of chopped onion.
2 teaspoons of celery seed.
Paprika.
1 teaspoon of salt.
1 cup of grated cheese.
1 cup of oysters.
¾ cup of water.
1½ tablespoons of fat.

Have the meat cut in one large slice. Trim and salt. Carefully pound in dry flour until the meat is thin and pliable. Put one and one-half tablespoons of fat in the frying pan, add the celery seed and onion to it. Cook two to five minutes. Add the trimmings from the meat, which have been cut very fine; stir until the meat trimmings brown slightly, and then add the previously cooked macaroni, paprika and salt. Stir in the cheese and cook until the cheese melts. Add the chopped oysters. Spread the dressing on the steak and roll securely. Skewer and tie. Place on a rack in an open pan.

Bake in a hot oven 30 minutes to sear the meat. Add the water, reduce the heat, and cook until tender. Remove to the platter and garnish with Greek crosses of lemon, with a dot of cranberry jelly on each lemon cross, and lettuce hearts.

Frances Wood, C. Fentress Jr. to Wed Today

BY THALIA

This afternoon there will be a northbound cavalcade of motors bearing guests to the marriage of Miss Frances Wood, daughter of Gen. and Mrs. Robert E. Wood of Highland Park, to Calvin Fentress Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Fentress of Hubbard Woods.

The service is to be read at 4 o'clock at Trinity Episcopal church in Highland Park, and will be followed by a reception at the Wood residence. The bride's maternal uncle, Bishop Ernest Stires of Long Island, will perform the ceremony. Other out of town guests here for the wedding include Mrs. Stires, Mrs. Wood's sister, Mrs. James Babbitt of Philadelphia, and Mrs. Edward N. Breitung of New York City. Mr. Fentress and his bride will have a 6 weeks' trip to Europe for their honeymoon, and have taken an apartment in Pearson street close by the other newlyweds of the family, Mr. and Mrs. James Rodd Addington [Sarah Wood], for their future residence.

Mrs. Addington and Miss Wood's other married sister, Mrs. Edwin E. Tuttle, are to be her matrons of honor, and the bridesmaids will include the youngest of the Woods' daughters, Miss Mary Wood, Miss Janet Kirk, Miss Christabel Wheeler, Mrs. Joseph Patrell Jr. [Phoebe Logan], Miss Rosemary Baur, Miss Ruth Card, Miss Virginia Thurman of Baltimore, and Miss Louise Day Smith of Memphis, Tenn.

Paul Fentress is to be his brother's best man, and the ushers are Thomas Jr. Street, Gordon Kelley, Dustin Granger, William Powne, John Farrar, John Gilbert of Philadelphia, James Guller and Bulbeck Crabbe of New York, and Mr. Addington.

Junior Cradle Society to Sew Chicago Auxiliary.

The Cradle society, which maintains the Cradle, a glorified sort of home for homeless babies, in Evanston, is to have a Chicago auxiliary. Mrs. Augustus W. Eddy is having a luncheon and meeting next Wednesday for the Chicago women who are interested, at which time the group will be organized. The Cradle workers are making preparations for the annual Cradle ball, to be held on Oct. 17 at the Drake, and Mrs. Howard Linne is giving a luncheon at her Winnetka residence on Monday to discuss plans, elect chairmen, and make other preliminary decisions.

MARRIED

MRS. HERBERT H. WELD.
[Bloom Photo.]

Mr. and Mrs. P. T. Hummelgaard of 6715 North Maplewood avenue announce the marriage of their daughter, Grace Isabell, to Herbert Hamilton Weld, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert W. Weld of Winnetka. The bride is a student at Northwestern university and a member of Alpha Omicron Pi. Mr. Weld is a graduate of Northwestern and a member of Beta Theta Pi.

The Needlework and Textile guild of the Art institute will begin its needlework classes on Monday, under the instructor, Miss Josephine M. Christie of the Royal School of Needlework, London. Classes in ecclesiastical embroidery are to be held on Tuesdays. Mrs. Chauncey B. Borland, president of the guild, has been in New York recently, entering her daughter, Miss Martha, at school, and is back at Camden, Me., for a few days before coming to Chicago.

Over 150 Seats Reserved for English Speaking Union.

More than 150 reservations have been made already for the English Speaking union luncheon at the Palmer house next Tuesday for Sir Alexander Lawrence, who is to speak on "England's Crisis." Sir Alexander is arriving this morning and will be the guest during his stay of the Mitchell Follansbees. They are going out to Winnetka for the week-end to be with Mrs. William G. Hibbard, and there are several affairs being given for the visitor.

Among those who have expressed their intention to attend on Tuesday are Mrs. D. Mark Cummings, the Cyrus H. Adamses, Mr. and Mrs. James H. Douglas Jr., the Richard Bentleys, the John M. Zanes, Mrs. A. H. Whiting, Mrs. Morris L. Johnston, Mrs. Walter S. Brewster, Mrs. J. M. Patterson, Mrs. Charles H. Schweppe, Mrs. George T. Langhorne, Mrs. Arthur Meeker, and Mrs. Ira Couch.

Mrs. Joseph G. Coleman is arriving in Chicago this morning after a long stay in Santa Barbara, and is to be domiciled this winter at the Ambassador East. Mrs. Coleman's brother-in-law and sister, the Charles L. Strobels, arrived from Santa Barbara earlier in the week.

Miss Patterson and Miss Chase Show Movies of Air Travels.

The benefit showing Miss Libby Chase and Miss Alicia Patterson gave of the movies of their south seas trip, which was largely by airplane, at the Wayne Chatfield-Taylors' house in Lake Forest last night was too late to be regularly reported, but indications were that it was to be gay and successful.

The Samuel Chases gave a dinner before the showing for the two travelers. Miss Patterson arrived at Sky Harbor by plane, and Mrs. Frederick Hauck, Miss Chase's sister, met her at the airport. The Chatfield-Taylors entertained at dinner beforehand and a buffet supper for the audience after the pictures and lecture, and the Vaughan Spaldings had a dinner party also.

Lake Geneva Club Holds Harvest Home Dance Tonight.

Lake Geneva's last large social event of the season is the annual Harvest Home dinner dance at the country club this evening. Dr. Otto L. Schmidt is having a party of 15 guests, and others who are entertaining sizable groups include the Albert F. Madleners, the Henry C. Bartholomays, Harry N. Gifford, Armin W. Brand, and Ralph Isham. The club is to remain open for the use of the members until the end of the month, as many of the summer colonists will be going out to the lake for week-ends even after they've moved back into town.

There's quite a colony of Chicago people at Virginia Hot Springs for the fall season, including the Burford Porters, who are on their wedding trip, the George F. McLaughlins, the John T. Pirie Jr., the Henry M. Rowleys, the T. Philip Swifts [Mrs. Swift returned to the springs after meeting her mother, Mrs. Phelps Hoyt, in New York], Mrs. James H. Winston, and William S. Miller.

Matters of social interest—The returns of Mrs. John Davis Kales of 1256 North State street and her daughter, Miss Katharine Kales, after a summer on Cape Cod. . . . Mrs. Alfred T. Martin's return from a summer spent with her daughter, Mrs. Josephine Richardson [nee Dorothy Harvey] at the latter's dude ranch, "Topsey Bar R," in Wadsworth, Nev. . . . The decision of Mr. and Mrs. Potter Smith to remain at "The Orchard" in Barrington for the winter, and James M. Hopkins Jrs.' leasing of their town apartment at 1366 North Dearborn parkway. . . . Mr. and Mrs. Oakleigh Thorne Lewis' going to Santa Barbara on their wedding trip. . . . The recent departure of Mrs. George Mulford of Evanston, Mrs. William F. Bencist of Winnetka and her daughter, Miss Mira Bencist, on the S. S. de Grasse for a European sojourn.

MARRIED

MRS. PAUL E. GREEN.

Announcement is made of the marriage on Sept. 19 of Miss Florence Helena Thorelius, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. F. W. Thorelius of 5226 Kenmore avenue, to Paul E. Green, son of Mrs. Charles E. Green of 1950 Pine Grove avenue.

WOMEN ARE TAKING LEAD IN CITIES OF 100,000 AND MORE

Washington, D. C., Oct. 2.—(AP)—The census bureau today published tables showing that where males predominated in 43 of the 68 cities of more than 100,000 population in 1920, they now hold the lead in only 27 out of 93 such cities.

Industrial Gary, Ind., took the lead as most masculine city away from Akron, O.—but with a far less spectacular sex" ratio. Gary has 119.1 males to every 100 females. In 1920 Akron had 138.9 males to each 100 females, and Gary came second with 135.

San Francisco was second city in masculinity with 114.1 males to each 100 females. Detroit came third, with a ratio of 110.

The most feminine city on the list was Nashville, Tenn., with 87.8 males to each 100 females.

New York City had a larger percentage of men now than 10 years ago, the sex ratio having increased from 99.5, showing slightly more women than men, to 100.4 showing slightly more men than women.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., Oct. 2.—[Special.]—Gen. Peyton C. March, chief of staff U. S. A. during the world war, has returned to Washington accompanied by Mrs. March, to spend the winter.

Maj. and Mrs. Henry L. Larson, who are at Wardman Park hotel for the season, entertained a company at luncheon today.

Maj. and Mrs. Joseph Weil of Chicago are at the Shoreham for a few days. They are en route from New York to Martinsville, Ind., and will return to Chicago later in the month.

The commercial secretary of the British embassy and Mrs. Leander McCormick-Goodhart have returned to Washington from Bar Harbor and have taken possession of the house at 3224 16th street which they will occupy this season. It is the home of former Assistant Secretary of State and Mrs. Breckinridge Long, who now spend the entire year in their country home in Maryland.

Mrs. Joseph Leiter returned today from Lake Forest, to make a short visit to her mother, accompanied by her daughter, Miss Nancy Leiter, and her niece, Miss Audrey Campbell. Mrs. Leiter will take her daughter on to Aiken to resume her studies and will then return to stay a short time with her mother, Mrs. John R. Williams. Mrs. Leiter has out invitations for a dinner Sunday night in honor of Miss Campbell.

West Point Cadets Ask for Earlier Rising Hour

West Point, N. Y., Oct. 2.—(AP)—At 5:50 a. m. today West Point cadets rolled out of bed. They had themselves to thank for it! Several months ago Maj. Gen. William R. Smith ruled they could have half an hour extra sleep. He set the first call at 6:20 a. m., but the cadets found that they had too little time to study before classes began, at 8. It's on the records that they asked to go back to 5:50.

WEDDING

The marriage of Miss Jessie Pitzer, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Jessie Pitzer of 5219 Woodlawn avenue, to Robert Friedlander, son of Mrs. Samuel Friedlander of 1033 Loyola avenue, will take place at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon in Bond chapel of the University of Chicago.

College Club Reception.

The Chicago College club will give a reception this afternoon for the president, Mrs. Nathan William MacChesney, and other new officers.

To Meet in Milwaukee.

Cleveland, O., Oct. 2.—(AP)—Members of the Service Star legion, in the closing session of their annual convention here today, reelected Mrs. F. W. Witheft, Fort Valley, Ga., as president and selected Milwaukee, Wis., as the 1932 convention city.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

There are pitchers and then there's Charley Root. He came dashing back into the city series picture in the ninth inning at Comiskey park yesterday when the White Sox suddenly pounded Bob Smith against the ropes. Like a man who knew no fear, he deliberately walked a batter, filling the bases with none out.

Then, still like a man who knew no fear, he tumbled the next three American leaguers to save Bob Smith's slim lead and give the Cubs the third game of the fall event by a score of 2 to 1. The National leaguers now have a 2 to 1 margin in victories.

Smith's unexpected fadeout came after a brilliant exhibition in which he was almost matched by Ted Lyons, who gave no evidence of the infirmities which hampered him all season. For seven innings Smith confined his adversaries to four hits, two of them in the fourth bringing in a run.

First Inning Attack Wins.

In the same length of time the Cubs produced all their hits off Lyons—a total of six—but two of them were wrapped around a walk in the first inning. That's what gave the victors their only runs. But Smith couldn't keep up his dizzy pace.

That Smith was going to need help was evident in the eighth when he escaped from a predicament that netted the Sox nothing except banishment for Manager Donie Bush. The wee pilot tried to sneak out of play a dirty ball which had been fouled toward third. Umpire Magerkurth ordered it back and in the ensuing speech making the manager lost out as managers usually do in such cases.

Root Rushes to Rescue.

Then, when another storm brewed in the ninth on Lu Blue's ringing single to center and a one base drive to right by young Billy Sullivan, Hornsby decided to act. Blue went to third on Sullivan's hit, and the ex-Georgian tore to second on the throw in.

When Root strolled in and nonchalantly tossed four balls wide to Jimmy Tate, the 14,245 spectators were awed by the bold strategy. Then began the process of wearing the Sox down into submission. Luke Appling, who, like Tate, had come into the af-

NEBRASKA TESTS PURPLE'S TITLE CHANCES TODAY

BY HARVEY WOODRUFF.

Northwestern's Wildcats will open their 1931 football season this afternoon at Dyche stadium with Nebraska's Cornhuskers as opponents. Ordinarily opening games are regarded as practice affairs, but if you suggested that thought to Coach Hanley of Northwestern or Coach Dana [not Gideon] Bible of Nebraska they would reply: "Practice game, my eye," or words of similar import.

Northwestern, with a back field probably stronger than last year but with its three center line positions unproved and no pass receiver yet qualified under fire to succeed Frank Baker, will meet just the kind of sturdy opposition it needs in preparation for Notre Dame a week hence at Soldiers' field. In fact, it is more than possible the Wildcats will meet sturdier opposition than it really needs to prepare for Notre Dame a week hence.

Nebraska Is No Underdog.

Nebraska's cardinal jerseyed warriors, 31 in number, looked formidable as they indulged in setting up calisthenics and signal drill at Dyche stadium yesterday afternoon. A majority were of the tall, rangy type which is the delight of coaches. Nebraska in the Big Six conference is just as formidable as Northwestern in the Big Ten. So these westerners are not here with any underdog spirit. They are here to win.

We asked Coach Dana [not Gideon] Bible how the team felt. He replied, "The team spirit is fine."

"And how do you feel?" we queried.

"You might express it this way," he said, "the game will be like a strong current. We hope to be riding with the current."

In looking over this Nebraska eleven, which consists of five seniors, two juniors, and four sophomores, you find a heavy line—heavier than that of their rivals—and a lighter back field. The starting lineups, as announced, show a difference of only two-elevenths of a pound per man in average weight.

Nebraska Uses Warner System.

Nebraska's offense is the double wing back Warner system, slightly varied, and also many plays from V or punt formations. Stars of the team are Capt. Gilbert and Rhea, noted shots at tackles; Ely at center, and Kreizinger and Sauer, the latter a sophomore, in the back field. Nebraska won its opening game last Saturday from South Dakota, 44 to 6.

Northwestern's veterans are known to local gridiron followers. New faces in the lineup will be Ken Meenan, one

CUBS WILL GET VANCE IN MALONE TRADE, REPORT

New York, Oct. 2.—[Special.]—News of impending trades by the Brooklyn Robins, supposed to be kept a dark secret until the current series is over, has already broken out and rumor has Dazzy Vance scheduled to go to the Chicago Cubs for Perce [Pat] Malone.

It has been known for some time that the Robins' directorate has been dissatisfied with some of its high priced talent which failed to deliver in the season just past. Babe Herman and Vance were reported as being available for trade six weeks ago, but at the same time it was stated that Herman was rather poor trading material as no one in the National league seemed to want him.

Before the season closed, the Robins were reported as anxious to get rid of some of the high priced players, and it was stated that announcements would come after the 1931 series. It was reported tonight that the Vance-Malone deal has been consummated and awaits only official announcement.

INDIANA AWAITS NOTRE DAME IN STATE OF ANXIETY

BY WILFRID SMITH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Bloomington, Ind., Oct. 2.—Indiana's football team, a week of intensive preparation finished, tonight rested at a university dormitory awaiting Notre Dame's visit to Memorial stadium tomorrow. Twenty miles away, at Martinsville, the invaders were quartered for the night.

Early members of the crowd of 20,000 which is expected to see the first game of Notre Dame's 1931 campaign, arrived tonight. Fraternity and sorority houses were crowded, but most of the thousands of visitors probably will motor to the campus in the morning. Only once before has this quiet university town seen such numbers.

Hope for Close Game.

Notre Dame is the attraction. Indiana's loyal following does not minimize the ability of its varsity, but the alumni are hopeful that tomorrow's game will be closely contested, rather than confident Indiana will bring to an end the Notre Dame's two year reign as national champions.

What will Notre Dame do without Knute Rockne? This thought dominates pre-game discussion. And the corollary: What will Notre Dame do under the coaching of Hunk Anderson?

These questions are national in their interest. One hundred and fifty-one press reservations, for New York and other metropolitan correspondents, for national press associations, and for a national radio hookup, attest that interest. Through these representatives the country will compare the work of Marchmont Schwartz and Notre Dame's rebuilt back field with that of the men who last year raced through all opposition.

First Test for Hayes.

Indiana shares this national interest. But it also will pass judgment on its new coach, E. C. Hayes, who already, in seven years of service as track coach, has earned the confidence and respect of alumni and students. The uproarious demonstration yesterday, when Coach Hayes addressed the student body, was a mark of that confidence.

Indiana probably will not win, but don't forget that many of the players were on the Hoosier team which last year held Notre Dame scoreless for nearly three-quarters of the game. Indiana's running attack may not gain against Notre Dame's veteran

What Happened in Ninth? Why, Wilson Merely Erred

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 2.—The truth probably will get foised about in time, anyway, so it may as well be admitted now that the second game of the world series was a pretty dull contest between a couple of good pitchers, both of them running a high artistic temperature until the ninth inning when the clowns went crazy.

Then something happened which can't happen under the rules of baseball and the three unfortunates serving as official scorers in a little coop dangling from the eaves like a hornet's nest rattled the bars of their cage for half an hour trying to unhappen it.

That only complicated things and, though at last reports this impossibility was officially deemed to have transpired, it is the hope of all concerned that nobody will demand a complete, logical explanation of it all. If there ever was a time when people ought to show faith in the administration and ask no annoying questions, this one is it.

Special Trains Rattle Away.

By the way, the Cardinals won, 2 to 0, and several big parties of ball players, experts and middle aged baseball nuts with money enough to chase these shows from town to town every year clattered out of St. Louis this evening on a lot of special trains bound for Philadelphia with nothing to do until Monday. The Cardinals, however, will not leave until tomorrow, thus saving the cost of a day's quarters and rations for their entire cast, no negligible item in any time but much less negligible at this particular time. The St. Louis players are on their own expense until they take the train for Philadelphia because this is their base.

Up to the ninth inning the baseball, under the influence of some very superior pitching by Bill Hallahan and George Earnshaw, had been about as stirring as so much office work. The object of the game is to hit the ball, and when the pitchers don't let guys hit to any marked extent the ball game is just a long spell of nothing doing. Of course, some people claim to enjoy the old-fashioned pitchers' battle, but there is something very negative about a contest in which something is trying to happen for two hours or so and, when it does happen, isn't much.

Wad of Tobacco in Cheek.

Well, Hallahan is the Cardinal's left hander who lost a game in last year's world series when a blister rose on his curving knuckles. He spends a lot of his time out in the sun and wind, necessarily, but he has a complexion about the color of the paper this is printed on, and he goes around wearing a wad of tobacco as big as an apple in his left cheek.

Hallahan pitched to just nine hitters in the first three innings, that good he was, and nobody reached first on any sort of hit until the fifth, when Bing Miller singled. Al Simmons couldn't do anything. Mule Haas got a single in the sixth and Jimmy Foxx made one in the eighth, and these three hits, including Miller's, were all he dealt. However, he did walk seven hitters, and that brings us back to the subject of the impossibility which the scorers tried so hard to unhappen in the ninth.

Set Stage for Boner.

At the time the Cardinals were defending their two run lead and Hallahan began the inning with a base on balls to Foxx. Miller, the next hitter, went out on a fly to left and Jimmy Dykes, a great nuisance to the pitchers always, being short and thick, came up to look at a few. So he walked and that made two on base in the ninth inning with the club two runs behind against a three hit pitcher and the dumb end of the batting order coming up. Williams struck out quietly and Connie Mack sent in Jim Moore, a big, meaty hitter, to bat for Earnshaw.

Now Hallahan had been deceiving the boys with a drooping curve all afternoon and with a count of two

Rules Are Clear on That Third Strike to Moore

Although official scorers, radio announcers and almost all members of the Cardinals and Athletics were tossed into a maze of confusion by Bill Hallahan's third strike to Moore in the ninth inning of yesterday's world series battle, the scoring code is clear on this point. The rule covering the play follows:

"An error, but not a wild pitch, shall be charged to the pitcher if he delivers the ball wildly for the third strike and the batter reaches first base. Do not credit the pitcher with a strikeout.

"An error, but not a passed ball, shall be charged to the catcher if he drops or misses a third strike, allowing the batter to reach first base. Credit the pitcher with a strikeout."

If Jimmy Wilson dropped the third strike he should have been charged with an error for that offense and not for throwing to third, which was an error of omission, not an error of commission. If Hallahan's pitch was so low as to make it impossible for Wilson to catch, without interfering with the batter, the error should have been given to Hallahan.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 2.—Wild Bill Hallahan and Pep Martin, known to the literati as the Wild Horse of the Osage, collaborated today to furnish the main part of a 2 to 0 shutout for the St. Louis Cardinals against the Philadelphia Athletics in the second game of the world series. Hallahan held the Athletics to three singles and Wild Pep ran wild on the bases to score all the runs of the day.

In emphatic contrast with the routine character of the opener yesterday, the game was one of the biggest thrillers of recent history, with the greatest wallop coming after two were out in the ninth.

At this point a play said to be unprecedented in a world series game arose when Catcher Jimmy Wilson threw to third instead of first after Pinch Batter Jim Moore had taken a third strike to apparently end the game. Wilson picked the ball out of the dirt and if he had thrown to first the game would have been over.

Bottomley Saves Embarrassment.

Wilson, however, had a brain storm and threw to third base, thus filling the bases. On the next play Jim Bottomley saved Wilson some of the danger of going down as the greatest bonehead in baseball annals when he ended the game with a diving catch into the boxes to pull down Bishop's foul fly.

The wool gathering of Wilson spread to the official scorers' box and after a long delay the three scorers made an impossible ruling. Later their heads cleared and they gave the error to Wilson for not throwing to first. Their first ruling charged an error to Hallahan because his third strike on Moore hit the ground.

Inasmuch as Wilson was known as one of the smartest catchers of the current era, his admirers were so busy in alibiing his stupidity after the game that they almost forgot the brilliance of Hallahan and Martin. The most logical alibi was that Wilson thought he had made a clean catch of the third strike and had followed the habit of tossing to third after a strikeout. We do not go for this explanation, if that makes any difference to you. But it's a long winter ahead and we'll all get together some time and try to figure things out.

Macks Hitless Until Fourth.

MOWRIS TAKES BEATING IN GOLD CUP RACE DRILL

5 Candidates for $25,000 Purse Run Today.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Mowris, owned by J. H. Manheimer of Chicago, was the only Hawthorne Gold Cup candidate to go into action yesterday, and Mowris didn't do so well.

The 3 year old son of Luculiite-Hellcon, purchased by the Chicagoan recently from the Rancocas stable, started in the Gallant purse at Hawthorne at a mile and a sixteenth, and the best he could do was third, beaten two necks for all the money by Street Singer and the Californian, Listo.

But there may be a different story to tell about the Hawthorne Gold Cup, which will be run Thursday, after the $5,000 added Midwest handicap is run this afternoon. Old Sun Beau is to get his final tuning up for the Cup in this battle and so will four other eligibles—Jim Dandy, Brown Wisdom, My Dandy, and Plucky Play.

If the track remains fast all of them will parade to the post with Sun Beau at top weight and the certain heavy favorite at post time.

Sun Beau Carries 126 Pounds.

The naming overnight of Sun Beau for the Midwest came as somewhat of a surprise. He was assigned 126 pounds, the same package he will carry in the Cup, and he will be giving away 16 pounds to Plucky Play, 18 pounds to Brown Wisdom and My Dandy, and 24 pounds to Jim Dandy. Of course, Jim Dandy spent the night praying for mud, but there was no sign of rain anywhere in the vicinity of Hawthorne.

Johnny Maiben will ride Sun Beau this afternoon and the money winning champion of the world will parade to the post at about 4 to 5 in the betting. Folks in the Sun Beau camp were confident the mile and a sixteenth would not be too short for him. The folks in the Brown Wisdom camp were just as confident the Midwest had been made to order for both Brown Wisdom and My Dandy, and the Plucky Play crowd said Sun Beau could never give Plucky Play 16 pounds and beat him.

Twenty Grand Undecided.

While these Gold Cup candidates are fighting it out at Hawthorne two other candidates for the $25,000 race will be going into action in the Havre de Grace cup in Maryland. They are St. Brideaux and Spinach. Twenty Grand, which hasn't decided yet whether he will come west for the Gold Cup, will be a spectator at that battle.

It is expected that Twenty Grand, St. Brideaux, and Spinach will all board a train in Baltimore tomorrow for the trip into Chicago.

While Street Singer was always in front, Mowris never let him get far away, and when Jockey Corbett pulled Street Singer up sharply rounding the lower bend he slightly impeded both Mowris and Listo, which were offering the most opposition. As they were temporarily thrown off stride, Street Singer pulled out into another good lead, but in the final stages Listo and Mowris were gaining on him at every stride. Both would have raced on past him in a few more strides.

Hoosiers Test Notre Dame Eleven Today

linemen, five of whom were regulars in 1930. But Coach Hayes and his assistants also will use a passing attack, which, directed against the more inexperienced Irish backs, may be more effective. Opasik, Baer, the Dauer brothers, Jones and Lyons can throw and catch a football with accuracy and ease.

Edmonds Can Kick.

And Otis Edmonds, who shares the full back position with Jones, can place kick with accuracy up to 40 yards. It was his placement after touchdown which provided the one point defeat of Ohio university last Saturday.

If Notre Dame wins tomorrow it will be its 20th consecutive triumph and it will tie the record compiled in the days of George Gipp. Starting lineup:

ILLINOIS MEETS STRONG ST. LOUIS ELEVEN TODAY

Only Two Letter Men in Opening Lineup.

Champaign, Ill., Oct. 2.—[Special.]—The University of Illinois football team, with only two letter men in the starting lineup, expects a hard game with St. Louis university's veterans here tomorrow.

Ever since last spring, when St. Louis devoted its spring practice to work against Illinois formations, victory over the Illini has been the goal toward which Coach Chile Walsh, former Notre Dame player, and his squad have been working. Two special trains will bring 3,000 supporters of the Billikens.

The invaders already have run wild in an opener against Millikin, Little Nineteen champion.

Gil Berry, all conference half back, and Stan Jensen, the only regular lineman from last year, are the only Illini man in the squad on which Illini must rely and learn something about the Notre Dame system which will be faced at Purdue next week.

OHIO VS. CINCINNATI

Columbus, O., Oct. 2.—[Special.]—Ohio State university will open its 1931 football season tomorrow when it renews gridiron relations with the University of Cincinnati at the Ohio stadium. Both teams will have many sophomores. The Buckeyes will use her with a possibility of two more being added before game time.

Ohio State has won eight of ten games from Cincinnati and has totaled 98 points to the Bearcats' 49. The last game was played in 1919 and the Buckeyes won, 46 to 0.

TWO FOES FOR PURDUE

Lafayette, Ind., Oct. 2.—[Special.]—Purdue's football squad will open the season here tomorrow against Coe and Western Reserve in a double header that will be the feature of the Boy Scout day. Several thousand Boy Scouts, guests of the athletic department for the afternoon, will attend.

Coach Noble Kizer will start a sophomore back field of Fred Hecker, Dale Moore, Roy Horstman and Paul Pardonner in the opener against Western Reserve saving the veteran Risk, Purvis, Tunevich, White foursome for its game with Coe.

AGGIES TEST GOPHERS

Minneapolis, Minn., Oct. 2.—[Special.]—The Minnesota football squad today put the finishing touches to the most intensive drill of the season for its game with the Oklahoma Aggies here tomorrow.

The Oklahoma team arrived today and worked out in the stadium short ly before the Gophers took the field. Coach Fritz Crisler will use three new men in his starting lineup tomorrow—Roy Oen at center in place of Stein, Jim Dennerly at right guard instead of Reihsen, and Burdick at left half for Sam Swartz.

The Gophers will have quite an advantage in weight, but the Aggies have an experienced team of letter men.

MICHIGAN PLAYS TWICE

Ann Arbor, Mich., Oct. 2.—[Special.]—The advance guard of the thousands of state high school students who will witness Michigan's double header tomorrow with Central State Teachers college and Michigan Normal college arrived in Ann Arbor this afternoon, while the remainder, probably 40,000, will reach here tomorrow morning.

Wilson Erred in 9th, Scorers Finally Rule

and two he let Moore have another of those. It was a bad ball, and perhaps Moore should have had an error of some kind for trying to dig it out of the dirt, for a ball bat is no niblick. However, this pinch hitter sent up to slam one with two runners aboard and the club two runs behind took a low swing at a pitch so poor that the ball hit the dirt just back of the plate as Moore swung. Foxx left second in a despairing dash for third, and Jimmy Wilson, catching for the Cardinals, dropped the third strike. That is, he didn't even catch it, for it hooked down into the dust before it got to him and he had to grab for it.

All Are Confused.

Well, now Wilson threw to third to catch Foxx, who slid safely under Jake Flowers down there, but the St. Louis club started tearing off the field figuring that Moore's third strike had made the third out, anyway. Moreover, though Wilson had dropped the third strike, Moore had made no move to run for first and the St. Louis team was out of position when Eddie Collins came screaming in from the coachers' box at third for Moore to run like all hell. Waite Hoyt ran over from the bench and gave Moore a shove and finally he got there safe, filling the bases.

Bishop, the next hitter, fouled one higher than the upper deck roof and Jim Bottomley, the Cardinals' first baseman, tumbled all over the Athletics' bullpen bench taking the catch to end the game.

Now everybody wanted to know how to score the play. There was an error there somewhere, and the scorers first gave that to Hallahan on account of his low throw.

Then the scorers upstairs decided in the interests of consistency and the laws of baseball to call it a strikeout and an error for Wilson for throwing to the wrong base when he should have thrown to first to retire Moore.

Umpires Have It Easy.

The umpires were having a hard time justifying their existence in this ball game, for there weren't many decisions to make up to this one and those which did come up were routine yes or no problems and easily settled. Still, the boys get a lot of pay for umpiring in the series and there was some action, anyway, in their nimble bouncing and posturing on every pitch, a great display of that which is known as the old pepper and for the benefit of their bosses, the presidents of the two leagues.

George Earnshaw could have won almost any other ball game pitching as he did, for he gave only six hits himself, three of them doubles, however. Moreover, he walked only one hitter so, counting Hallahan's seven passes, the traffic against him was considerably lighter.

Cardinals Beat Athletics, 2-0; Square Series

we would have started if Wilson's mental faculties hadn't forsaken him in the pinch. First, about Mr. William Anthony Hallahan, the Binghamton, N. Y., bun and cookie salesman.

Hallahan didn't allow a Mack player to reach first base until he issued the first of his seven walks, to Mickey Cochrane, with two out, in the fourth.

The first of the three hits off Hallahan, all singles, was knocked by Miller after Foxx had walked to start the fifth. The second hit was made by Haas with one out in the sixth and Foxx led off the seventh with the third and final single.

Hallahan had the situation well in hand in all innings except three. In the fifth the Athletics filled the bases with one out; in the seventh they had men on first and third with two out, and, as previously related, Wilson's boner loaded the bases after a strikeout apparently had ended the game. We'll tell you later about the way he emerged from these trying situations.

Martin Dazzles A's.

And now for Mr. John Leonard Martin.

Martin, in the opening game yesterday, made good on his and Manager Gabby Street's earlier forecasts that he would be one of the stars of the series by doubling in the first inning and following with singles the next two times he faced Grove.

Martin got a big sendoff when he came to bat with one out in the second inning today. He knocked a line drive in front of Al Simmons, the Athletics' left fielder, for what 99 players out of a hundred would have been content to call a single. But the Wild Horse galloped right on to second, much to the amazement of the great Simmons.

Pep stole a base in the opener and figured there was no reason why he couldn't steal another. He raced to third, and the proud Mr. Cochrane, Philadelphia's catcher, was so aghast at this freshman audacity that he almost threw the ball into left field. Wilson followed with a long fly and Pep trotted home with the first of his two runs and the one that proved enough to give Hallahan his second world series shutout in two years.

Work Squeeze Play.

Martin wasn't through by a long shot when he scored that first run. He led off the seventh with a single and, though the book wouldn't have advised him to do it, he stole second before Wilson even had time to give him a hit and run signal. He went to third while Bishop was throwing out Wilson and came home on a squeeze play with a terrific slide under Cochrane, who was pretty much distressed with his antics by that time.

The squeeze which sent Martin home the second time was executed by Gelbert and probably would have failed but for the irritation that Martin's reckless dashing about had occasioned. Gelbert's effort was a bunt which Earnshaw normally would have handled with greater grace and skill.

Now, here's the detail of the Athletics' chances: Foxx led off the fifth with a walk and stopped at second on the first Philadelphia hit of the game, Miller's single to right. The runners moved forward on Dykes' sacrifice. Then Williams was given a more or less intentional pass, filling the bases. Earnshaw hit into a double play, Frisch to Gelbert to Bottomley, to retire the side.

Earnshaw was again the goat in the fadeout in the seventh. Foxx opened with a single and was forced by Miller. Dykes fouled to Bottomley, but Williams walked. Miller got to third, but Williams stayed on first when Hallahan was charged with a wild pitch. Earnshaw then struck out.

That Baffling Ninth.

But the ninth, as you know was the hot one. Foxx walked and Miller flied to Hafey. Dykes walked, but Williams was called out on strikes. Moore batted for Earnshaw and missed two strikes. He tipped a third one, but Wilson dropped the ball. Hallahan sent in a wicked drop and Moore struck at it and missed, but Wilson caught the ball just after it had hit the ground. He threw to third for a reason yet to be determined, but Moore stopped running and the players and spectators started to leave.

Eddie Collins, coaching at third, apparently was the only player in the park who fathomed the situation and yelled to Moore to run on to first, which he did. The umpires then made it clear to the congress of startled and puzzled athletes that the bases were full.

It looked like a swell chance for Hallahan to explode and blow into a million fragments, but his first pitch to Bishop was a called strike and the next was the foul on which Bottomley distinguished himself.

The next game of the series will be played in Philadelphia Monday. It probably will be Burleigh Grimes of the Cardinals pitching against Rube Walberg of the Athletics.

A's Rush for Home; Cards Leave Today

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 2.—The Athletics left for Philadelphia at 7 o'clock this evening. The Cards weren't in such a rush. They will leave at noon tomorrow.

It was hazy all morning, but an hour before game time the sun broke loose in a great big way. The temperature was around 75.

The second guessers called Andy High's failure to capture Dykes' high bouncer at the start of the fatal third yesterday the break of the game. So Jake Flowers went to third today as Sparky Adams' substitute.

Hallahan's pitching to Bishop to open the game was typical of one of his main moods. The count was three balls and two strikes when Max tapped to Frisch.

Wild Bill wasn't so typical with the next two batsmen, Haas and Cochrane. He struck out both of them on seven pitches.

Haas looked bad on Watkins' hit in the first inning. It was a clean single properly played, but Watkins got t second for a double while Haas loafed on the throw. Frisch and Bottomley could not follow up with even a little help, however.

The St. Louis fans refused to get excited when the A's failed to reach first in the first two innings. The St. Louisans probably remembered that was the way yesterday's contest started off.

Pepper Martin threw Mickey Cochrane into a panic when he stole third following his double in the second inning. Dykes was lucky to seize Mickey's frantic shot.

At the end of the first three innings Hallahan had accomplished four strikeouts, one fewer than Derringer's mark at the same juncture in the first game.

Mickey Cochrane was the first Mack to reach first. He walked after a three and two count with two out in the fourth. The lapse led to nothing, for Mickey forthwith was forced by Simmons.

Pepper Martin, Cardinal freshman outfielder, got the biggest hand of the day when he appeared at bat the first time. In the opener Martin made a double. Today he stole third and registered the first run on Wilson's fly.

Bing Miller's hit, the first of the game for the A's was a line single to right in the fifth inning. It was the second stage in the futile loading of the bases.

The second hit off Hallahan was a line single to left by Haas with one out in the s

Ex-Owner of Oil Station Chain Seeks Damages.

Arthur Anderson, formerly the owner of a chain of south side wholesale and retail gasoline stations, yesterday filed a bill of review in the Superior court, in which he charged that four prominent lawyers, his former wife, and the receiver for his property have acquired joint ownership of his $375,000 estate by fraudulent litigation. At the same time he filed the praecipe of a $400,000 damage suit against all six as co-defendants in the Circuit court.

Those named in the actions are: Mrs. Ruth Anderson, who divorced Anderson last January; Charles M. Haft and Leo J. Hassenauer, who formerly were his attorneys; Benjamin H. Ehrlich and Aaron H. Cohen, attorneys for Mrs. Anderson, and Lloyd J. Smith, appointed receiver for Anderson's property.

Tells of Receivership.

At that time, according to the bill drawn by Attorney H. M. Phipps, Anderson was the owner of six stations and received a net income of $2,000 a month. After the receiver had remained in charge for nine months and had collected $43,282 there was only $357 on hand, the action charges.

Smith was appointed receiver by a Superior court judge after Mrs. Anderson had filed a bill for an accounting of her husband's estate in 1928. In that action she charged that she was a partner in her husband's business. Subsequently Judge Joseph H. Fitch ruled that Mrs. Anderson had only dower rights in the property and was not a partner, and the state Supreme court upheld the ruling.

Notwithstanding the court's ruling, the bill charges, Anderson's attorneys did nothing to remove the receiver. Shortly after Smith had submitted his report, Anderson charges, the Chicago City Bank and Trust company was appointed successor receiver. After fifteen months a report on the property was submitted by the bank at the request of Mrs. Anderson and Attorney Ehrlich, the bill alleges, and the assets were shown to be $3.62.

Accuses His Lawyers.

Asserting that he believes his former attorneys colloborated in the filing of his wife's divorce bill in the Circuit court, Anderson charges that he ordered his lawyers to prepare a cross bill denying his wife's allegation of desertion. They failed to do this, he alleges, and agreed with Attorney Ehrlich not to contest the divorce.

Anderson also charges that his lawyers informed him that if he went into court to testify that he had lost his property by fraud he would be imprisoned. He ordered Attorneys Haft and Hassenauer to file a cross bill charging his wife with adultery, but this was not done, the bill charges. Anderson charges that a division of his property was agreed upon against his wishes. Shortly afterward, his own attorneys, he charges, obtained a court order to hold in escrow the property given him under the agreement, pending the payment of large attorneys' fees.

Robert Keating Smith Is Dead at Westfield

BOY KILLED BY AUTO; DRIVER MAKES GETAWAY

Harry Bebber, 11 years old, 3060 Fifth avenue, was crushed to death last evening beneath the wheels of an automobile driven by a hit-and-run motorist. The accident occurred along a dark stretch of Kedzie avenue between Monroe and Madison streets.

The driver, alone in a large roadster, stopped his machine and looked back. He saw the dying boy and running men converging on his car. A moment of indecision, and then he meshed his gears and swerved east in an alley, making his escape.

Henry Derrig, 2837 West Polk street, who heard the crash and saw the motorist flee, picked up the boy and ran to the office of Dr. I. M. Feinberg, 9 South Kedzie avenue. The child had died while he was being carried in, the physician said.

The death of the boy and one other brought the year's toll for Cook county to 931. The other victim:

George Green, colored, 30 years old, 237 North Artesian avenue. Died at the county hospital from injuries suffered Sept. 7 when he was run down at Western avenue and Lake street. The driver was Miss Edith Flanagan, 118 East 59th street.

Stanley Cipulskis, 26 years old, 5234 South Seeley avenue, hit-and-run driver, was held to the grand jury on a charge of manslaughter by a coroner's jury. Cipulskis drove away after killing Joseph Leonhart, 16 years old, 5237 Parkside avenue, at Archer and Massasoit avenues on Sept. 17, the testimony disclosed.

BUILDING TRADES VOTE TO CHASTISE 'REBEL' BRANCHES

VANCOUVER, B. C., Oct. 2.—(AP)—Disregarding solemn warnings of Daniel J. Tobin, Indianapolis, Ind., president of the Brotherhood of Teamsters, Chauffeurs, Stablemen and Helpers, the building trades department of the American Federation of Labor took steps today to chastise dissenters.

Building trades delegates, holding a departmental convention preliminary to the 51st annual gathering of the American Federation of Labor next week, called upon the federation to amend its constitution to force all international unions to affiliate with their respective departments or get out of the American Federation of Labor. The resolution was sponsored by the St. Louis Building Trades council. The resolution was approved by the building tradesmen by unanimous vote.

The three "dissenting" branches are the electrical workers, the carpenters and the bricklayers, who have refused to affiliate themselves with the other crafts in the Building Trades council partly because of jurisdictional disputes.

YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE SOLVED.

Savant's Widow Dies

MRS. ALBERT A. MICHELSON.

Mrs. Albert A. Michelson, widow of the noted scientist, died yesterday morning in the Emergency hospital in Washington, D. C., surviving her husband by only five months. She failed to rally from the effects of a recent operation.

For the two years preceding Dr. Michelson's death on May 9, Mrs. Michelson nursed her husband, helping him to maintain his strength. It was this constant care, coupled with Dr. Michelson's strong will, that enabled him to complete his last great experiment, his third and most precise measurement of light in a mile long vacuum tube at Santa Ana, Cal.

After the funeral of Dr. Michelson, which was held in Pasadena, Mrs. Michelson went to Provincetown, Mass., where she made her home with her youngest daughter, Mrs. Sheldon Dick. She is survived by two other daughters, Mrs. Philip B. Maher of Chicago and Mrs. Festus Foster of Alexandria, Va. All were at their mother's bedside when she died.

Funeral services for Mrs. Michelson will be held this afternoon at St. John's church in Washington.

KUNZ CLAIMS LEAD AS VOTE COUNT CLOSES

A preliminary recount of the votes cast last fall in the race for congressman in the Eighth Illinois district was completed yesterday.

STANLEY H. KUNZ.

Although the official count in November showed Peter C. Granata, Republican, elected by 1,160 votes, it was announced yesterday by friends of his Democratic opponent, Congressman Stanley H. Kunz, that Kunz appeared to have won by 810 votes.

The recount, however, is not final. It is more in the nature of a survey, made under the supervision of Attorney Edward H. Hoffman, who was appointed a special commissioner for the purpose by the clerk of the national house of representatives. During the recount many disputed ballots appeared and the claims of both candidates to them were put in the record. The elections committee of the house will have to pass on the question of the winner and may make its own recount of the ballots.

Daughters Share Million Left by John N. Dole

The will of John N. Dole, president of the board of directors of the H. N. Hooker Paint and Glass company, which disposes of his $1,000,000 estate, was admitted to probate yesterday by Oscar S. Caplan, assistant probate judge. Mr. Dole died in his home at Hubbard Woods on Sept. 21. He was 74 years old. After a few minor gifts two daughters, Mrs. Julia Dole Baird and Mrs. Josephine Dole Butler, both of Hubbard Woods, share the estate.

O'Donnell Bodyguard Arrested Near Home

Joe Cainski, 25 years old, one of the bodyguards of Edward "Spike" O'Donnell, gang leader, was arrested yesterday by Patrolman Thomas R. Casey of the New City station as he took an afternoon stroll near his home at 5209 South Hermitage avenue. He will be charged with disorderly conduct and arraigned in court today, police said.

J. W. M'GAFFEY, READING CLERK OF COUNCIL, DIES

J. Wyatt McGaffey, 74 years old, reading clerk of the city council for the last 36 years, died yesterday at the home of his son, Wyatt, in Rockford. Funeral services will be held at 1:30 p. m. Monday from Schmidt's chapel, 3334 Irving Park boulevard. Burial will be at the Rosehill cemetery.

J. WYATT M'GAFFEY.

Mr. McGaffey, whose home was at 6044 Dorchester avenue, died of heart disease. He had been in ill health since last January. He was noted for his powerful voice, which made him especially capable as reading clerk in the council.

Mr. McGaffey is survived by his widow, Minnie, two sons, Wyatt, and Dr. Creighton McGaffey of Edinburgh, Scotland, a daughter, Mrs. Christine Frederick, author and lecturer on domestic science, and a brother, Ernest, a poet and formerly a Chicago lawyer, now living in Los Angeles.

Estate Worth $1,500,000 Left by Adam Kreuter

Adam Kreuter, manufacturer of laundry machinery, who died on Sept. 26, left an estate valued at $1,500,000, it was disclosed yesterday, when his will was admitted to probate by Oscar S. Caplan, assistant to Probate Judge Henry Horner. The estate is left in trust during her life for the widow, Mrs. Emily Kreuter, 2302 North Kedzie avenue. At her death it is to be divided equally between a daughter, Mrs. Julia K. Romeiser, of the Kedzie avenue address, and a son, Verner Kreuter, of Rochester, N. Y.

MRS. WILLIAMS, HOSPITAL WORK LEADER, DEAD

Mrs. Elizabeth G. Williams, 803 Noyes street, Evanston, for ten years president of the Frances E. Willard hospital auxiliary, died yesterday in the Evanston hospital. She was 69 years old. Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. Monday in the First Presbyterian church of Evanston. Interment will be in Memorial Park cemetery.

Born in Wales, Mrs. Williams came to this country with her parents while she was a child. She was the widow of Edward O. Williams, and came with him to Evanston to live in 1892.

Mrs. Williams was interested in W. C. T. U. work, and the Chicago Boys' club. She was a director of the Bethesda Day nursery and belonged to the Eastern Star.

Mrs. Williams is survived by five children. They are: Mrs. Charles H. Bartlett, whose husband is the mayor of Evanston; Owen, Robert, and John Charles Williams, all of Evanston, and Cyrus Williams of Scarsdale, N. Y.

Dog Jumps Against Rifle; Youth Hit by Shot

Frank Wareham, 20 years old, son of Police Magistrate Edward J. Wareham of Broadview, was working yesterday in the garage of his home in the suburb. His collie dog bounded into the place and brushed against a loaded .22 caliber rifle which leaned against a workbench, discharging the gun. His master was taken to the Oak Park hospital with a flesh wound in the left thigh.

LUIGI CARNOVALE, AUTHOR OF PEACE PLAN, DIES AT 57

Luigi Carnovale, writer and creator of a world peace plan based on the principle of the abolition of neutrality, died yesterday at his residence at 2970 Sheridan road, of heart disease. He was 57 years old.

Mr. Carnovale was born in Stile, Calabria, Italy. His first wife was the former Mrs. Jessie E. Shears, a Chicago philanthropic worker and clubwoman. She died in 1921, leaving her $120,000 estate to her husband. Mr. Carnovale was the author of several books and recently had started the publication of a bi-lingual weekly.

Mr. Carnovale is survived by his widow, Clelia Fant Carnovale. No funeral plans have been made.

John George Stidger, 64, Railway Treasurer, Dead

Cleveland, O., Oct. 2.—(AP)—John George Stidger, 64, treasurer of the Wheeling and Lake Erie railroad, died suddenly late today after a heart attack. He entered the employ of the railroad as a clerk. He became treasurer in 1917. He leaves his widow and three daughters, Mrs. Mildred Peckinpaugh, wife of Roger Peckinpaugh, manager of the Cleveland Indians; Mrs. Pauline Stahler and Mrs. Wilda B. BANDITS GET $4,000 LOOT IN THREE ROBBERIES

Robbers obtained more than $4,000 in three Chicago stickups yesterday.

Mrs. Elizabeth Gavora and her daughter, Judith Gavora, owners of a restaurant at 4657 West North avenue, were robbed of $1,500 by three armed men in the afternoon. Mrs. Gavora had drawn the money from a bank a little earlier to cash pay checks for industrial workers. The robbers compelled her to disclose where she had it hidden.

Three Negroes, two of them armed, compelled Miss Belle Abrams, cashier for the Kenwood Cleaners and Dyers at 740 West 47th street, to surrender $761 of the firm's money to them early last evening. They escaped in an automobile which they had left at the curb while they went into the office.

Max Zolla, 2757 Arthington street, having collected rents from a number of tenants, was on his way to a bank when two men halted him in front of 1127 South Kedzie avenue and forced him into a passageway. They took $1,784 and checks for $867 from him.

TRADE SLOWLY GAINS; STOCKS AT LOW POINT

Mercantile Reviews More Cheerful.

BY O. A. MATHER.

While it cannot be stated that trade and industry are experiencing the usual autumn upturn, it can be said that slow improvement is going on. However, it is probably true that stocks of goods in distributors' hands are smaller and cleaner than in many years. Therefore, there is a better foundation for recovery whenever it shall develop, soon or late.

This week's mercantile reviews are in a more cheerful vein, although still acknowledging the various handicaps that have restricted business for many months and the additional uncertainties imposed by European developments in finance. The chief effect of suspension of the gold standard in England and several other countries, coupled with uncertainty in Germany, has been to slow down our export trade.

Retail Prices Drop.

"Continued dropping in retail prices and large advertising expenditures are all the watchword among the department stores," according to Bradstreet's. "Wholesale buying continues cautious and inventories are in good shape, with much of the slow moving goods disposed of. This has stimulated orders from the wholesalers, at least, a little. A normal seasonal rise, however, has by no means materialized."

The unsettlement in England and Germany is affecting the same industries, notably the fruit canning in California, it was said, and the change in the gold standard has also retarded exports of shoes and woolen goods.

Weather Aids Sales.

"Brisk wool weather during the week accelerated the demand for nearly all grades of seasonable merchandise, with the movement particularly accentuated in millinery, shoes, wearing apparel, draperies and household equipment," Dun's says. "Heavy promotion work is being continued by the majority of retail establishments, with anniversary sales and novelty merchandise appeals featuring activities.

"The volume of dry goods and clothing sales shows considerable gain over that of former weeks and measures well up to the volume of last year. General retail collections in September were about 1 per cent better than in August, and stocks of goods on shelves were nearly 9.9 per cent smaller in selling value than those at the end of September, 1930.

More Wholesale Activity.

Wholesale markets took on more activity, in marked contrast to the dullness of the week preceding. While orders made up the bulk of the business, the improvement in retail sales has brought more generous commitments for future requirements, due to the growing difficulty of obtaining merchandise as quickly as needed. Clothing lines in both men's and women's wear are more active.

"Sales of furs at wholesale are showing a good increase. Production and sales of jewelry are only slightly below those of a year ago. The shoe industry appears to be hesitating. Rough leather manufacturing for seven months was about 4 per cent ahead of the record for the same period of 1930. Wool consumption is running about 20 per cent higher, with the August figures disclosing the best activity since May, 1928. The September failure report makes the best showing for more than a year."

EASTERN ROADS TO SUBMIT PLAN TO I. C. C. TODAY

New York, Oct. 2.—(AP)—Parties to the four-party eastern railroad unification plan intend to submit their agreement, reached yesterday, to the interstate commerce commission tomorrow, it became known today.

Although there was no official announcement of the details of the plan, some of which had been in dispute, Jones & Co. said that the agreement was made possible through readjustment by the Pennsylvania railroad of certain of its claims which were opposed by the New York Central.

BOND MART RECOVERY IS LED BY U. S. ISSUES; FOREIGN LINES RALLY

New York, Oct. 2.—(AP)—The bond market hardened again today, led by United States governments. Liberties and Treasuries retraced about as fast as they had slid down and net gains ranged up to three-quarters of a point. Liberty 4¼s were in heavy demand and rallied 8-16, and the Treasury 3s, in a lesser turnover, closed 1-16 higher.

Minus signs virtually disappeared from the list of active foreign issues. British governments rose 2 to 4 points, and gains in Italian issues were nearly as large. Japanese, French, and German issues improved markedly, although German 5½s after early strength receded 2¾ net. Argentine and Colombians were the strongest of the South Americans.

Railroads, utilities and industrials were mixed. American Telephone 5½s, Baltimore and Ohio issues, Columbia Gas and Electric 5s, Great Northern, Grand Trunk and International Telephone bonds, North American 5s, Standard Oil of New Jersey 5s, Atchison 4s and Union Pacific 4s were among those that improved. General Theaters 6s receded 2 points. Other weak spots were Frisco 4½s, Texas Corp. 5s, New York Central 4s of '98 and Burlington Illinois 4s.

Luck Seen Playing Little Part in Business Success

BY SCRUTATOR.

Success stories are always interesting, particularly when they are chronicles of prosperity in unprosperous times. The concern that is able to buck the trend and reap better profits in a poor year not only deserves mention but provides an example that well may be carefully studied.

Reports frequently are published of this or that company's doing better this year than last. Throughout the country and in almost every industry some concerns are making more money now than they made in the past.

Why?

A detailed analysis of 526 industrial corporations has been made by Ernst & Ernst to discover the answer to that question.

They found that of these 526 corporations chosen at random one-fourth had better records in the first half of 1931 than in the corresponding period of 1930.

No One Section Favored.

In the search for causes it was discovered that no one section of the nation was particularly favored and that no single industry contained a disproportionate share of prosperous companies.

No external influence, then, was responsible for the success of the fortunate fourth. The secret was within. Furthermore, in no case was the result due merely to a fortunate combination of circumstances. There was little of the element of luck.

"In every case studied," was the report, "the reason for success is found to be internal and almost personal. The president or other directing executive of the business is discovered to be an aggressive person, with a well knit small staff of subordinate executives, each of whom knows his particular job and pays attention exclusively to doing it, with a minimum of attention to the surrounding discouragements of slack general business."

One manufacturer is doing better because he has developed a new and meritorious product. A chain store system is making headway because it has tightened its organization. A department store is earning more because it has improved its organization, analyzed its customers and directed a new advertising policy to them. A mill is doing well because it studied costs and installed new management. A manufacturer of automobile accessories has profited by improving his product and embarking on a new advertising plan.

Definite Policy Followed.

The analysis revealed that in each case where concerns are making notable records of profit a definite and continuous policy is being followed. If these policies are altered it is for a well devised reason. There is no drifting before the wind.

Practically all currently successful companies have effected economies, but these have not been merely cuts in expenditures. Often they have to do with remodeling the organization so that better results may be derived from a given amount of machinery or personel effort.

Study Their Markets.

Many of the prosperous companies were found to have made wage cuts, but usually these were accompanied by assurance of continued employment as well as by full explanations to the employés of the necessities of such action.

Several other things were noted about the companies that have been doing well. A large proportion of them have studied their markets more carefully and have aimed directly at prospective buyers. The quality of their goods has not generally declined. Rather, improvement of quality seems to be the tendency. Overhead has not been excessive. Neither the small business nor the large business seemed to have the advantage, indicating that progress has resulted from management efficiency rather than size.

HIBERNIA TRUST AND LIBERTY NATIONAL OF NEW YORK WILL MERGE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 2.—On the heels of the successful conclusion late yesterday of negotiations for a merger of the Bank of America N. A., and the National City bank in a $2,300,000,000 consolidation, it was learned today that two smaller banks, each operating branch offices, were near a similar consolidation.

These two smaller institutions are the Hibernia Trust company and the Liberty National Bank and Trust company. The latter is to be absorbed by the former. Philip Deronde, president of the Hibernia, confirmed the negotiations and said: "Conversations with the Liberty National Bank and Trust company have taken place and have reached a fairly advanced stage."

John J. Mulligan, president of Liberty National, said that while nothing definite had been decided, the negotiations were well along. He indicated that more difinite information might be forthcoming in the near future.

Consolidation of the two banks will bring together resources of about $45,000,000. The Hibernia, in its June 30 statement, showed resources of $27,734,837, deposits of $22,101,762, and capital of $3,000,000. Surplus and undivided profits was $2,060,954. The Liberty National Bank and Trust company on the same date had resources of $18,232,997, deposits of $13,127,597 and capital of $1,750,000.

The Liberty was originally formed by William C. Durant in October 1923, and in recent years has been controlled by Herbert J. Yates and associates through the Setay corporation.

Auburn, Cord Shipments in Sept. Double Last Year

Shipments of Auburn and Cord cars for September totaled 851, approximately double the September, 1930, total, President R. H. Faulkner of the Auburn Automobile company announced yesterday. This makes cars shipped by Auburn the first nine months of 1931 aggregate 32,896, against total shipments the twelve months of last year of 13,693.

Loans to Members of N. Y. Exchange Drop to New Low

New York, Oct. 2.—(AP)—Collateral loans to members of the New York Stock Exchange declined $309,659,479 in September to a total of $1,044,407,879 as of Sept. 30, a new low record since publication of these figures was started in 1926. The previous low record was $1,344,092,754, reported July 31 last.

Standard Oil of Ohio Confirms Solar Merger

Cleveland, Oct. 2.—(AP)—Stockholders of the Standard Oil company of Ohio, today approved a merger with the Solar Refining company of Lima, O., on the basis of 2.6 shares of Solar for one of Standard. Today's action closed the deal.

FOREIGN MARKETS

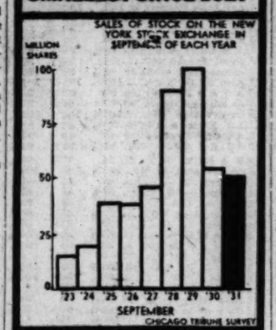
LONDON, Oct. 2.—(AP)—Activity in gilt edge securities featured the dealings on the stock exchange. After a sharp forenoon advance on good buying, they relapsed under a wave of profit taking, but closed with a good recovery. The other sections were dull. Sterling was steady. Cables on New York were quoted at $3.97 and on Paris at 101 francs.

PARIS, Oct. 2.—(AP)—Trading on the bourse was marked by active buying of French rentes, the five percents of 1915-16 closing at 102 francs. Industrial stocks and coal and electric shares were nervous and lower, with business inactive. Closed irregular.

Foreign Exchange Irregular.

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—(AP)—Foreign exchanges were irregular. Rates follow: Great Britain, cables, 3.89c; France, 3.93⅜c; Italy, 5.15c; Belgium, 13.96c; Germany, 23.58c; Holland, 40.20c; Norway, 22.50c; Sweden, 22.85c; Denmark, 22.90c; Switzerland, 19.60c; Spain, 8.095c; Portugal, 4.42c; Greece, 1.20⅛c; Poland, 11.23c; Czechoslovakia, 2.96¾c; Jugoslavia, 1.77c; Austria, 14.06c; Rumania, 0.59½c; Argentina, 24.02c; Brazil, 6.35c; Tokio, 40.38c; Shanghai, 31.58c; Montreal, 97.50c; Mexico City (silver peso), 36.90c.

SEPTEMBER STOCK SALES ON THE NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE WERE SMALLEST SINCE 1927



CANADA TO PAY FOREIGN HOLDERS OF BONDS IN GOLD

English Shipment Is Received in N. Y.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MONTREAL, Que., Oct. 2.—Obligations of the Canadian government in connection with the maturity of the 1916 second war loan, payment of which was due yesterday, are being met in gold for the foreign holders, it was learned from the agents who are handling the maturities for United States clients.

The gold reserves located in Toronto and Ottawa are being called on to meet the demands or requests from these holders. No yellow metal will be paid from Montreal, according to present instructions. The local office of the receiver-general can only take an application for gold which would be forwarded to Ottawa.

Seek to Retain Gold.

The procedure necessary to obtain the gold for the United States holders of the bonds which matured yesterday has been complicated somewhat in what is believed to be an attempt to discourage flow of gold out of Canada. The receiver-general's offices are paying for the script in checks drawn on the Bank of Montreal at Ottawa. These checks are to be paid in legal tender of the country, which, in turn, must be presented to the receiver-general's offices with the request for gold.

Accompanying the request for gold, arising out of the redemption of the bonds, there must be presented suitable evidence as to the residence of the holder, as well as a statement showing the purchase of the bond to have been a reasonable length of time in advance of the maturity date. To a bona fide United States holder, it is considered that payment should be made in gold, to overcome the difference which exists between Canadian and United States dollars.

English Gold Reaches U. S.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 2.—The first importation of gold from England to the United States since Great Britain suspended the gold standard and for nearly two years took place today when $850,000 in that metal arrived on the Berengaria consigned to Kuhn, Loeb & Co. It was forwarded by N. M. Rothschild & Son of London.

With her balances here exhausted by the flight of currency from the British pound and the decline in the exchange value of the pound to less than $4, English debits here must, of course, be met in gold.

Germany Guards Capital.

BERLIN, Oct. 2.—(AP)—Measures against flight of capital were introduced today in a new emergency decree cutting to 200 marks (about $46) the value of foreign currency residents in Germany may possess without reporting to the Reichsbank. Persons are required to show a passport and a legitimate reason for purchases of currency up to 200 marks. Restrictions on larger amounts hitherto permitted for payment for imports also were strengthened.

The Reichsbank today reported that 222,000,000 marks (about $55,680,000) of gold and foreign exchange had been withdrawn in the week ending Sept. 30. The bank note circulation increased during the same period by 435,000,000 marks (about $104,400,000). The gold coverage thus dropped to 31.2 per cent, as compared with 40.1 per cent last week.

Colombia Curbs Gold Exports.

BOGOTA, Colombia, Oct. 2.—(AP)—Further restriction on the exportation of gold from Colombia was imposed by President Olaya Herrera today in fixing allowances of Colombian citizens living abroad. Hereafter Colombians in other lands may receive the following monthly sums from their financial sources in Colombia: A family head, $250; wife, $150; each child, $100; students, $120 to $150.

ALLIS CHALMERS PUTS DIVIDEND ON DOLLAR BASIS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 2.—Directors of Allis Chalmers Manufacturing company today declared a quarterly dividend of 25 cents a share, placing the issue on a $1 annual basis compared with $2 a share paid previously.

Massachusetts Power and Light Associates, part of the New England Power association, declared an initial dividend of 50 cents quarterly on its $3 dividend preferred, which was issued to former holders of North Boston Lighting properties under terms of offers of June 18 and Aug. 18, involving transfer of control of North Boston from the Charles H. Tenney & Co. interests.

Pittsburgh Plate Glass company declared a quarterly dividend of 25 cents, placing the stock on a $1 annual basis, against $2 previously.

Dunlop Tire and Rubber Co., Ltd., of Montreal omitted the quarterly dividend of $1.75 a share on the cumulative preferred. Teck-Hughes Gold Mines, Ltd., declared an extra dividend of 5 cents in addition to the regular quarterly dividend of 15 cents a share. This is the first extra the company has paid this year.

Erskin Danforth corporation omitted the quarterly $2 due on the preferred. Bancasicilia corporation omitted the 7½ cents quarterly due on its A and B stock. Roos Bros. declared a quarterly dividend of 10 cents on its common, compared with 31¼ cents paid in the previous quarter and 62½ cents in the quarter before that.

Railroad Group Announces Holiday Rate Reductions

Railroad excursion rates from Chicago and other central western cities to the west coast for Christmas holidays were announced yesterday by H. W. Siddall, chairman of the Transcontinental Passenger association. Rates for the 1932 summer excursion season for the same territory were also announced. The summer excursion rates will be effective from May 15 to Oct. 15.

BONDHOLDERS' COMMITTEE

THE MINNEAPOLIS AND ST. LOUIS RAILROAD COMPANY

FIRST AND REFUNDING MORTGAGE FOUR PER CENT. FIFTY YEAR GOLD BONDS, DUE MARCH 1, 1949

To Holders of Certificates of Deposit for the above-mentioned Bonds, issued under the Deposit Agreement dated as of October 3, 1923, as amended by amendment adopted as of September 14, 1928:

PLEASE TAKE NOTICE that the Bondholders' Committee has further amended the above-mentioned Deposit Agreement in the particulars specified below and has filed said amendments with City Bank Farmers Trust Company (formerly The Farmers Loan and Trust Company), 22 William Street, New York City, as Depositary under said Deposit Agreement, said amendments being in substance as follows:

1. Article Fifteenth of the Deposit Agreement is further amended by specifying the 5th day of October, 1934, as the date prior to which a plan and agreement shall be prepared or approved and adopted and notice of such preparation or approval and adoption published.

2. The amount that the Committee is authorized to exact or collect from the Depositors or the deposited securities for expenses and compensation of the Committee is increased to not exceeding four per cent. (4%) of the face amount of the certificates of deposit issued under the Deposit Agreement, and Articles Tenth and Eleventh of the Deposit Agreement are amended accordingly;

All as more fully appears from the amendments as filed with the Depositary as aforesaid.

Under Article Twelfth of the aforesaid Deposit Agreement you may, at any time within fifteen days from the date hereof, upon surrender of your certificates of deposit in transferable form to City Bank Farmers Trust Company, Depositary, at its office aforesaid and upon payment to the Depositary for account of the Committee of two per cent. of the face value of your certificates of deposit, withdraw from the said Deposit Agreement, receive bonds of said issue to the principal amount called for by the certificates of deposit so surrendered, and thereupon cease to have any rights under the said Deposit Agreement. Depositors who do not so withdraw within said period of fifteen days shall be conclusively and finally deemed for all purposes to have assented to the foregoing amendments and shall be irrevocably bound thereby.

Dated, New York, N. Y., September 19, 1931.

Treasury Deficit Grows; Expenses Rise, Income Falls

Washington, D. C., Oct. 2.—(AP)—A growing burden of expenditures and a lessening tug on the income traces has mired the treasury into a deficit of $330,495,854 for the first quarter of the present fiscal year. A year ago the treasury finished the first quarter on Sept. 30 with a surplus of $55,148,670, but at the end of the year it was $903,000,000 in the red.

In the three months starting last July 1 the treasury collected from all sources $588,175,732 and spent $968,671,586. For the same period last year $832,674,001 was collected. Income taxes for this quarter showed a sharp decline, with only $313,837,120 being collected, as compared with $554,386,119 last year. Miscellaneous taxes also dropped approximately $13,000,000 with a total of $143,099,841. Customs receipts, however, increased, with $108,219,949 collected this year, as compared to $94,932,429 last year.

View on Customs Receipts.

The increase in customs receipts was not accepted by officials as indicative of any general upward trend in that class of revenue because July, August and September of last year produced the smallest amount of customs receipts in more than a decade. In July and August customs receipts were greater than a year ago but in September they amounted to only $35,500,210, as compared with $36,653,032 last year.

On the expenditure side the government put out approximately $191,000,000 more than in the first quarter of last year, with a total since July 1 of $968,671,586. The general expenditures of the government, which include the cost of operating its business, amounted to $739,761,485, as compared with $557,877,294 in the same period of last year.

The postal deficiency, which amounted to $25,004,582 in the first quarter of last year, went up to $45,000,000 this year. The farm board, which spent only $22,894,464 in the first quarter a year ago, spent $76,326,096 this year.

Income Tax Blamed.

The chief contributing factor to the deficit, however, was a drop of $231,000,000 in income tax receipts for the quarter. These payments due on Sept. 15 totaled only $267,257,654, as compared with $498,520,393. The drop was slightly greater than the treasury had estimated.

On Sept. 30 the gross public debt amounted to $17,329,606,667, as compared with $16,863,781,233 on Aug. 31 and $16,080,512,702 on Sept. 30 a year ago. The increase reflected the $903,000,000 deficit in government operations last year together with small increases in the amount of securities issued for refunding purposes.

MERGER TO UNITE TWO LARGE OIL BURNER FIRMS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 2.—A merger that will unite the Silent Automatic company and the Timken Detroit company, both manufacturers of oil burner equipment, under the corporate name of the Timken Silent Automatic company was announced here today by Haldeman Finnie, vice president of the Timken Detroit company. The consolidation is effective as of Jan. 1, 1932. The amalgamation of these concerns brings into the industry what is said to be its largest concern.

The two firms will continue their operations independently for the time being. As soon as circumstances permit in 1932, manufacturing will be concentrated in the Timken Detroit company's plant. Sales organizations of both firms are carrying on for the time being.

Col. Fred Glover will head the Timken Silent Automatic company as president, with Mr. Finnie as vice president and general manager. Walter F. Tant, president of Silent Automatic, will have a large financial interest in the new company and will assist in mapping sales policies.

9 DIRECTORS OF UNION BANK GET NEW POSITIONS

Nine former directors of the Union Bank of Chicago were elected to the board of the Chicago Bank of Commerce at a meeting late yesterday. The Union bank was recently merged with the Bank of Commerce. The action was taken by the executive committee of the Chicago Bank of Commerce with the concurrence of the majority of stockholders of both banks, it was stated.

It was also announced that a special meeting of stockholders of the new bank will be held Nov. 2 for the purpose of electing additional directors. Officers of the Union bank who will be affiliated with the new institution will be announced at that time. New directors named yesterday are Walter J. Buettner, William Cameron, C. Wallace Johnson, Lloyd Maxwell, Werner A. Weiboldt, Charles E. Schlytern, former chairman of the Union bank; H. R. Kent, former vice chairman of the Union bank, and Daniel V. Harkin and Clarke Washburne, formerly president and vice president, respectively, of the Union bank.

BY FRED HARVEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 2.—There was little in the day's news to clarify Wall street's muddled state of mind regarding the future course of the stock market and price movements on the exchange beat a somewhat erratic course.

The market started out like a house afire, but the stimulated values began to attract profit taking in short order and by the end of the first hour the rally had pretty well petered out. A reaction was followed by another spurt in the afternoon, which likewise blew up before it had gone very far. Final prices were irregularly better, however, most of the active leaders showing gains of from a fraction to about 2 points.

Business was at a somewhat slower pace, the turnover totaling about 2,500,000 shares—more than a million short of yesterday's.

Started by Bank Merger.

Acquisition of the Bank of America by the National City bank was made the excuse for the opening upturn. Bigger developments with a more important bearing on the market have gone unnoticed, but the street was "sold" on the idea that a reversal of the downward trend of the last week or so was in order and the overnight development, setting at rest, as it was calculated to do, some unfavorable rumors regarding the lesser of the two merged banks seemed to be a likely spot to start the thing. Later in the day there were better prices for wheat and improved figures on bonds to help those trying to brighten up the picture.

On the adverse side of the account was the failure of the railroad shares to respond to the announcement of a final agreement in the eastern merger deal with a really worth while

Household's leadership brings lower cost on small loans to a larger number of Chicago families

THREE years ago Household Finance Corporation, America's foremost family finance organization, reduced its charges on loans above $100 up to $300, nearly ⅓ below the maximum rates allowed by Illinois Small Loan Laws.

Household has always maintained that competition—the public's use of its bargaining power—would bring charges on small loans to the lowest level on which well managed and efficient businesses could operate.

After three years, Household's contention has been justified. A competitor has just announced a reduction in rates. We are glad to see another large company in the low rate field.

Its rates are not yet quite as low as Household's on the majority of loans. It is still charging the average borrower* more than Household charges.

Nevertheless, this competitor's charges are now very reasonable. We hope that its experiment will prove successful, and that it will be able to continue to charge moderate rates.

Household repeats its pledge: "Whenever it is possible to operate at a lower cost through further increases in volume of business and efficiency of management, its rate will be reduced still lower."

*The average small loan, taken from our records, is $200. Household's average monthly charge on this sum, repaid in 20 equal monthly payments, is $2.63—the lowest cost in Chicago.

Estimated receipts at Chicago today: Cattle, 200; hogs, 6,000; sheep, 1,000.

Hogs ruled steady to 10c higher at the opening yesterday and bulk of offerings changed hands on that basis, but weakness appeared later and practically all of the gain was erased. The extreme top moved up 10c at $5.80, while the general average showed 5c gain at $5.25. The broadest eastern orders for Friday since early in the year was a feature of the trade. Outsiders bought 35 per cent of fresh receipts, against 26 per cent a week ago and only 2,000 pen holders and inrerior grades were left at the close.

Light weight hogs comprised a big share of offerings again yesterday. "There is no telling how far producers may carry this distressing liquidation of light weight hogs and pigs," Charles Wilson, president of the Chicago Live Stock exchange, remarked yesterday. "Many farmers who were in dire need of cash unloaded thousands of light weights on the basis of $3.50 in the country, throwing enough panic into others to bring almost a general liquidation. The lack of confidence in the winter hog market is also partly to blame."

Plenty of Buyers.

There have been plenty of buyers for the large number of light weight young healthy hogs lately and, with the wholesale trade more accustomed to handling cuts from 4 to 5 months old pigs, consumer demand for them is rapidly expanding. The attraction, no doubt, is the extremely low price at which selected light pork can be obtained. Many packers who were never known to trade in anything but heavy hogs carry special orders for light lights and pigs. Much demand is for 50@80 lb averages for roasting whole.

Buyers who bought some light weights at the low point of the week for "fest," increased their orders almost immediately and are paying 50@ 75c more for them than they did at the low time Tuesday, indicating that selected young hogs are well worth the money to packers at $5.00 and less. Many believe that the low point of the winter has been established on light and underweight hogs that have been selling as low as $5.00@9.00 per head. Some roasting pigs have sold at only $2.50@2.00 per head.

December Hog Offers, $4.75.

Heavy grades of hogs were offered as low as $4.75 for delivery during the last half of next December, but the highest bids for these contracts stopped at $4.50. Mediums for the same month were offered at $4.80 and also bid $4.50.

Sellers held best grades of steers at the week's full 25@40c advance yesterday and less weakness was noted in sales of plainer kinds, although the latter have been hard to sell on some days. Choice 998 lb yearlings topped the price list yesterday at $9.75, prime weighty beeves quoted at $10.00@10.40 being absent. Considering the fact that this week's cattle receipts are largest of the year, the trade has held up remarkably well. Receipts of hogs this week were the largest since last March, and sheep receipts were the largest of the year.

Lambs Bring $7.60.

Best grades of lambs sold readily at strong prices yesterday, the top on rangers reaching $7.60, while others were hard to dispose of at prices ranging downwards to $5.00. Quality is poorer than usual and hundreds of lambs in feeder flesh are going for slaughter at $5.00@5.50. Best natives held steady at $7.00 to packers, but city butchers took a few selections as high as $7.25. Aged sheep and yearlings were firm. Hundreds of solid mouth ewes are going for slaughter at $3.00@3.25 lately. Feeder lambs were steady at $5.00@5.50.

Receipts at Chicago for today are estimated at 200 cattle, 6,000 hogs, and 1,000 sheep, against 332 cattle, 4,868 hogs, and 2,582 sheep the previous Saturday, and 211 cattle, 4,187 hogs, and 1,555 sheep a year ago.

THIRTY BRITISH BUILDERS PLAN CHICAGO VISIT

To Spend 2 Days Seeing City Sights.

BY AL CHASE.

Thirty prominent builders of England, all representatives of the British Institute of Builders, who are visiting the principal cities of the United States and Canada to study construction methods and progress, will be guests of the Associated Builders of Chicago next week, on Wednesday and Thursday. H. Mayne Stanton, manager, yesterday announced a program of entertainment for the visitors.

The British party will tour the parks and boulevards and visit Chicago's great educational institutions on Wednesday morning. At a noon luncheon Isham Randolph, president of the Association of Commerce, will speak. In the afternoon they will be guests of the Chicago Building Managers' association and will visit several office buildings, the Merchandise Mart, etc.

Mayor to Welcome Them.

William F. Krahl, president of the Associated Builders, will preside at a banquet at the Architects' club in the evening, where they will meet Chicago's architects and contractors. Mayor Cermak and Building Commissioner Ericsson will officially welcome the group, and Oscar W. Rosenthal, president of the Illinois Builders' league, will speak. On Thursday the party will visit the stockyards, Board of Trade, lunch at the Tavern club and visit the World's Fair grounds.

E. F. and H. W. Niebuhr have leased for five years the residence at the southwest corner of Rush and Superior streets, from Miss Agnes D. Gleason, owner of the Parkway tearoom. It will be subleased for business on the first floor and apartments above. The house once was occupied by the Watson Blair family and the prince of Wales was once a guest there. The Bowes Realty company was broker. The lessees a month ago leased the store at 140 East Pearson street and state they will open a radio shop to be operated under the name of Niebuhr Bros. They now operate the Royal Radio company at the northeast corner of Michigan and Erie.

Assign Loop Lease.

Assignment of the lease on the property at 25 North Dearborn street, occupied by a nine story building which contained the banking quarters of the Union Bank of Chicago, was made yesterday by that institution to the Twenty-five North Dearborn Building corporation, composed of stockholders in the bank. Clarke Washburne is president of the corporation. Other directors are C. Wallace Johnson, Andrew T. Murphy and Joseph R. Fleming.

The original 198 year lease was dated June 15, 1911, and now has 178 years to run. The annual rental is $6,000. The original lessors were Owen F. Aldis, Bryan Lathrop, Russell Tyson of Chicago, Richard M. Bradley of Brookline, Mass., and Sydney Richmond Taber of Lake Forest as trustees under an agreement known as the Chicago Real Estate Agreement and Declaration of Trust.

The property fronts ninety feet on Dearborn and is 120 feet deep. It is improved with a nine story building originally known as the Grannis block, and erected by Amos Grannis in the early eighties. In 1885 it was partly destroyed by fire and rebuilt to its present state. Burnham & Root were the architects of the original structure and had their offices in it for several years. The board of review has valued the land and building at $2,380,380. The lease contains a clause which states that the lessee may at any time erect a building to cost not less than $300,000.

FAINT LIGHT AT LAST SLIPS INTO LA SALLE STREET

A faint light was visible yesterday in the cavernous researches of the financial district. For the first time in days hope penetrated the thick gloom and found its way into even the darkest corners of the stuffiest brokerage offices. For the stock market's barometer, absolute ruler of sentiment in trading circles, had shown a tendency to rise toward the end of the day.

Actually it was the second consecutive day in which stocks were moving up when the final gong sounded, but the previous day's slight rise had not convinced any one. However, yesterday brokers found encouragement in the fact that for two days straight stocks were looking up when closing time approached. It meant, it was said, that traders were beginning to show more caution in buying short overnight. And this, at last, was a straw in the wind. Buying late in the day had lifted prices moderately and this was attributed to the short covering of uneasy and perhaps conscience stricken bears.

What preceded the late upturn was about what has happened on any number of days in recent weeks. It soon found that many stocks could sell at even lower prices, and they did. From record low quotations they slipped to still lower levels. Inasmuch as a majority of shares were at record low prices it didn't take much slipping to establish the lower marks.

The belated rallying tendency was not as pronounced on the Chicago exchange as in New York and many stocks here were forced to spend the night in their new low positions. Instead among them were several preferred stocks which only recently have been sucked into the stream of liquidation. Middle West Utilities 6 per cent preferred found itself selling at 65, which was a new sensation for it and represented a net decline for the day of 2 points. Midland United preferred prior lien was down several points, and other preferred seniors in the group were weak.

WHEAT IGNORES WALL STREET TO SCORE ADVANCE

Corn Futures First Gain and Then Decline.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

The wheat market continues to pay little attention to anything of a depressing character and prices advanced yesterday in the face of the weakness in securities in Wall street, closing ¾c higher, with December 47¾c and May at 51¼c. An advance of 1@1¾d in Liverpool was largely responsible for the upturn which was checked by selling against offers.

Outside interest in the wheat market yesterday was said by pit brokers to be the smallest in a long time, but there was no pressure of consequence and the trade paid more attention tha nof late to the fluctuations in Liverpool, as cables from there claimed there was a more friendly feeling toward the buying side, although further pressure of Canadian and Russian grain was reported. Liverpool finished 1@1¾d higher, with prices in gold showing the same appreciation, the exchange rate of $3.94 being the same as the previous day. December there finished at 52¾c per bu, showing 3¼c above the finish of a week ago.

Trade Watching Russia.

London cables claimed that the suspension by England of the gold standard had resulted in a crisis in the Russian financial situation, and while the trade paid considerable attention to the report, no one seemed to be able to determine what effect, if any, it would have on the market, although in some quarters the belief prevailed that increased exports of grain were likely ultimately as the result of an increased need to secure foreign currency on the part of that country. Russian grain collections in the interior of late have been much less than called for under the so called "plan."

Favorable weather in the Canadian northwest has resulted in wheat threshing making rapid progress and farmers' deliveries at interior elevators in the prairie provinces on Thursday aggregated close to 2,000,000 bu. The grain, however, was not all hedged, judging from the rather limited pressure on the Winnipeg market. The latter finished unchanged to ¾c lower, with December at 52½c in Canadian currency, which was quoted at a discount of around 13 per cent as compared with American.

London was reported to have bought May wheat at Winnipeg, and there was also support from New York and Chicago interests, the latter representing spreading operations. Export demand was rejatively slow, with sales of 300,000 bu reported in all positions, partly hard winters, but no information was given as to the price. It is claimed that the bulk of the Canadian wheat held in the east has been sold, and further export business should be reflected in the October delivery due to the removal of hedges. American mills are said to be long October in the Canadian market and to be waiting for the grain to be delivered on future contracts.

New Low on Corn.

Corn futures were around ½c higher early, but the market developed weakness toward the last on commission house and local selling and broke 2¾c from the high point and sold at a new low for the season on all deliveries, the finish being at the bottom with net losses of ¾@1¼c. December closed at 34¾ to 34⅞c, and May at 38⅝c to 38¾c, buying against bids checking the decline. Early there had been selling against offers.

Field work is making good progress in the west and St. Louis received its first car of new grain of the season. Cash No. 4 yellow and sold at 34c, the quality being regarded as very favorable for so early in the year. Liquidation of old grain by the country continues and purchases of 125,000 bu to arrive were reported by local handlers, while shipping sales were 60,000 bu. Low prices for feed is having some effect on the cash demand, bran dropping to $10 per ton yesterday, the lowest figure in years.

Oats were firm early, only to break later with corn and close ⅛@⅜c lower. December finished at 21⅝c to 21¾c, and May at 24¼ to 24¾c. Rye showed independent strength and gained ¾@1¼c for the day, with the northwest a fair buyer. December closed at 38½c, and May at 40¾c. Timothy seed $3.25@3.50; clover, $10.50@14.25 per 100 lbs. Flaxseed, $1.33.

SUGAR.

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—(AP)—SUGAR—Raw was firmer today with refiners showing more interest. Prices advanced about 1-16c of a cent to the basis of 3.45c for spots.

While somewhat irregular, early futures gradually up on increased covering and trade buying, reflecting the better spot market and more settled conditions in refined, with the market closing net unchanged to 2 points higher. The market showed net losses of 1 to 2 points under liquidation and commission house selling. Approximate sales, 12,100 tons. Prices follow:

The feature in the situation appeared more settled and all allowances were withdrawn with all refiners now quoting 4c for basis of 4.50c for fine granulated. The demand was a little more active.

COFFEE.

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—(AP)—COFFEE—Futures were quiet again today, with early interest on a little covering or Brazilian buying followed by declines under liquidation and European selling. No. 7 net 6@13 points lower. Sales, 5,000 bags. Santos showed net 6@13 points lower; sales, 13,000 bags. Closing quotations: Santos contracts, October, 6.76c; December, 6.92c; March, 7.14c; May, 7.35c; July, 7.35c; September, 7.45c. No. 7 prices follow:

WOOL.

LONDON, Oct. 2.—(AP)—There was a large attendance at the wool sales today. Good, general inquiry was noted and Merinos were frequently withdrawn dues to the high asking prices. Slipes were in good demand and Cape of Good Hope and Natals were freely bought in. The sales will close on Oct. 7, instead of Oct. 6, as previously announced.

General Motors.

Is General Motors corporation common stock a good investment? Is it about as low as it will go?—A. D. K.

General Motors corporation is one of the largest industrial enterprises in the world in the point of earnings. The manufacture of automobiles contributes about one-half its operating income. Its leading automotive divisions each taps a different price class. Subsidiaries are active in the electric refrigerator, electric plant, credit, insurance, radio, aviation and accessory fields. The company owns a half interest in Ethyl Gasoline corporation. It is well integrated. Its policies are dominated by E. I. du Pont de Nemours company.

The company has established a reputation for efficient operation. It keeps close contacts with dealers and can change its rate of production weekly with little loss of efficiency. Annual sales rose steadily from 1925 through 1929, the peak year. For 1930 net sales were $983,375,187, against $1,504,404,472 for 1929. Net income for 1930 was $153,766,247, or $3.32 per common share, against $247,317,743, or $5.44 per common share in 1929. For 1928 net income was $273,559,091, and for 1927 $239,264,724.

For the first half of 1931 net income was $84,122,176, or $1.83 per common share, against $105,932,428, or $2.32 per common share [$2.15 per share had nonrecurring profits been excluded] for the first half of 1930. For the first eight months of 1931 total sales to dealers, both domestic and foreign, were 881,724 units, against 929,805 units for the first eight months of 1930.

Current position on June 30, 1931, was strong. Current assets were $417,092,803, and current liabilities $88,441,053. Cash and marketable securities alone were about $246,000,000. Working

[Acme Photo.]

ANOTHER STEP ON THE WAY HOME WITH THE FIRST RUN OF THE GAME. Pepper Martin safe after stealing third in the second inning. He so disconcerted Cochrane, the Athletics' catcher, that he nearly threw into left field. A minute later Martin trotted home on Wilson's long fly. (Story on page 19.)

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

PROHIBITION AGENTS RAID CHICAGO'S MOST PRETENTIOUS SPEAKEASY. Bottles of liquor and Canadian ale on 50 foot mahogany bar at 114 North Dearborn street ready to be carted away by four government vans. Louis Weiss, who said he was porter, was arrested as owner. (Story on page 1.)

MAYOR MAKES AN UNEXPECTED VISIT TO POLICE HEADQUARTERS. Mayor Cermak watching the police operators at work in their quarters at 11th and State streets. With the mayor are H. T. Hollingshead (left) and T. B. Caldwell, friends of the mayor.

[Acme Photo.]

SAFE AT THE PLATE AFTER SQUEEZE PLAY IN THE SEVENTH INNING. This picture was taken a fraction of a second after the one above. It shows Cochrane, the Athletics' catcher, turning to tag Pepper Martin, whose slide has carried him well out of reach. The arrow points to the ball. (Story on page 19.)

PHYSICIAN SENTENCED TO THREE YEARS IN PRISON. Dr. Amante Rongetti (center), handcuffed to another prisoner, led from Judge Barnes' court after being given term for violating drug act. He was previously sentenced in state court for murder by abortion, but appealed.
